THE CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS

OF

2 GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND

DURING THE MIDDLE AGES.

PUBLISHED BY THE AUTHORITY OF HER MAJESTY'S TREASURY, UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS.

ON the 26th of January 1857, the Master of the Rolls submitted to the Treasury a proposal for the publication of materials for the History of this Country from the Invasion of the Romans to the reign of Henry VIII.

The Master of the Rolls suggested that these materials should be selected for publication under competent editors without reference to periodical or chronological arrangement, without mutilation or abridgment, preference being given, in the first instance, to such materials as were most scarce and valuable.

He proposed that each chronicle or historical document to be edited should be treated in the same way as if the editor were engaged on an Editio Princeps; and for this purpose the most correct text should be formed from an accurate collation of the best MSS.

To render the work more generally useful, the Master of the Rolls suggested that the editor should give an account of the MSS. employed by him, of their age and their peculiarities; that he should add to the work a brief account of the life and times of the author, and any remarks necessary to explain the chronology; but no other note or comment was to be allowed, except what might be necessary to establish the correctness of the text.

The works to be published in octavo, separately, as they were finished; the whole responsibility of the task resting upon the editors, who were to be chosen by the Master of the Rolls with the sanction of the Treasury.

The Lords of Her Majesty's Treasury, after a careful consideration of the subject, expressed their opinion in a Treasury Minute, dated February 9, 1857, that the plan recommended by the Master of the Rolls "was well calculated for the accomplishment of this important national object, in an effectual and satisfactory manner, within a reasonable time, and provided proper attention be paid to economy, in making the detailed arrangements, without unnecessary expense."

They expressed their approbation of the proposal that each Chronicle and historical document should be edited in such a manner as to represent with all possible correctness the text of each writer, derived from a collation of the best MSS., and that no notes should be added, except such as were illustrative of the various readings. They suggested, however, that the preface to each work should contain, in addition to the particulars proposed by the Master of the Rolls, a biographical account of the author, so far as authentic materials existed for that purpose, and an estimate of his historical credibility and value.

P R E F A C E.

This second volume of Archbishop Peckham's letters extends over a period of nearly two years, from August 1282 to June 1284. During this period the archbishop travelled over a great part of his province, visiting the dioceses through which he passed and correcting abuses both among the secular clergy and in the religious houses. The most important events recorded are his two visits to Wales, undertaken to assist in pacifying that country. To understand the state of things which led him to take this journey it is necessary to go back and recapitulate the events of the last few years.

In 1240 Llewellyn ap Jorwerth, "the most valiant and ^{Welsh} noble prince, who had brought all Wales to his sub-^{affairs.}jection,"¹ died, leaving by his wife Joan, king John's natural daughter, a son David and a daughter Gladys, married to Sir Ralph de Mortemer, and also an illegitimate son named Gruffyth, older than either of them.² Gruffyth was a valiant soldier, beloved of the people, but restless and turbulent. Once he and his father had stood face to face with their armies, but the impending battle had been averted by wise counsel, and later the son had suffered six years' imprisonment at his father's hand for some fresh offence.³

David succeeded to the principality, for which he did homage to Henry III., and like an eastern sultan, kept his brother in close prison for fear of his attempting to dispossess him. The clergy and most of the laity took Gruffyth's part. The bishop of Bangor excommunicated the prince, and sought Henry's intercession, but without effect.

³ Brut y Tywysogion, 307.

At last the king yielded to the persuasion of the Welsh lords, and made a treaty with Senena, Gruffyth's wife, for the liberation of her husband. David thereupon submitted, but he managed privately to work so much upon the king's fears by representing to him the warlike disposition of his bastard brother, that notwithstanding the treaty Gruffyth soon found himself lodged in the Tower of London, whence he tried to escape by making a rope of his sheets, but being heavy he fell and broke his neck.¹ This was in 1244.

Two years later David himself died. The people refused to acknowledge Roger Mortimer, son of his sister Gladys, as his heir, being only half a Welshman, and sent for Owen Goch² and Llewellyn, sons of the unfortunate Gruffyth, to whom they did homage. These two divided the principality between them, and were strong enough to repel an English army, though not without the loss of the cathedrals of St. Asaph and Bangor, which were both burnt.

After eight years of this divided reign, Owen and his younger brother David rose against Llewellyn and tried to dispossess him of his share, but only lost their own. From this time forward Llewellyn appears to have been possessed with a desire for conquering the whole of Wales, and freeing himself from English rule. At first he recovered the inland country of North Wales, Merionethshire, and the lands which prince Edward had possessed himself of in Cardigan, which he gave to his nephew Meredith. Then he drove Rhys Vachan out of Builth, settling Meredith ap Rhys there; he recovered Gwerthryneon from Sir Roger Mortimer, and Powys land from Gruffyth ap Gwenwynwyn, an adherent of England.³ He defeated the English with considerable loss at Dyncfawr, and overran the whole of the county of Chester. At the height of his success he offered to make peace, or rather his lords compelled him to do so, foreseeing that the discord between the brothers would prevent their ever being really strong enough to resist the common enemy.¹ Their overtures were refused, and Llewellyn continued the war, dispossessing Roger Mortimer, and invading the earldom of Chester. He yielded so far to the wishes of his people as to set free his brother David, who immediately went over to the English. Soon after Meredyth ap Owen, his chief support in South Wales, died, and Gruffyth ap Gwenwynwyn, in attempting to recover Powysland, succeeded in occupying the castle of Molde; so that when in the summer of 1267² the prince found an English royal army marching against him, he judged it wise to listen to the pacific counsels of the legate Ottobonus, whom Henry III. had commissioned to negotiate a peace. On Michaelmas day, 1267, at Montgomery, a treaty was signed, of which the principal provisions were as follows.³

Llewellyn agreed to restore lands lately taken from England, except Brecon, Wercrennon, (Gwerthryneon), Burget, Kede Wien and Kery. Roger de Mortemer was allowed to build a castle at Maclenich, but both castle and land were to be restored to Llewellyn if determined to be his when tried by the customs of the Marches. Llewellyn was to receive the accustomed service from the castle and land of Whittington,⁴ but the castle itself was to be in the king's hands. Llewellyn agreed to restore his lands in Hawarden to Robert de Monthaut on condition that no castle should be built there for 30 years, but refused to do the same to Gruffyth Gwen-wynwyn¹ until he left the king of England and did fealty to him.

In return the king granted to Llewellyn and his heirs the principality, with the fealty and homage of the barons and people who held their lands of them in chief, with the exception of Maraduc, or Meredydd, son of Rys, whose homage the king retained, though the prince was bound to restore him. If the king were willing hereafter to transfer his homage, Llewellyn would pay 5,000 marks for it. On behalf of David, Llewellyn's brother, it was stipulated that he should have all the lands he held before taking part with the English, and if he would not be content with this, his case should be considered by certain Welsh lords, in accordance with the laws of the country and in presence of one or two assessors sent by the king of England. The king gave to Llewellyn also the four cantreds of Perveddwlad² to be held as his predecessors had held them.

These four cantreds are constantly mentioned from this time to the death of Llewellyn. They were Rhos, in which was the castle of Diganwy or Gannock, near Conway; Rhyvoniog, the district round Denbigh; Tegeingl, or Englefield, near Rhuddlan, and Duffryn Clwyd higher up the river Clwyd, including Ruthin. Roughly speaking they are the country from the frontier of Cheshire to the water of Conway.

Both parties agreed not to maintain or assist each other's enemies, and the Welsh bound themselves to pay 25,000 marks damages to the king.

The conditions of this peace were never thoroughly carried out. During the remainder of Henry III.'s reign commissioners were more than once sent to the Marches to settle matters in dispute, but nothing seems to have been done. Llewellyn attacked and burnt Caerphilly castle belonging to the earl of Gloucester, and kept a force in the neighbourhood to prevent its being rebuilt, till he was promised that it should be held by the king and not by the earl until a formal decision was come to as to the rights of the dispute. This was repeatedly postponed, and no satisfactory settlement had been made, when on 16th Nov. 1272 Henry III. died. Within a very few days the archbishop of York and the earl of Cornwall wrote to require Llewellyn to meet the abbots of Dore and Haghmond at Montgomery Ford and perform his homage to the new king Edward,¹ who was on his way home from the Holy Land. From early in the morning till it was nearly dark they waited outside the castle, but neither the prince nor any messenger appeared.² That this was not accidental, but that the prince was beginning to think of another war with England, was evident from the fact that at this very time he was building a new castle near Montgomery, which the English council promptly forbade to be continued.

Llewellyn refused to be present at Edward's coronation,³ and took no notice of repeated summons to meet him near the borders and do his homage. He allowed the payments due by the treaty of 1267 to fall into arrear. He wrote to the pope representing the danger incurred by his people in entering England, and obtained a bull releasing the Welsh from appearing before the court of the archbishop of Canterbury; and, what was a distinct infraction of the allegiance owed to the king of England, he appealed to Rome to settle a dispute about land with his brother David,⁴ a matter which should have been settled by commissioners according to the laws and customs of the Marches. When Edward, tired of waiting at Chester, sent him a final summons⁵ to come to Westminster and do his homage at Michaelmas, Llewellyn must have known that a refusal would mean war. He therefore wrote to the pope a letter begging him not to believe untrue reports as to his conduct, and justifying himself by accusing the English in general terms of harbouring his enemies and summoning him to an unsafe place to do homage.¹ At the same time, as if repenting of his obstinacy, he offered to come to Montgomery or Whitchurch on safe-conduct. But this was too late. The king had already returned to Westminster, and his council advised² him not to accept this tardy submission, but to proceed against Llewellyn as a rebel for his refusal to do homage and to observe his treaty with Henry III.

The bishops³ indeed wrote to the prince to try and bring him to a better mind, but his answer⁴ merely recapitulates his charges against the king of seizing lands belonging to Welsh barons, of aiding and abetting David, his brother, Gruffyth ap Gwenwynwyn, and other of his enemies, and complaining that he is summoned to do homage at an unsafe place; in fact it bears throughout the tone of a man determined to make war, but anxious to throw the blame on others. War was accordingly commenced.

Rhys ap Meredith, one of the leading men in South Wales, joined the English, and many of Llewellyn's own subjects accepted the king's offer of peace made through the earl of Warwick, captain of Chester.

The king himself was at Chester in June 1277, while his brother Edmund and Pain de Chaworth⁵ were acting in South and West Wales. Flint and Rhuddlan castles were soon reduced. Anglesey was held by a fleet from the Cinque Ports. On August 16⁶ David came to the English camp at Basingwerk, and joined their party on condition of receiving either half of Snowdon, Anglesey, and Penchyn, or if the king preferred it, all Anglesey and Penchyn without Snowdon. Owen the eldest brother, whom Llewellyn had kept in prison, was to share in the spoils. No important engagements were fought, but in a very short time the Welsh prince saw that his prospects of success were hopeless. On November 10 a treaty was concluded, of which it is advisable to give full details, as the complaints of the Welsh¹ hereafter to be considered refer to it article by article. Llewellyn submits to the mercy of the king, and gives him 50,000*l.* as compensation for his disobedience. He resigns the four cantreds entirely, with other lands taken by the king, except Anglesey. If he claims any lands outside the cantreds² held by others than the king, justice shall be done to him according to the local laws and customs. He shall take the oath of fealty at Rhuddlan, previously having obtained absolution and freed his country from the interdict. He shall liberate his brother Owen, and make terms with him subject to the king's approval, or else Owen, under the king's protection, shall seek his rights by Welsh law. Llewellyn shall liberate Rhys ab Gruffyth, Owen ab Gruffyth ab Gwenwynwyn, David ab Gruffyth ab Owen Elisse, Madog ab Einion,³ and any other persons imprisoned for taking the king's part. The king grants to Llewellyn during his life the homage of David ab Gruffyth, of the two sons of Owain ab Bleddyn, and Rhys Vychan ab Rhys ab Maelgun.⁴ The last is to hold only the land he now has, the others all that they previously held. All others who come into the king's peace and remain so are to have the lands they then possessed. The king grants to Llewellyn all his brother David's inheritance, intending to compensate him elsewhere; and also the Isle of Anglesey for an annual payment of 1,000 marks. All persons holding land in the four cantreds, or other parts kept by the king in his own hand, (except those to whom the king has refused this favour) are to hold them as freely as before the war, with their old liberties and customs. All disputes between the prince and others, are to be decided by the laws of the Marches or of Wales, according to the locality. Gruffydd Vychan is to do homage for lands in Yale, and Llewellyn for lands in Edeyrnion,¹ held of the king. The king will confirm Llewellyn in possession of all the lands he now holds, except Anglesey, which he will confirm to him only for life and to the heirs of his body, and except the portion of David his brother. He will satisfy Owain and Rhodri, Llewellyn's two brothers whom he had imprisoned, and will confirm a future agreement made between them and Llewellyn. The prince shall come to Rhuddlan on safe conduct, and thence to London to do homage. Ten hostages are required, for the giving of whom Tewdwr ab Ednyved, Gronw ab Heylyn, and David ab Ennyaun pledge their oaths. Llewellyn and his council will immediately take the oath to keep the treaty, and twenty men from each cantred shall do the same annually and engage to transfer their allegiance to the king if the prince is in default.

The rigour of these terms was considerably mitigated by the conqueror. The payment of 50,000*l.* for damages was remitted directly after the peace was ratified, and so was the annual 1,000 marks for Anglesey, on condition that the reversion of it should come to the crown of England if Llewellyn died without issue.² Christmas was kept in London and the oaths of peace and fealty were solemnly renewed. The Welsh lords were lodged at Islington, and though hospitably entertained their digestions suffered from English fare, and their pride from London impudence.¹ David was taken into high favour. The king made him a knight, on account of his honesty and faithfulness, Trivet says sarcastically ; gave him the widowed daughter of the earl of Derby to wife, with lands in Cheshire, and the keepership of Rhuddlan, Hope and Denbigh castles.

Early in the following year (1278) arrangements were made for carrying out the terms of the treaty. Commissioners² were appointed, two at least of the five being Welshmen, to receive the oaths of the people, to take charge of the hostages, to set free prisoners, to redress injuries on both sides, and to see what dowry the prince would give to Eleanor de Montfort, his intended wife. The lady was at this time in Edward's custody,³ and she was married to Llewellyn in the king's presence at the door of the great church at Worcester⁴ in the following October "non sine magno cordis tripudio."⁵ Just before this ceremony, according to Llewellyn's own account,⁶ Edward forced him to subscribe a letter binding himself not to keep any man in his territory without the king's permission, "whence it might happen that all his faithful followers might be removed." He signed this, he says, "compelled by the fear which may fall upon a steadfast man," a curious phrase which occurs more than once in the series of Welsh remonstrances, and which suggests that Welsh courage was of the uncivilized order, fury without much self control. Such an engagement could only mean, as Llewellyn must have known, not native Welshmen but English outlaws. It clearly had reference to a letter from him in the early summer complaining of his outlaws being harboured in England.¹ He complained too of being cited to Montgomery by the justices. Edward's answer puts the case very clearly, that the old custom is for pleas about lands held in chief to be heard at certain fixed places, but cases concerning other lands on the spot; and this he repeats in a letter of July 14 as the correct interpretation of the article in the peace.² The prince also deprecates Edward's belief in unfavourable reports about his loyalty, which the king expresses his unwillingness to credit. Wikes speaks distinctly of such reports existing;³ of Llewellyn's refusal to attend Parliament at London just after Easter; of the king's marching to the west to find out the truth, and Llewellyn's satisfying him as to his loyalty. This must have been immediately after the parliament held at Gloucester on July 1.⁴

In the following year (1279) Wales appears to have been quiet. Peckham indeed writes to the prince⁵ complaining of his taking the goods of intestates according to the laws of Howel Dda, and otherwise infringing the liberties of the church. A document of 1276, quoted by Browne Willis states that the prince would not allow the bishops of St. Asaph to make wills, and even revoked their gifts made just before their death; and that he claimed the right of holding episcopal manors during a vacancy.⁶ But this was no infraction of the peace with England, and the Welsh were extremely tenacious of their own laws and customs. One of the chief sources of irritation was the attempt of the English justices, backed up by the king, to enforce the maxims and penalties of English law on the unwilling inhabitants of the four cantreds, who adhered to their own code even when it contradicted the Decalogue,⁷ and when given the choice, preferred the more burdensome and uncertain services to which they were accustomed to the more definite system of English tenure.¹ The king's intentions towards the country are well expressed in a letter of the archbishop's in 1280, after he had visited Wales in person to assist in settling a dispute between Llewellyn and the bishop of Bangor.² The prince was still at variance with his old enemy Gruffyth ab Gwenwynwyn, lord of Powys, whom Edward had restored, and dissatisfied with the actions of the English justices, complains that article II. has been violated. The reply is that the king considers that the "laws and customs" to be followed are those used by previous kings of England; that he and his council are bound to see reasonable justice done, while Welsh laws are unreasonable; that he is also bound by his coronation oath to abrogate bad laws and unjust customs, as many Welsh customs were, especially that allowing private revenge and money compositions for homicide; that if the king disregard reasonable laws and customs the Welsh will have just cause of complaint.

This is statesmanlike, but high-handed, as the king assumes the right to judge which laws and customs are reasonable. It sprang from a desire to see Wales quiet and peaceable, but it was not the way to conciliate a semi-barbarous people who could not forget that they had once possessed the whole island. A commission³ was issued to the bishop of St. Davids, Reginald de Grey, and others, to examine the records of law proceedings in Wales and the Marches in the time of the king's predecessors, and the justices were ordered to act in accordance with what was ascertained to be the previous practice. But this was hardly as much as the Welsh wanted. Wrecking, for instance, was one of their old customs, and the attempts of the English justices to stop it were made the occasion of bitter complaint.¹ All along the Marches there must have been constant disturbances. The "Grievances" show that English and Welsh could hardly meet without a collision. English masons² going home to Rhuddlan after their day's work met a Welsh "noble" and his wife, insulted her and killed her husband. Welsh farmers selling their produce at Rhuddlan were obliged to take what the English offered, or be flogged. Llangadog church had been desecrated and the chaplain half killed. Woods had been cut down, no doubt to make roads. Market regulations at Whitchurch were very stringent. Welsh horse dealers were fined for selling their nags outside the town, a rule which was common enough throughout England; and cattle dealers for letting their beasts stray about the streets. One man was even fined 5s. absque aliqua causa.

The case of the men of Geneuiglyn,³ which is rather obscurely expressed, and in referring to which Mr. Woodward⁴ comments on the unreasonableness of the Welsh objecting to a booty which they had taken being recovered from them, is explained by a letter from Llewellyn.⁵ It appears that the robbers were "your," i.e. the king's, men, of "Genevlynn," under Rys ab Einnann, a Welshman who was on the English side throughout. The Welsh had gone peaceably to ask redress, and been ill treated.

The constable of Oswestry was also an object of detestation. Among other misdeeds he is accused of forcing Llewellyn (not the prince) to send him two "nobles" to be hanged, "which hanging their parents "would not have borne for 300*l.*,"⁶ so that the life of a Welshman was valued at 150*l.* in those days.¹ It is not uncharitable to suppose that many of these acts were in retaliation. When the constable of Oswestry takes away a Welshman's horse without reason, it is very likely that his own may have been previously stolen. Justiciaries and bailiffs were sent, Llewellyn complains, to grow rich by their oppressions, and when replete² with unjust exactions, their places were filled by still more cruel men.

The exasperation of the Welsh became daily more intense. According to Llwyd, the editor of Caradoc,³ the Welsh reconciled David and Llewellyn with the express purpose of making an insurrection, and David, whose "probity and fidelity" Edward had acknowledged and rewarded, gladly consented. Some of his reasons for this step, as put forward by himself, are not very adequate.⁴ One of his woods has been cut down; he has been accused of harbouring thieves, whom in truth he has hanged; he has not been treated according to Welsh law, and he is so frightened by a report that he was to be captured and Hope castle taken from him, that he had no course left but to take up arms. His brother puts forward a very similar report as one of his reasons for revolting.

David's other complaints are of land being taken away from him, perhaps by sentence of law, and of his being summoned to Chester to defend his title to certain lands called Hope and Eston.⁵ His account of this matter is still extant in a letter from him to the king. One William de Venabeles impleaded him by writ of entry, and he was summoned to appear within the county of Cheshire. He went on the appointed day and publicly declared that as the land was Welsh and not in Cheshire he should not answer the plea, "and with a loud voice I placed God's peace and yours upon the said land, submitted myself (made obeisance) and retired."¹ The case is still being proceeded with, and he desires the king to stop proceedings and revoke it to his own court, ending his letter with an appeal to the king, that as he is by God's grace lord of divers countries and kingdoms, where divers laws are kept unchanged, that the laws of Wales, like those of other countries, may be preserved. Other complainants² argue from the case of the Jews, who still keep their own laws in England, that it is hard upon them to change theirs, which they say were unchanged till the last war.

The position taken by the king is clearly laid down in an answer given by him in Parliament to the Welsh ambassadors who came in the spring of 1280 to obtain a favourable decision of their master's dispute with Gruffyth Wenunwyn, and to which they assented.³ Edward protests, honestly no doubt,⁴ that he intends to keep the treaty of 1277 (6 E. I.) inviolable, but he did not mean by any expression used therein to lessen the authority or liberty used by his predecessors in time of peace. He will faithfully keep the article that disputes are to be settled according to the laws and customs of the parts in which the dispute arises, that is, according to the practice of his predecessors in peace. (The Welsh evidently interpreted this clause as returning to their own law.) He remarks that Welsh lords have habitually settled disputes by applying for writs and pleading before the king's justices. He will observe all just and reasonable Welsh laws which are not contrary to the rights of his crown, acquired by his predecessors. A subsequent oath cannot derogate from those rights without distinctly mentioning them (tacite). It would be unworthy of him to maintain unjust and frivolous customs, as his coronation oath bound him to extirpate bad laws and customs from his kingdom. (This inclusion of their country in England was no doubt very offensive to the Welsh.) Finally, he promises to send commissioners to inquire what are the laws and customs of Wales and the Marches, and to have them observed on these principles.

The same intention to act fairly is apparent even before the treaty of 1277.¹ In May 1273, before Edward's return to England, the Welsh attacked Humfrey de Bohun's lands in Brecknock, and Roger Mortemer writes to the council for help. They reply that no assistance must be given to him, as Brecknock is excepted from what Llewellyn has to restore by the treaty of 1267, and it is not certain whether De Bohun has acquired this land by the custom of the Marches or not. Castles not being included in the treaty, he may help to defend them. A letter was at the same time sent to request Llewellyn to desist from besieging castles, but saying nothing about the lands in question.

It is clear that Edward meant to act for the good of the country, and to treat the Welsh fairly, and that he thought himself justified in forcing on them a better system of law than their own. On the other hand it is abundantly clear that the English "Marchers" committed all sorts of excesses. The Welsh March was not like the borders of Scotland, where people of the same race and of equal prowess plundered and fought, "thanking each other" for the sport they had shown," which sport was governed by certain defined rules, tolerably well kept on the whole. In the case of Wales the English tyrannised, and the Welsh revenged themselves whenever they could. The Gravamina show their weakness. Kinmont Willie or Jock Armstrong would rather have harried an English herd than taken their own cattle for sale at an English market, and certainly would not have endured many of the persecutions of which the Welsh complain. But then they did not know the timor qui potest cadere in constantem virum.

The accounts of the beginning of the insurrection are rather confused. All the English chronicles speak of Llewellyn and David taking Rhuddlan and Flint castles during a storm on the night of (before) Palm Sunday, and carrying off Roger Clifford. The Welsh annalist,¹ however, says that David alone took Penharddlech castle on the feast of Benet the Abbot, March 21, putting all the garrison except Clifford to the sword. An entry on the Welsh Roll² proves that Penharddlech is the same as Hawarden, but neither name is mentioned by any of the English writers, while the Welsh annalist omits all notice of Rhuddlan or Flint. The whole country was up in arms in a moment. Within a very few days the new castles of Lampadarnvaur³ and Aberystwith were burned, and a considerable portion of the counties of Cardigan and Caermarthen recovered from the English.⁴ With the account of this victory the "Chronicle of the Princes" ends, the author, ignorant of the future, adding, "Benedicamus Domino. Deo gratia."

The king was keeping his Easter at Devizes when the news came. In a very few days summons⁵ were issued for an army to meet at Worcester at Whitsuntide, and Peckham, who was in Devonshire, aided the cause by bidding the bishops curse the rebels with bell, book, und candle,¹ a command which the bishop of St. Asaph was too patriotic to obey.² In June the army was at Chester. Hope castle was soon recovered, not without serious loss,³ and by July 15 the king was holding his head-quarters at Rhuddlan. After this progress was slow. Roads were made with great labour through the woods. A fleet was brought round from the Cinque Ports to attack Anglesey, and a bridge was constructed over the Menai straits.

Meanwhile Peckham, who, it will be remembered, had visited Llewellyn two years before,⁴ determined to do his best to persuade him to submit, and avert the certain destruction which awaited him, knowing that there was no one else in England willing to undertake such a task. While on his journey he sent⁵ one of his chaplains, a countryman of Llewellyn's, to prepare the way, with strict orders not to use threats of ecclesiastical censures, though at the same time he cited the bishop of St. Asaph for not obeying his order. After resting a few days with the king at Rhuddlan, and failing to obtain any sanction from him for his mission, he went on alone, against the royal will, to meet Llewellyn at his castle of Aber or Garthcelyn, the strongest of the Welsh fortresses in the mountain of Snowdon. His proposals⁶ were inspired by a real desire for the peace and happiness of the Welsh and a hatred of war and bloodshed, but a tone of superiority which runs through them,—an assumption that the English, and not they, are judges of what is best for them, and that they have no right to accuse the king,—were sufficient to prejudice the Welsh against him at first. He saw the immense superiority of the English forces, and tried hard to save those whom he saw were doomed to destruction, but their salvation must be submission. Llewellyn's reply ¹ throws all the blame on the English, and expresses a desire for peace and readiness to obey the king (more than could have been expected from him) if only their laws are secured to them. He will redress all damage done to the English if they will do the like. At the same time he sends the "Gravamina" which have already been mentioned.²

The archbishop was away for three days, during which time (6 Nov.) the English made a treacherous attack on the Welsh positions, but were repulsed with considerable loss.³

No wonder that on his return Edward was too irritated to listen to his palliation of the conduct of the Welsh, saying that they had no excuse, as he had been always ready to do them justice.⁴ He would not even promise them a safe departure if they came to him to treat for peace, so the archbishop went back to Snowdon to try again. Llewellyn expressed his readiness to submit to the king's will,⁵ on two conditions, saving his duty to his people and his dignity as a prince. This was not enough for Edward, who would be content with nothing but unconditional surrender. The archbishop knew this would never be accepted, and he persuaded the king to allow him to consult the other lords present and draw up some statement of terms. These were simply that Edward would make no conditions about the four cantreds or Anglesey, not even engage to treat the people well, though the lords believe he will be merciful, both to them and to the prince, who must submit absolutely. In private Llewellyn is to be offered, if he will give up Snowdon, an estate in England worth 1,000*l.* a year, with descent to his heirs male and provision for his daughter; and his brother David will be provided for if he will go to the Holy Land and not come back without leave.¹ On Nov. 11² the Welsh reply is sent, refusing the terms, as giving no security. The people dare not, they say, submit to the king's will, because he has not heretofore kept his oaths or promises, and they will not allow their prince to do so either. As to the offered estate in England, if the king wishes to take from him his own poor land in Wales, it is not likely that he would let him keep a rich estate in England among his enemies. David replies in the same terms. If he ever goes to the Holy Land it shall be for God's sake, not for man's. The cruelty and faithlessness of the English are again pleaded, and the Welsh deprecate excommunication for acting in their own defence.

These arguments had no weight with the archbishop. On the 14th of Nov.³ he replies. He has hitherto treated them as "erring sheep," wishing to bring them back to the shores of safety by making a bridge of his own body. Now he rebukes their obstinacy. If they are descended from a Trojan, a friend of Paris, the adulterer, that accounts for the laxity of their laws as to legitimacy and marriage. If the Angles and Saxons have deprived them of their inheritance, did not they turn out the Scythian giants whom they found in the Isle of Albion? "Woe to thee that spoilest ;

“ shalt thou not be spoiled ? ”¹ To their desire to have Welsh laws again he urges the superiority of English law and canon law, suggesting that Howel Dda's only authority was the devil. He finishes by the insulting remark that the Welsh are so ignorant that no one outside England would know of their existence but for a few Welsh beggars in France, and again threatens excommunication. On this the war began afresh. The earl of Gloucester and Edmund Mortemer won a signal victory over the Welsh at Llandeilo Vawr ; and Llewellyn, leaving his brother at Snowdon, went southwards to help his friends there. There he ravaged the lands of Rhys ap Meredith, who favoured the English, and in the beginning of December was at Builth, the people of which place he hoped to stir up against the English. Somewhere in this neighbourhood,² on the 11th Dec., his men were attacked and defeated by a force under Roger L'Estrange.³ The prince was not with his men when the fray commenced, and while attempting to join them was killed by one Adam or Stephen de Frankton, who knew not his victim. The circumstances of the action and the prince's death are variously narrated. The different versions and local traditions will be found in Woodward's and Warrington's Histories, but need not be discussed here. His head was sent to London to rot upon the Tower. His body was allowed to be buried in consecrated ground at the intercession of a lady,⁴ on the ground that his having heard mass the morning before the battle, and asked for a priest when dying, absolved him from the sentence of excommunication.

On his body was found his seal and a letter implicating some of the lords of the Marches, which were kept to be sent to the king.

Here Peckham's connexion with Wales ceases for a time. He journeyed back through Herefordshire and Worcestershire, while the English army was gradually hemming in the new prince David. In March the king was established at Conway, and in April Snowdon was entered and Bere castle taken. David's power was completely broken, and after some weeks hiding in the woods he was captured by the treachery of some of his countrymen, and tried and executed at Shrewsbury.¹ The archbishop still interested himself in the people whom he had tried to save, especially the clergy; and hearing that clerks had been hung at Rhuddlan with some robbers, he begged the king to allow the priests in Snowdon to leave the country.²

He also wrote a very strong letter³ urging on the king the duty of restoring the damage done to churches, and when he consented to do something,⁴ he wrote to Wales to collect evidence on which to base the claim for compensation.⁵ Churches had suffered severely. The cathedral of St. Asaph had been burnt down at the beginning of the war, and the bishop, Anian de Schonan, a Black Friar who had accompanied the king to the Holy Land as his confessor, but had since offended him by his patriotism, was detained in England for nearly two years, till the archbishop obtained leave for him to revisit his diocese and rebuild his cathedral. The king wished the see to be removed to the new town at Rhuddlan, and offered the bishop 1,000 marks towards a cathedral there;⁶ but for some reason, perhaps for want of the pope's consent, the scheme fell through and the old building was restored, the king subscribing 100*l*.¹ It did not last much more than a century, being again destroyed utterly in 1404 by Owen Glendower.

Another ecclesiastical change made by the king was the removal of Conway abbey to Meynan. This Cistercian house had been founded by Llewellyn ap Jorwerth in 1185, and here he and his sons, David and Gruffyth, had been buried. In 1245 it had been plundered and burnt by the English,² and now the king wished finally to destroy a place sacred to the Welsh from the memory of the greatest of their princes, and to place on its site a fortress as a sign of his victory. Meynan, the spot chosen for the new abbey, was not far off. The archbishop of Canterbury's assent, of course, had to be obtained, as well as that of the Order. Peckham misunderstood the king's scheme, and imagined he intended to found a new monastery. With this idea he proposed that it should be placed in the diocese of Bangor, where there was only one house of White monks, while St. Asaph had four. There can be no worse neighbours, says the archbishop (a friar also, be it remembered). "Wherever they plant their foot they destroy towns, take away tithes, and annul by their privileges the rights of the prelacy."³ The avarice of the Cistercians had already been noticed by Richard I., who when accused of having at home three daughters whom he loved more than the grace of God, viz., Pride, Luxury, and Avarice, replied, "No, they are no longer at home. My daughter Pride I have married to the Templars, Luxury to the Black Friars, and Avarice to the White Monks." The bishop and chapter of St. Asaph at first refused to acquiesce, but the archbishop finding his remonstrances with the king useless, advised them to give in.¹ The king's charter of foundation is dated at Caernarvon, 12 July 1284,² and a few months later he granted the monks additional land in exchange for their old site at Conway, with very full privileges and exemptions, stipulating that the old church was to be served by one Welsh and two English chaplains.

The social state of Wales receives some illustration from the archbishop's letter to the bishops of St. Asaph and Bangor,³ with which this volume concludes, though allowance must be made for the partiality and prejudice of an Englishman. The clergy appear to have given up the distinctive costume of their profession, and reduced the tonsure to the smallest size possible, hiding it with their long hair, while their striped clothes and bare heads and feet made them still more like the members of their flock. Some sketches in the margin of a book⁴ containing copies of records of this period show what a Welshman was like, and illustrate the above remarks. They wear a tunic, with a striped border, and a cloak of darker colour than the tunic. One foot and leg, the right, is bare, and the other covered with a boot. They have no hats or hoods, but a profusion of rough hair enough to hide any tonsure. In two of the drawings the men carry spears, and the third a small bow, apparently made of a goat's horn like that of Ulysses.

The priests imitated the laity also in being married. The "vice of incontinence" does not necessarily imply looseness of morals, but only disobedience to the statutes enforcing celibacy. The concubines were in many cases really wives. The profits of the churches were so small that non-residence was the rule, and the ignorance of the clergy, who did not even know a little Latin,⁵ made them jealous of the superior attractions of the sermons of the Friars. As to the laity, Peckham's chief charge against them is idleness, "the source of all vices." What their condition was then may be judged from the history of the time, Welsh plundering Welsh with the greatest impartiality. Even at a much later time, according to Sir John Wynne,¹ the "gentlemen of Wales" seem to have had no occupation but shooting matches and drinking at each others houses, diversified with fighting. His accounts of some of the battles between neighbours, for no reason but to prove who was the best man in the country, are almost incredible in a country which had been christianized and civilized for many centuries. Peckham earnestly begs the bishops to preach peace, showing the hopelessness of resistance to England; he wishes the people to forget that they are a separate nation and to give up the prophecies of Merlin and the tale of Troy for the story of the Cross.

One point in the letter must be noticed as an indication of Peckham's principles, that he considered himself an ecclesiastic first and an Englishman next, and also that he was no friend to oppression. He solemnly warns the two bishops not to let the king or his officers infringe any of their liberties, and he would have been quite ready to support them if necessary. Reminding the reader that by this time the king's son Edward had been born at Carnarvon, and the new line of English princes of Wales begun, we will pass on to other matters of interest.

Seizure of

money.

It was during the last part of the Welsh war that the king, being pressed for money, ordered the simultaneous seizure all over England of the tenth already gathered by the Pope's collectors in aid of the recovery of the Holy Land.² The matter was brought before convocation, which met at London on May 9, and in the name of the assembled bishops Peckham protested against this outrage on the church. At Lincoln the doors of the room in the cathedral where the money was stowed away were violently burst open. At Worcester the king's men were disappointed and found nothing. The Pope also wrote in a tone of much exasperation.¹ Before his brief arrived in England the king had promised to settle the matter, but Peckham was not satisfied, and went down in person to Acton Burnell, where he procured immediate restitution.² Many of the bags of money appeared not to have been opened.

While travelling home from Wales the archbishop took the opportunity of visiting several of the dioceses through which he passed, and inquiring into the state of the monasteries. In the course of these two years he issued injunctions for some ten houses, all in the south and west of England. In nearly every case their money matters had gone wrong. At Rochester the prior had not only wasted convent property, but had managed to lay up a hoard for himself, which he was ordered to restore in three days;³ and the cellarer of Southwark was accused of a similar fault. To prevent this in future two or three treasurers were ordered to be appointed to receive all rents, and account for them annually. Those estates assigned to particular officers in the church were excepted from this rule, otherwise no one else was to touch money. All the prior's or abbot's expenses when away from home were to be paid by his chaplain, who must be annually changed, in accordance with cap. xxxiii. of the council of Oxford.⁴ The rents and profits were to be collected by lay bailiffs and reeves, except at Dover, where a monk and a bailiff were charged with the office.⁵ In all other cases monks were to visit the estates but not finger the money. At Christchurch, Canterbury, a strict rule was laid down that no presents⁶ were to be given except in the name of the prior and convent or with the consent of the six seniors; and to prevent future cavilling a donum notabile was defined to be anything worth half a mark.

The prior had very little power in business matters, for the archbishop insisted that nothing important must be done, no keepers of manors or obedientiaries elected, without the consent of the convent, "because what touches all ought to be approved by all;" a very liberal sentiment for an archbishop and a regular. These regulations refer more or less to all the houses visited, but there are some special cases of interest.

Leominster Priory.

At Leominster the joint rights of the parishioners and the convent in the Priory church had been giving trouble and wanted settlement.¹ A nunnery had existed here in Saxon times, founded by the great earl Leofric, but, perhaps in consequence of the elopement of an abbess with a son of earl Godwin, it had ceased to exist before the days of the Conqueror. The site was granted by Henry I. to Reading abbey, at its foundation, and Leominster priory, until the suppression, was a cell to that celebrated house. The first church was completed about 1130,² and the nave, Romanesque of extreme simplicity and plainness, still remains. The building was shared by the parish and the monks, but not divided by an impassable barrier. "The partition across the western arch of the lantern was a roodloft, and not a solid wall, serving as reredos to the parish high altar, as at Waltham, Crowland and Wymondham," so that access to the domestic buildings of the convent through the church was possible. In 1238 the parish required more room, and pulled down the outer wall of the south aisle, replacing it by a building nearly as large as the original Norman nave. No doubt this was intended to supplant the old Norman part as the main body of the parish church. This was the state of affairs when archbishop Peckham visited Leominster in December 1282, but scarcely any traces of this building are now visible. In the next century a southern aisle was added, a magnificent work of the early decorated style, remarkable, like Ledbury, Hereford, and other churches in the west, for the great profusion of ball flower ornament. Later still a Perpendicular west window was inserted, and a fire in 1699 destroyed still more of the old building.¹

The monastic church can have had no nave of its own, east of the western lantern arch. The words of the archbishop's letter appear to imply that the transepts and presbytery were open to the public. Thus the services were disturbed; and more, the monks took this opportunity of communication with the outer world, to commit flagrant breaches of rule, and the townspeople found the dark passages and arches a convenient place for vicious and criminal practices. This was aggravated by the necessity of keeping the church open all night, lest fugitives from private revenge or temporal justice might be unable to claim their right of sanctuary, and lest parishioners might die without receiving the viaticum. The rights of the parish were considered more important than the monks' behaviour by St. Thomas de Cantilupe, a lawyer as well as a churchman, and he had ordered the doors of the church to be taken off the hinges to ensure free access at all times. Peckham was shocked at this and had them restored, but required the monks to build within a year a chapel to the honour of St. Thomas of Canterbury, which might fulfil both purposes of a sanctuary and of a place for keeping the host.² Mr. Townshend speaks of the archbishop having built the chapel at his own cost in gratitude for the hospitality of the prior. This is perhaps the local tradition, not a very violent perversion of the fact. The chapel is still in existence, though it has long been desecrated. It stands in the Forbury, being "a plain building in the pointed style, with a good eastern window, two low pointed doorways, and an open timber roof." The new chapel did not interfere with the parochial rights in the mother church, and at the dissolution that portion which the parish had used became their property, and the monastic portion, consisting of the central tower, the transepts, presbytery, and eastern chapels was pulled down, together with the eastern bay of the north aisle. Of the conventual buildings, the sole relic is now used as part of the union workhouse.

¹ For these architectural details I am indebted to a chapter by Mr. Freeman in the Rev. G. F. Townshend's History of Leominster. Mr. Freeman places the consecration of the new building in 1239, having miscalculated the pontifical years of bishop Ralph Maidstone, in a document printed by Dugdale in the Monasticon, vol. iv., p. 57.

² The archbishop's assertion of the right of constant access to the parish church is noteworthy. There can be, I think, no doubt that the present practice of locking up a church and churchyard cannot be defended by law, and only by comparatively recent custom.

Rochester Cathedral.

Another case of the inhabitants of a town having rights in a monastic church was at Rochester,¹ where the people of St. Nicholas' parish having no church of their own had the right of hearing mass at the altar of St. Nicholas in the cathedral. Its original place is not certain, but it was probably in a recess on the east side of the north great cross aisle, where "a receptacle for holy water is still entire."² In 1312 it was moved by the convent without the consent of the parishioners into the upper end of the nave, not far from the steps leading to the choir. The importance of the altar to the people is due to the fact that there was then no other church in the town. What is now St. Margaret's church was then only a suburban chapel dependent on St. Nicholas parish,³ and St. Mary's church, in the south eastern part of the town, was also outside the walls.⁴

The right of presentation belonged to the monks by a grant of bishop Gundulf,¹ but in the reign of Stephen, during the dispersion of the monks by reason of the burning of the priory, the then bishop, a monk of Seez, gave this away to the archdeacon, with several other churches belonging to the convent. Ascelin,² his successor recovered them at the expense of a journey to Rome, and the altar of St. Nicholas was restored to the monks;³ bishop Walter confirming them in their possession not only of the right of presentation but also of the fruits and offerings both at the altar and its dependent chapel.⁴ This arrangement did not last long, for when the great dispute between the bishop and his convent was settled by bishop Gilbert Glanvill (1185-1214) the convent resigned to the bishop the right of presentation both here and elsewhere,⁵ receiving as compensation a pension of 40s. to be paid by the priest who served the altar. This was the state of things when the archbishop visited the cathedral. The church that he found begun and destroyed is not noticed at this early date, as far as I am aware, by any other authority. His order to have it completed was for a long time disregarded by successive sacristans⁶ and about 150 years after this time it was still unfinished. In 1312, however, it was again talked of. The prior had displeased the parishioners by removing the altar without their consent, and the conditions of its use were laid down by a formal deed. The people were to have access to the cathedral at such times as least to interfere with the monks, sermons were to be preached immediately after mass, and on certain days no music was to be used.¹ All these rights were to be immediately given up when the prior and chapter had built a suitable church. But prior and chapter were in no hurry, and perhaps would never have done anything more, if bishop Ric. Yong in 1418² had not compelled them to give the unfinished work to the people, the bishop retaining the presentation to the new church, which was to be a rectory, so that the repairs would not fall upon the convent. The prior resisted as far as possible, but in spite of his protestation that it had never been meant for a church, and that it was on the convent's land, the keys of the new work were delivered to the keepers of St. Nicholas' altar, with fatherly advice from the bishop not to quarrel over the building. More than three years after this the walls only had been built. Apparently the work had not seriously been started, for a new composition was made under the auspices of archbishop Chicheley on 7 March 1422,³ by which the parishioners were to build or repair in three years "a certain church or chapel in the north part of the cemetery, of which the walls had already been built," but not to enlarge it without the prior's licence. The church was to have a baptistery and a western bell tower, but the bells were not to be rung before 5 a.m. nor after 8 p.m., except occasionally for early mass for the country people coming into market. The line which processions were to take is very carefully marked out, and so are the rights of the priory as to carriage and watercourse. One gutter, for sanitary reasons, was to be covered up at the prior's expense. In one point this composition contradicts the previous one of bishop Yonge. The priest is to be vicar, as he was of the altar, and not rector. The three years stipulated for were not required, and in December 1423 the vicar and parishioners resigned their rights to the altar in the cathedral, and the new church was consecrated.¹ It was built principally of flint, and was considerably enlarged in 1624. At present it consists of a chancel, nave, aisles, with a small low Perpendicular tower, on the west side of the north aisle, containing two bells. The arcades of the nave consist of five pointed arches springing from circular columns with square capitals. The "baptisterium" is represented by a curious octagonal stone font. The windows have tracery of a decorated character, which was probably inserted in the 17th century. The west window is of five lights, and below it a Perpendicular labelled doorway with spandrels. At the west end of the south aisle is a three light Perpendicular window.²

While on the subject of Rochester it may be noticed that Rochester bridge, the repairs of which are referred to in a letter of the archbishop's,³ was broken by the ice during the hard winter of 1281-2, when London Bridge suffered also.⁴ The archbishop contends that his tenants of Northfleet are not bound to contribute. In this he appears to be wrong. There are three documents printed by Lambard in his "Perambulation of Kent"⁵ bearing on this point, of different dates. In all three the archbishop of Canterbury and his tenants are said to be bound to repair the fifth and ninth piers, with the ground sills and planking. In the earliest, in Anglo-Saxon, "Flote" (Fleet) is mentioned as contributing to the ninth pier, and in a later Latin copy this is explained as Northfleet. Both these are in the Textus Roffensis, but in another copy at Canterbury there is a blank for the name. Perhaps this blank was the ground, a very insufficient one, on which the claim of exemption was based.

At Mottesfont the prior had been guilty of other breaches of the rule, besides carelessness about money matters and peculation.¹ Suspicious conversation with women is to be ipso facto cause of deprivation, and he must never go outside the walls without, as a companion, one of five trustworthy members of his house.

Southwick,
Austin
Priory.

At Southwick the late prior,² who had resigned, had been reluctant to return to the discipline of a common monk, and was living in the monastery in his own rooms, with an entrance under his own control. All this liberty must be stopped. He must sleep in the dormitory and eat in the refectory, as others do, and if late for matins must lose half his pittance for the day. Notable infringement of the rule of silence will also incur punishment. With the same precision that defined a donum notabile as being half a mark, a fractio notabilis of the rule of silence is defined as speaking for as long as it takes to repeat De Profundis, which we may reckon at something less than a minute.

service.

Another point impressed upon several of the Benedictine houses of both sexes by the archbishop, is the full performance of the Divine service, as enjoined by the rule of the founder. This was alluded to in the preface of the former volume, but the necessity of describing the MSS. used in preparing the work rendered it impossible to treat other subjects at much length, and a few words about what this curtailment of the service was may not be out of place here. By the rule of the founder vigils were performed at the eighth hour of the night, in the winter, from 15th November to 21st December, thence to 21st March at an hour later, and as the spring and summer went on at such an hour that they could be finished before daylight. The rule has been commented upon most fully, and every possible doubt thrashed out. For instance, many words have been wasted to decide whether "a Calendis Novembris" means 1st November or 16th October, and what the eighth hour of the night is, and whether the monks were to rise at the commencement of the eighth hour or in the middle of it. The received opinion is that 2 a.m. was the time. The office consisted of versicles ("Deus in adjutorium, and Domine, Labia), Psalms iii. and xciv., and six others. Then three lessons, six more psalms, and a passage from St. Paul's epistles repeated without book, finishing with the Kyrie Eleison. The anonymous author of a book on the Benedictines,¹ himself a monk of St. Blaise in the Black Forest, says that the Lord's Prayer was then silently repeated, but this does not appear in the words of the rule. In summer the shortness of the nights caused the above programme to be slightly curtailed, one lesson from the Old Testament being substituted for the former three. This service should take an hour and a half. On Sundays and feast days vigils were divided into three, the number of lessons being increased and a Gospel and hymn being added. Matins or lauds began at daybreak all the year, and consisted of the usual versicles, Psalm lxvi. and three others, a canticle from the Old Testament (the Song of the Three Children), three more Psalms, cxlviii., xcv., cl., with a Gloria and antiphone. The psalms were followed by a lesson from the epistles, a short responsory, a hymn, verses, the Benedictus, and the Kyrie Eleison. On Sundays there was a slightly different arrangement with fewer psalms. Lauds were calculated to take half an hour. At the Horæ Minores (i.e. Prima, Tertia, Sexta and Nona), three psalms with verses, a lesson or collect and the Lord's Prayer were said, occupying in all an hour. Vespers were said at sunset, consisting of four psalms with a lesson, the Magnificat, and the Lord's Prayer, and at compline three psalms without antiphone, a hymn and lesson, the Kyrie, benediction and Lord's Prayer were repeated. An hour was required to get through these two last offices, so that the whole time occupied in psalmody by the monks in the time of their founder was four hours. This was arranged so as to allow time for the bodily work which the founder also enjoined on his disciples, and in later times monks who were doing specially useful work, such as writing or compiling, or even copying books, were excused from the choir, as were those whose labour at distant parts of the demesne rendered their presence at the church inconvenient. The first changes in the service were introduced soon after the death of Saint Benedict, when the sack of their monastery drove the inmates to Rome, and they, to fall in with the fashions of their new home, accommodated their service to the Roman use.

Sturmius, abbot of Fulda, who wrote in the 8th century, mentions that after their return they omitted certain responses and reduced the number of lessons to twelve on great feasts, and on others to eight, and Paulus Diaconus, writing to Charles the Great, speaks distinctly of the monks in France and Germany as following, some the Roman use and some their own rule in saying the psalms.¹ According to the latter the whole Psalter was repeated every week. Amalarius² also speaks of certain curtailments as enjoined by Gregory the Great, to assimilate the practice of the monks and of clerks. The Alleluia was omitted in Septuagesima, and the Gloria Patri for a fortnight before Easter, while for three days before Easter nine psalms and nine lessons only were to be recited.

During the reign of the emperor Lewis the Pious, there was some discussion as to which rule the monks should follow, the bishops naturally being in favour of Rome and uniformity, and the emperor on the other side. A compromise was proposed, that the week should be divided, but this does not seem to have been universal, and at the council of Aix-la-Chapelle in 817 it was ordained that the order of St. Benedict should be observed, and proper directions for doing so were given.¹ In spite of this the anonymous monk of St. Blaise tells us that soon after this council the omissions of the Alleluia and Gloria first mentioned again became usual. Further, in the 13th century, Peter Boerius, who wrote a commentary on the rule,² states that in some abbeys the custom had been introduced of saying on the eves of saint's days only those psalms which were assigned to the saint, omitting the regular ones in order for the day.³ By adopting this practice there were some periods in the year, such as Easter and Whitsuntide, when the whole Psalter was not recited weekly, and even in some monasteries, from the number of saints who had a separate office, some psalms were scarcely sung once a year. These changes had no doubt come over to England with other French habits, and a chapter of the order meeting at Abingdon had approved of the alterations. The archbishop had procured the passing of an ordinance in the council of London for the restoration of the old service, and attempted to enforce it at all his visitations, but without much success. The prior of the cathedral church at Ely⁴ even sent round to the abbeys which Peckham had visited telling them not to obey him, and in 1300 another chapter, meeting at Oxford, ratified the act of that at Abingdon, and determined to omit superfluous prayers. Our informant, himself a Benedictine, is evidently rather scandalised, and sarcastically expresses a fear that the Lord's Prayer will some day seem superfluous as well.⁵

At a later period the tendency was the other way, and partly perhaps from zeal for the Divine service, but more from dislike of bodily labour, and desire to please the laity who left money for anniversaries, the length and frequency of the services were considerably increased. At one house (Goritz near Trieste), 30 psalms were sung at vigils and the whole of the book of the prophet Daniel read at one lesson. Instead of the Psalter being repeated once a week, according to the rule, it was sometimes got through in one day. For walking, cooking, shaving, baking, bleeding, field work, every employment in fact, was accompanied by the monotonous and mechanical recitation of prayers and psalms.

Nunneries. Among the nunneries visited were Wherwell, Romsey, and the Holy Sepulchre, Canterbury. Similar regulations about business matters are enjoined, as in the case of houses of the other sex. The election of stewards is to be by the whole convent, while bailiffs being less important, may be chosen by the seniors alone, but the abbess is not to decide any "notable business" on her own responsibility. The definition of this phrase covers a great deal, the appointment of obedientiaries, and punishment of delinquents, as well as external business, so that the abbess has really very little left to do but to be a mother to her family. The archbishop earnestly prohibits any favouritism, or the formation of parties in the house. In view of the impending famine¹ he directs the abbess to dine in the refectory and have no separate tables for her household or strangers, that it may be seen that all share alike. At Romsey there was reason for this, as the abbess was accused of stinting the convent for her own extravagancies, and she is told not to keep too many dogs, and no monkeys. In all cases the rules about admitting men and going into the town are to be more strictly enforced, but it is only at Canterbury that any reference is made to punishment, and that is for quarrelling. Delinquents are to be confined in solitude in a dark house under the dormitory till they show themselves amiable to every one. That there was a good deal of society in nunneries is clear enough. For, as if it was a matter of frequent occurrence, directions are given for saying compline when the abbess has company and cannot attend. After it has been said, all drinking is to cease in her room, and she is to dismiss her friends as soon as possible, and say the service alone.¹ Dean Kentwood's injunctions for St. Helen's, Bishopsgate, show that even dancing was not unknown as a social amusement in nunneries.²

As to the drinking, the allowance of wine (in the eighth century) was three librae in fertile countries, and in places where wine was dear either two librae of wine and two of beer, or one of wine and three of beer.³ The last proportion was no doubt the custom in England. A libra was either a quarter or a half pint. Authorities differ, and perhaps local usage.

In the injunctions to male houses, there is no reference made to any of the customs, half religious and half profane, which enlivened the Christian year in the Middle Ages, but in the case of most of the nunneries, the observances on Ascension Day and such feasts are either prohibited or curtailed.

The ordinary superstitions observed throughout England on Ascension Day were a processional perambulation of the parish "to obtain God's blessing upon the fruits of the ground," by singing the gospel, epistles, and Litany, and the 103rd and 104th Psalms, and to impress the boundary line on the memory of the future generation by whipping boys or bumping casual strangers at the boundary stones. This practice is still continued even in London, with the exception of the whipping and bumping, which has been stopped in consequence of victims objecting and even seeking a remedy at law.

A "patient angler" at Walthamstow, about 50 years ago, recovered 50*l.* as compensation for having unwillingly undergone the process, and a stout burgess or Maidenhead, if it was not the mayor himself, suffered a similar indignity on Stubbings Heath, in still more recent times. It is not likely however that the nuns of Romsey joined in this amusement, but rather that they allowed the procession to pass through their precincts and bless their crops and orchards, with the time honoured verse

"Stand fast root; bear well top;
God send us a youling sop.
Every twig, apple big,
Every bough, apple enow."

Another observance peculiar to the time was to hang up an egg laid on that day as a talisman.

But the stern friar forbade all such religious diversions, both then and on Christmas Day. The prohibited ceremony on the latter festival was doubtless the preparation of a kind of puppet show of the birth of Christ, which is still the custom in Roman Catholic countries, and which John Locke, when he first saw it at Cleves, compared to the shows at Bartholomew Fair.

Innocents'
Day.

The observances on Innocents' Day, or Childermastide, which the children under the care of the nuns of Barking were allowed grudgingly to continue,¹ commenced with the childish sport of surprising the drowsy in their beds and chastising them, "bailler les Innocents," as it was called in French.²

² The following epigram of Clement Marot refers to this practice.

The following account of this custom was written long after the thirteenth century, but observances of this kind do not vary much from time to time.

Then for the rest of the day, "St. Nicholas and his clerks" came out in all their glory. The boy bishop had been chosen before the day of his patron saint (Dec. 6) and he and his choir had sung vespers in the vestments specially kept for them, and after going round the parish to be treated with sweets had retired to private life for a time. But "towards the end of evensong, on St. John's "Day, the little Nicholas and his clerks, arrayed in their "copes, and having burning tapers in their hands, and "singing those words of the Apocalypse (c.xiv.) Dr. Rock goes on to quote a passage from the injunctions of a bishop of Salisbury, showing how popular this procession was, for the crowds in the church were said to have done so much damage that disorderly persons were threatened with excommunication. The feast of St. Katharine, the patroness of school girls, was kept by her votaries with similar processions.

All this was finally abolished in England by royal proclamation in 1541.²

Nunneries would probably not be able to have a very complete celebration, especially as “mixed schools” were discountenanced, but the services were conducted on the same principle by little girls.

Strangers of both sexes were forbidden to be present, but the nuns were enjoined to be there, lest the little ones should turn the service into a mockery or commit unconscious sacrilege by their mistakes.

At the present time in Rome children recite sermons and hymns on that day in the church of Ara Cœli to a crowd of hearers, and far from the praise of God being turned into a farce, as Peckham suggests, the natural eloquence of the children, their graceful and appropriate gesture, and the earnestness in their young faces as they stand raised above the crowd, evoke no feeling but reverence and solemnity among their audience.

We saw in the last volume that archbishop Peckham was inclined to quarrel, rightly or wrongly, with the Benedictines, and there are instances of a similar tendency here also. In 1282 the abbot of Westminster had given him cause of complaint by charging extor-tionate tolls on his ferry at Lambeth,¹ and now the archbishop takes up the cudgels for one of his cells which he was treating with unjust severity. The priory of Great Malvern had been originally founded before the Conquest by a hermit named Aldwyne, round whom a number of recluses gradually collected. But its real beginning as a monastery appears to date from a grant of land and the appointment of a prior by Gislebert, abbot of Westminster. A claim of patronage founded on this grant was set up by the abbot and acquiesced in by the priory, in the hope of thus exempting themselves from the jurisdiction of the bishop of Worcester. The relation between the two houses, as settled in 1217 or thereabouts, was that Malvern had the right of free election, but the prior elect must be presented to the abbot of Westminster for confirmation.² The abbot retained the right of visiting Malvern once a year with 20 horse, and staying there two days and nights. The correction of the faults both of prior and monks was within his power, but not the arbitrary removal of anyone. This was deemed an easier yoke to submit to than episcopal jurisdiction, for the bishop of Worcester asserted his right to institute priors, to visit, and to exact procurations accordingly. Exemption from the bishop's power was one of the chief ends striven for by the regulars. In the time of bishop Roger³ the monks had tried to free themselves by getting the abbot of Westminster to institute a prior secretly, but the bishop upset the election, and succeeding priors had received institution from him, and episcopal visitations had been more than once held.

At the time we are considering, Wm. de Ledebury, a man whose character, whether judged by the rule of his order or by the common laws of morality, was by no means good,¹ had been prior for about two years. He had already been suspended from performance of Divine service for contumacy, and had not been long released from the sentence when bishop Giffard held a visitation of his monastery.² This was on Sept. 22, 1282. The monks accused their prior of grave offences, but the bishop took no definite action in the matter. He preached indeed on the text, "Veniam et descendam super vos," but no spirit of good descended on William of Ledbury. Five days after, while the bishop was sitting at dinner at his manor of Kempsey (where Simon de Montfort had slept the night before the fatal field of Evesham), four monks suddenly entered the hall and threw themselves at his feet. Their prior's conduct was too bad for them to bear any longer. Giffard was moved by their earnestness and returned to Malvern. Ledbury was immediately deposed and confined in the monastery, but breaking his prison and carrying off some of the property of the house,³ he and his party, consisting of the subprior, precentor, sacristan, and cellarer, were excommunicated. The remaining monks elected as their new prior William de Wykewane, prior of Avecote, Warwick, a relation of bishop Giffard's and also of cardinal Hugh of Evesham, and sent him to the abbot of Westminster for his approval. The abbot at this time was Richard of Ware, a man who had taken his part in the political life of the kingdom, and now filled the office of treasurer to the king. He was disliked by his convent for his severity, according to the annalist of Dunstable. He was irritated at the bishop's action, and reasserted the old claim of exemption which had been given up for so many years.

Wykewane and his friends were sent up from Shrewsbury, where the abbot happened to be staying, to Westminster in a cart, and then were thrown into prison, even put in chains, and the Malvern monks were ordered to receive Ledbury again. A few obeyed, and were promptly excommunicated by the bishop for contempt. He wrote also to the abbot to complain of this conduct, but received nothing but an insolent answer in return,¹ and a few days after Peckham wrote also.² The abbot's answer is not preserved, but it was evidently a justification of what he had done, for on Nov. 10 Giffard wrote to Peckham that they were still in prison,³ and in the following February the dean of Arches and others were commissioned to examine evidence at Westminster bearing on the claim of exemption.

Meanwhile the bishop of Worcester was continuing process by citations and excommunications, and attempted to gain the king's favour through the bishop of Bath, his chancellor; but the abbot's personal influence with the king was too strong, and he procured a royal letter⁴ charging the bishop with entering the priory with an armed force and spoiling its goods, and ordering him forthwith to restore Ledbury. Giffard did not yield even to this exercise of royal authority, and appointed custodians of the temporalities and spiritualities till a new election; quite uselessly, however, for the sheriff was promptly ordered⁵ to expel them and seize the priory, and then, for neglecting to carry out his instructions for fear of incurring spiritual penalties, was fined heavily. Shortly after this either the king began to think he had been acting hastily, or perhaps the chancellor's or his mother's⁶ persuasions were of more avail than before. The officers of the Exchequer were ordered to make a search as to precedents for the seizure of the priory,¹ and the sheriff of Middlesex was bid to replevy the unhappy Wykewane, who was still in his prison at Westminster. This order also had to be repeated before it was obeyed, and then the abbot appealed to Rome, and firstly to the archbishop, before whom the case came in March 1283. To cut a long story short, after a visitation by Peckham, another by Giffard, frequent excommunications, and the capture of Ledbury by the sheriff, the contending parties met before the king at Acton Burnel, and there the bishop of Worcester formally renounced his jurisdiction over Malvern in return for the manor of Knightwick, given him by the convent, and Ledbury was restored.² Nearly the whole of the documents referring to this case are printed in full from Giffard's Register in Thomas's Antiquitates Prioratus Majoris Malvernæ, from which the above account of the transaction has been compiled.

One letter of archbishop Peckham occurs among these documents, which is not entered in his own register, and there is also an account of his visitation of the diocese of Worcester. These will be found in the Appendix.

Before leaving the subject there is a point worth noticing in the king's interference in the matter. He issued a most sensible writ to the sheriff of Gloucester³ ordering him to proclaim that in spite of the excommunication the people of the country are to trade with the priory for food as usual, but he bases his disregard of the bishop and archbishop's sentence on the questionable ground that Malvern is a cell "liberæ capellæ nostræ S. Petri Westmonasteriensis," whereas previously papal privilege had been held up to justify the exemption. What the archbishop's opinion about royal chapels was, we have seen in the last volume, and such a claim would not tend to conciliate him. He was offended with Giffard for settling the dispute without consulting him,¹ and objected strongly to the arrangement on the ground that it was simoniacal,² which Giffard denied without attempting to argue the point and without satisfying the archbishop, for he did not absolve the priory from his sentence of excommunication till he visited it in July 1285.³ Neither party seemed contented with the arrangement, as will be seen on referring to the book quoted above, but that does not concern us here.

The Friars at Reading. Another case in which Peckham was interfering in the interest of his own order was at Reading. As we saw in the previous volume he was always ready to protect them and encourage them in any matter of dispute with the richer and more powerful religious orders. While at Reading in 1279 he no doubt visited his brother Franciscans, who had been established there since 1233.⁴ The chief landlords in the town were the abbot and convent, and they had with evident unwillingness granted to their rivals a piece of land in the Caversham road, outside the town, saddling their grant with severe restrictions. The Friars bound themselves not to seek another site on abbey land; not to attempt to increase the site then granted; not to ask for any "exhibition," nor to receive bequests, offerings, or tithes accruing to the abbey, on pain of immediate expulsion. They managed to obtain the insertion of a clause barring the abbey from ejecting them for any other reasons than those above mentioned, though if they left voluntarily, the land was to revert to the abbey.¹

The piece of land in question is that marked on Coates' map of 1802 as "Friary Mead," bounded by Portman brook, and surrounded by a wet ditch.² It lies between the Great Western railway and the river, on the east of the Caversham road. The brook some years ago ran by the side of the footpath leading from the Caversham road to the Forbury, but is now invisible, being probably a covered sewer, like the Tybourne and Marybourne in London. The name Portman Brook Meadows still occurs in deeds of property. The "Vasterns" were divided into the Home Vastern, nearer the town, the Farther Vastern, nearer the Caversham road, and the Little Vastern, adjoining the bathing place.

No one who knows the country will be surprised to hear that the friars soon found their house untenable in the winter on account of floods. They were probably obliged to live entirely in their upper story, and to communicate with the town by boat. It is not very uncharitable to suppose that this was the reason of the last stipulation made by the monks in granting them the land. After bearing it for nearly fifty years, they applied to the Protector of their order at Rome, cardinal Mattheo Orsini, and he in turn wrote to Peckham, as conservator of the order in England. Peckham at once took up the position that the friars, besides being foolish in making rash promises from their eagerness to gain a settlement, had no right to bind themselves and their successors without the permission of the protector or minister-general, and he wrote to this effect to the abbot.

How the remonstrance was received at first we know not, but three years later the abbot granted them an additional piece of land, extending up the hill from their old site as far as Vicus Novus, now Friar street.

They were still forced to submit to oppressive restrictions, against which, as we shall see at a later period, the archbishop again protested with effect, for three years later (1288), in spite of their promises, they acquired additional land by the bequest of Robert Fulco. On the highest part of their property, close to the street, they built their house. The church, which was completed about 1311, consisted of nave, aisles, and chancel, and, though it has been a good deal knocked about, enough records of the original work remain to show that it was a very fine example of geometrical decorated.

At the dissolution the domestic buildings were granted to one Robert Stanshawe, groom of the chamber, but the corporation made interest with Dr. London, the commissioner, to beg the church for them as a town hall. It was subsequently used as a prison, and the roof taken off, though a beautiful west window was bricked up to preserve it. A mezzotint drawing of it in this state, as the "Town Bridewell," will be found in Man's History of Reading. It has now returned to its original use, having been purchased in 1863 by the late archdeacon Phelps from the corporation, who made it a sine qua non in the transfer of the property, that the new church should be as far as possible a restoration of the old building. None of the domestic buildings remain, but in 1860, Mr. Andrewes, who then resided at "Grey Friars House," disclosed the foundations of the cloisters in his garden. They have been since covered up, and a row of houses has been built across the garden.

Two foreign monasteries also came under Peckham's notice during this period, the Norman abbeys of Fécamp and Seez. Fécamp had been founded in early times (the seventh century), on the spot where a miraculous stag had struck stiff the hounds of duke Ansegisus, and subsequently it was inhabited by Clement, a holy Saxon thane. Ethelred, when in Normandy, was much attached to the holy place, and a story is told of his having his ears boxed by the porter for trying to enter the church at a forbidden time.¹ Edward the Confessor gave to them Rameslie and Steyning, in Sussex, and other lands, some of which William, before his voyage to England, confirmed to them in the event of his success. It was about Steyning that the archbishop and the abbot had come into collision. The case had been revoked to Rome, and meanwhile Peckham had excommunicated the abbot's agents and placed the church under an interdict; but the abbot, on the other hand, procured letters from the king promising that no writs should be issued against his bailiff till it was decided.² Next year the abbot died, and the custody of his lands was granted to John de Ponte by patent dated 26 Sept. 1284.³ In Gallia Christiana, XI. 207, he is said to have lived until 1286, the date being given precisely as 15 Sept.,⁴ but the year must surely be wrong, as there can be no mistake about the patent.

Abbey of Fécamp.

At Arundel the state of discipline was very loose, the prior alleging as an excuse that their superior, the abbot of Seez, had reserved to himself the right of punishment. The abbey of St. Martin de Seez, which more than once gave bishops and abbots to England, was originally founded by St. Evroul in 560, and in 1050 refounded by Roger de Montgomery. He, being created earl of Shrewsbury and Arundel after the Conquest, gave land in Sussex to his abbey in Normandy, and after a time he and his wife Mabilia built a new house at Arundel,¹ at some distance from the church, and sent for two monks, Raynaldus and Frodo, from Seez to superintend the building. It was not finished till 1102, and by that time the earldom of Arundel had been forfeited to the Crown. Henry I., however, treated the new priory with consideration, and allowed a prior and monks to come from Seez and inhabit it. A later earl, Wm. de Albini, annexed the conventual and the parochial churches, and the original building was abandoned. The number of monks was small. They were still subject to the mother house of Seez, in whom rested the election of the prior. The bishop of Chichester instituted, and the newly elected prior performed some sort of homage to the earl. What was the ground of the prior's assertion about his inability to punish does not appear. It may be that the abbot of Seez was usurping more than his just rights. It certainly appears from an inquisition, ad quod damnatum,² taken concerning the founding of the college there by Richard Fitz Alan, earl of Arundel, that the prior had full power over the monks, to "correct, punish, or remove them, admit new ones, alienate and acquire possessions," &c.

The Jews. In the present volume there are a few documents relating to the community of Jews in London.

The position of this people was a peculiar one in England, and if it were judged merely from the provisions in royal charters granted to them and from other records, it might be considered much more favourable than it in fact was. Of their own records before the expulsion nothing remains, except a few bonds and such like formal instruments, which were in the hands of Christians. Before the Conquest their persons and property were considered to belong to the king, and he forbade his nobles from taking them into their service or plundering them, as he forbade hunting on his manors, this being his sole prerogative.¹

In the reign of John they were permitted by charter to live freely and honourably in the kingdom, to hold fees and lands, to enjoy the same liberties and customs as in the time of Henry II., to travel unmolested where they pleased, as the king's own property,² and were exempt from customs, tolls, or the tax on wine. The regulations for the settlement of differences between them and Christians were fair enough. Such cases were tried by a jury of Jews³ before special judges. The witnesses must be of both religions, and if Jewish witnesses were not forthcoming the Jew's oath on his roll was admitted in his exculpation.⁴

But now for the other side of the picture.

To say nothing of massacres like that which disgraced the coronation of Richard I., the status of the king's "res propriæ" had manifest disadvantages, for they were outside the law, and though free from toll and such regular exactions were tallaged by the king at his pleasure. A few years after granting the above charter John imprisoned all the Jews in England till he had extracted from them a sum of 66,000 marks, but this fact comes not from the records, but from an annalist¹ who scarcely mentions the nation except to draw attention either to their fictitious crimes or their too real punishments.

In the reign of Henry III. legislation became more stringent. Christians throughout Europe were beginning to chafe under the superiority of the Jew in business transactions, and the laymen revenged themselves for want of acuteness by brutality. The Crusades also by stimulating religious zeal had increased its natural companion persecution, and the king was obliged in his own interest to protect his property from those "crusaders" who preferred fulfilling their vows by injuring the helpless rather than by fighting brave enemies. At Gloucester, for instance, the Jews were entrusted for protection to twenty-four burgesses.²

The church was fairer to them than the laity. Clement III. published a decree forbidding Christians baptising Jews by compulsion ("defilement by the "proud water," to use their own term), disturbing their services with sticks and stones, or trespassing on their burial grounds, besides other more serious crimes against their persons;³ but still the separation became more marked, and a comparison of the two ordinances of Henry III. with John's charter will show how much worse their position had become. The first of these orders in 1253⁴ distinctly forbids the residence of any Jews in England except as the king's servants, or the erection of any scolæ, i.e. synagogues, except where they had been in his father's reign. This article is based on the decree of Alexander III.⁵ contained in a letter to Louis VII. of France, advising him not to allow new synagogues to be built, but on the other hand not to prevent the repair of the old ones, so long as they are not improved or beautified. Within the synagogues the service is to be performed in a low voice, so that Christians may not be offended. Though they are compelled to pay parochial dues to the rectors of their parishes they are not to enter churches or chapels except en passant. They must not buy flesh in Lent, a more strict prohibition than that of the church, which only forbade their carrying it about.¹ No Christian must serve a Jew or eat or dwell with him, and no Christian woman must nurse a Jew's child. This is based on a decree of Innocent III., the alleged reason being the insult offered by Jews to Christianity in compelling Christian nurses to throw away their milk² for three days after receiving the sacrament. On entering England their names must be enrolled before justices of the Jews, nor can they leave the country,³ nor reside without license in towns where they have not hitherto lived. In the next reign there are several writs for their expulsion from such towns, as Winchelsea in 1273 and Windsor ten years later. In accordance with the decree of the Lateran Council in 1215,⁴ the wearing of a distinct badge is enforced, and there are other prohibitions as to discussing the faith, hindering other Jews from being converted, and such offences. The badge is called a tabula, and in subsequent enactments duæ tabulæ. It was probably made in imitation of the two tables of the law which Moses is represented as carrying. At first it was made of white linen or parchment,⁵ but afterwards altered to yellow felt.⁶ On the continent the distinguishing mark was a horned hat.⁷ In the later ordinances of 1271⁸

no Jew was allowed to have a freehold in lands or rents, by charter, gift, or feoffment, as was possible when Bracton wrote;¹ nor in London at least were they permitted to inhabit more houses. The social division of the two religions was increased by prohibiting Christians from being nurses, bakers, brewers, or cooks for Jews. It was during this reign that the Domus Conversorum was founded in New Streete, between the Old and New Temple, the site being now occupied by the Public Record Office.

Even in matters relating to their religion they were completely subject to the king. When the promised subscriptions for a burial ground were slow in coming in, "the Master of the Law of the Jews" obtained a royal license to excommunicate² the default-

² The anathema of the synagogue cut off the offender from the house of Israel. He became an outcast of society. The first process usually was the censure. The name and the offence of the delinquent were read for four succeeding sabbaths, during which he had time to make his peace with the congregation. At the end of that period the solemn Niddui or interdict was pronounced, which for 30 days separated the criminal from the hopes and privileges of Israel. For more heinous offences and against contumacious delinquents, the more terrific Cherem, or the still more fatal Shammata, the excommunication, was proclaimed *

* * The sentence of excommunication was couched in the most fearful phrases. The delinquent was excommunicated, anathematized, accursed,—by the book of the Law, by the ninety-three precepts, by the malediction of Joshua against Jericho, by that of Elisha against the children who mocked him, and so on through all the terrific threatenings of the ancient law and history. He was accursed by the mysterious names of certain spirits of deadly power. He was accursed by heaven and earth, by the seraphim and by the heavenly orbs. "Let nothing good come out of him, let his end be sudden, let all creatures become his enemies, let the whirlwind crush him, the fever, and every other malady, and the edge of the sword smite him, let his death be unforeseen, and drive him into outer darkness." Excommunication inflicted a civil death; how far at least in the milder form it excluded from the synagogue seems not quite clear. But no one, except his wife and children, might approach the moral leper, all others must avoid him the distance of a tois. If there were a dead body in his house, no one might enter it; if a ters, the fines, of course, to be paid into the royal treasury.¹ When Elias, the bishop of the Jews, was deprived of his office for resisting the demands of the king and of the earl of Cornwall, (to whom he had given them over to be gutted after he had himself flayed them,²) and for proposing to leave the kingdom, the king granted his flock leave to elect a successor, as if they had been a Christian chapter, not without a fine of three gold marks, which was paid by two brothers named Cresse and Haginus, who had a couple of months before been freed from talliage for five years for services rendered to the king of the Romans.³ The new bishop had to be presented to the king for confirmation,⁴ and one such confirmation at least is extant, granted by Edward I.⁵ at his queen's request in favour of one Haginus, son of Deulacres, probably the man just mentioned. That the queen had dealings with the Jews appears from Peckham's letter remonstrating with her for profiting by their usury.⁶ We see from this system of congé d'élire and confirmation that the supremacy claimed by the English crown in ecclesiastical matters was not confined to the Christian church.

A full account of the Exchequer of the Jews, in which all matters concerning the revenue derived from them were managed, will be found in Madox's History of the Exchequer (Vol. I., p. 221). or justiciarii Judæorum. They exercised jurisdiction in matters touching contracts with Jews, their property, fines, and the like. Under them were officers called chirographers, who in every town in which Jews resided, kept the arca in which their contracts were deposited, and made inventories of them. These officers were usually part Christians and part Jews, as were the justices also at first.

Accusations against the Jews for such crimes as circumcising and crucifying Christian children were rife at this period. As Dr. Tovey justly remarks, "The Jews are never said to have practised this crime, but at such times as the king was manifestly in great want of money,"¹ which unluckily for them was pretty often. That brutal oppression produces a spirit of cruelty in the oppressed as well as the oppressors is true enough, and there may have been cases in England to compare with the murder of a Christian girl at Nosa in 1197, mentioned by the Rabbi Joseph Ben Joshua Ben Meir,² but no one can read the accounts, circum-

² Chronicle, i. 219. This book, of which the title is "The Book of the Words of the Days of the Kings of France, and the Kings of the House of Othman, the Turk, which the wise Rabbi Joseph, the son of Joshua, the son of Meir, the Priest, the Sphardi, compiled, &c.," was translated from the Amsterdam edition by C. H. F. Bialloblotzky for the Oriental Translation Fund. The author lived at Avignon and Genoa, and his account of French and Italian affairs for his own period, the first half of the 16th century, is of some value. The language throughout is biblical, and the translator has carefully preserved the flavour, the effect being very quaint. In some cases Hebrew phrases are used with a totally different sense to what our translators of the Bible have given. For instance, the rabbi uses the words translated in Gen. xxv., 28, "because he did eat of his venison" as meaning "because he used flat-tery." Sometimes the translator has misapprehended the meaning. "Teaching Scriptures in the camp with bow and arrows," for which the Jewish physician at the siege of Rhodes was "rent in pieces as one would tear a kid," does not mean, as Mr. Bialloblotzky explains it, "that he was a scholar as well as a soldier," but that he kept up a treasonable correspondence with the Turks by means of his bow and arrows.

stantial as they are, given by historians of these supposed crimes, and contained in the depositions before courts of law, without feeling their improbability. Consider the charges on which the Templars were suppressed: the appearance of a supernatural cat at their meetings, the spitting on the cross, and other monstrous ceremonies of initiation. Consider the evidence seriously adduced at trials for witchcraft; and to come to still more recent times, the conduct of the Government of New York during the so-called Negro Plot in 1741, and it will be seen how easy it is to make the people believe anything when their prejudices help them. In the case of abduction and circumcision at Norwich, referred to in the editor's preface to the second volume of the new edition of Bracton,¹ though the evidence is given with most minute details, the King's court had good reason for doubting the truth of the charge, and dismissing it. The accused did not however escape, for what a lay court could not do, an ecclesiastical court did, and in spite of the clearest evidence that the crime had not been committed the bishop of Norwich condemned them to death. The proceedings are printed from the roll in Tovey's Anglia Judaica, p. 96. In the better known case of Hugh of Lincoln, the miraculous elements of the story are an additional reason for disbelieving it, for it would not have been necessary to invent circumstances of such a kind to substantiate a true charge. Mr. Stuart Lethieullier, in a paper read before the Society of Antiquaries in 1736, argues for the truth of the story, because Matthew Paris "probably could not be imposed upon in a fact he was contemporary with, it happening above five years before his death," and because it is proved by records that Jews were hanged for the crime. Does not this reasoning almost justify Horace Walpole's translation of Archæologia as "old woman's logic?"

The next reign, that of Edward I., saw the expulsion of the nation from this land. Before that event took place the King appeared to be trying to force them by severities to be converts to Christianity, and by forbidding the practice of usury to compel them to adopt manufactures and husbandry as means of livelihood. The same thing had been attempted some years before by St. Louis, in France, but without success.¹ By the Statute of Jewry, which Dr. Tovey has shown to have been passed before 5 Edward I.,² in which opinion the editors of the Statutes concur, the king entirely forbade usury, though he acknowledged the benefits derived by himself and his ancestors from the Jews. Hitherto they were allowed to take 2*d.* a week interest on the loan of 1*l.*, as appears by a prohibition of their taking more from the scholars of Oxford.³ The same rate is charged in a bond printed by Mr. E. A. Bond in the Archæologia (xxviii. 226), but in this case the interest is only payable if the principal is not repaid by a certain date, which is not considered usury. This evasion of the law was invented by the Italian banking firm, the Caursini, in 1255, and imitated by the Jews, who wished to keep themselves on the safe side of the law, though they laughed at Christian hypocrisy.⁴

The other articles of the statute repeat former re-

² There is a commission to enforce this statute dated 24 May, 1277 (Pat. 5, Edw. I. m. 13), which is printed both in Rymer's Fœdera and by Dr. Tovey (p. 205), in neither case correctly. The sentence "Arche cyrographar' (cyro-grapharie or cyrographarum) "Judeorum nostrorum esse consueverant," is printed in the strictions as to living in places where they have no arca, forbid them to enfeoff Jews or Christians without license; to serve any one but the king; or to dwell with Christians; and enforce the wearing of a yellow badge at seven years of age. On the other hand, the king, calling them his serfs, professes to take them under his protection, and formally desires his officers to defend and protect them, and his subjects not to molest them in their bodies or goods.

The worthlessness of this protection appears from the fact that shortly after 280 Jews of both sexes were executed for clipping money. That the accusations in many cases were false was so well known that the justices were empowered to receive fines to save those who were accused but had not been already indicted, from future proceedings.¹ The comfort and safety of the Jews themselves is the reason assigned in the writ, but it was not a very kingly act to stop extortion by the people by converting the stream into the royal exchequer.

The attempts for their conversion took various forms. In 1279 a proclamation was issued forbidding blasphemy or irreverence to what Christians held sacred on pain of death, and threatening apostates with the same fate.² In the following year the Dominicans persuaded the king to order the sheriffs to compel the Jews to attend sermons specially composed for their benefit, and not only to compel them to be present, but to listen diligenter et benigne absque tumultu, contentione vel blasphemia.³ John Evelyn gives an account of a similar ceremony as he saw it in Rome in 1645, and it continued till the late pope abolished it. The probable effect on the hearers is well described by Browning in his poem entitled "Holy Cross Day."

The Black Friars had before this shown signs of a just and kindly feeling to the persecuted race. After the murder of the boy at Lincoln, of which these people were accused, the friars exerted themselves strenuously to procure the liberation of the prisoners, even of those whom it was hopeless to attempt to convert. The Annalist of Burton¹ is horribly shocked at their conduct, and hints at bribery, but the result was loss, not gain, to them, for the Londoners refused in consequence to give them alms or assist them in any way.

Perhaps it was in view of a harvest from these sermons that the Domus Conversorum was now re-endowed. It was the universal custom throughout Europe for converted Jews to forfeit their property, in spite of the decree of the Lateran Council forbidding this iniquity,² another instance of the greater severity of the temporal power than the spiritual. Even in Italy, where the canon law was more regarded than in England, the same practice prevailed, and it was commented upon by anti-papal writers during the Reformation.³ Edward I. gave up this right for seven years, assigning one half to the hospital and the other to be retained by the owner. The chevage paid by the Jews, forfeits, and the reversion of deodands, which had been given for a time to the Dominicans, were also added to the revenue.

This money was to be primarily spent on the celebration of divine service and the education and maintenance of the converts; and the surplus to be devoted to the beautifying of the chapel. Converts taking holy orders and getting a benefice would cease to be supported out of the funds, and laymen also, on learning a trade and being able to earn their own living honestly. The subsequent history of the house is well known, that it was annexed by Edward III. and Richard II. to the Mastership of the Rolls, being still liable to a claim from those for whose benefit the property was originally set apart.¹ In the accounts of Thomas Cromwell, when Master of the Rolls, a payment of three halfpence a day to three "converses" is an annual item; and even as late as the reign of James II. a like pension was claimed and paid. The master of the hospital at the time of which this volume treats was John of St. Dennis, archdeacon of Rochester. He died in 1288, being succeeded by Robert de Scardeburgh.

It is to his mastership of the hospital that the archbishop refers, when he requests the king to desire the archdeacon to proceed against apostate Jews.² The archbishop acknowledges that no pressure must be put upon Jews to force them into Christianity, for Pope Clement III. had already laid this down as a distinct principle,³ but he invokes the king's zeal for Christianity as shown in his ordinance of 1279,⁴ to prosecute the apostates. It was said indeed that those who were in distress professed Christianity in order to share the endowments of the Domus Conversorum, and that directly they found themselves a little better off they relapsed. This, however, is not very probable, considering the strong attachment of Jews to their religion and their charity to their brethren in distress. Morysine, in a passage already quoted, says that there are no Jewish beggars. One case of apostacy is, however, mentioned by Matthew Paris, the convert having taken deacon's orders before his relapse to his old faith. He was hanged.¹

Two other of Peckham's letters refer to the synagogue in London.² In 1231 we find the Jews building a handsome synagogue. This must have been finished in 1253, in which year Matthew Paris³ speaks of the "Schola Judæorum" as a public place, where some bonds stolen from the abbey of St. Alban's were cried. In the riots of 1263, when Kok, son of Abraham, one of the richest and most influential of his people, was barbarously murdered by John Fitz John, this building was, Dr. Margoliouth says, "reduced to ashes."⁴ This is probably an exaggeration, for the only authority I know for the statement is that of the Annals of Winchester, which merely say that "eorum synagogæ datæ dedecori."⁵ Not many years after, however, Henry III. gave the building and site to the Friars of St. Anthony of Vienna, and it became their hospital.⁶ According to Tanner, their hospital was "on the north side of Threadneedle Street, " in the parish of St. Benet Fink," but this must have been their new church, built for them by John Tate, mayor in 1473.

Queen Eleanor's confirmation of Henry III.'s grant shows that their first house, and therefore the synagogue which it supplanted, was in Colechurch Street, in the parishes of St. Olave's, in the Jewry, and St. Margaret's, Lothbury.

Not dismayed by this loss, the Jews set to work upon a new "schola," in 1281, and archbishop Peckham ordered the bishop of London to prevent its completion by threats of excommunication and interdict.⁷ The land on which the work was commenced had recently been given to the community by Aaron, son of Vyves, and he had taken the precaution to get his grant confirmed, first by Edmund, earl of Lancaster, and then by the king himself.¹ It is this confirmation that is referred to in the footnote to p. 407. Aaron must have put the earl of Lancaster, and perhaps the king as well, under some obligations, for we find the earl granting him freedom from tallages, aids, and other exactions, and liberty to dwell in any town in which Jews already reside.² The consideration for the freedom is a pair of gilt spurs annually. The plot of ground was situated in St. Laurence parish, in the street called Catte Strete, afterwards Cateaton Street, now Gresham Street, and was bounded by the messuages of the late Vyves, son of Master Moses, and of Aaron himself; by the king's high road; and by a garden bought from Margalicia, daughter of Benedict the bishop, and Juda, her daughter.

The next month Peckham writes again to say that he hears that the chief Jews have synagogues of their own, and orders the bishop to destroy them, leaving them one only, as allowed by canon law. He was, however, obliged to revoke this order and issue another excepting the new building on the land given by Aaron, and further, on the Jews' complaint, writes again to the bishop to explain that they must be allowed to rebuild their old synagogue if they are not attempting craftily to increase the number, but that they are not to decorate it, as any place would be good enough for them "to beat the air with their good-for-nothing ceremonies." The following passage from the Decretals will show with what scrupulous regard for law the archbishop acted. "Judæos etiam de novo construere synagogas, ubi eas non habuerint, pati non debes. Verum si antiquæ corruerint, vel ruinam minantur, ut eas reedificent, potest æquanimiter tolerari, non autem, ut eas exal-

“tent, aut ampliores aut pretiosiores faciant, quam antea fuisse noscuntur, qui utique hoc pro magno debent habere, quod in veteribus synagogis et suis observantiis tolerantur.”¹ If the building was ever completed it only served its intended purpose for a few years, and came into the king's hands with their other property at the expulsion in 1290.

There are scarcely any traces of the old synagogues in England. The church of the Holy Sepulchre in Cambridge has been considered to have been formerly built for Israelite worship, but on no better evidence than its proximity to the Jewry, and its circular shape.² At Bury St. Edmunds, where the Jews suffered massacre at the expulsion in 1290,² there is a house called “Moyses Hall,” which is supposed to have been either a synagogue or a dwelling house of Jews. The oldest part of it is of the eleventh or twelfth century, the ground floor having semicircular arches springing from pillars with Norman capitals and bases.

Dr. Tovey has apparently confused this building with the remains of the monastery built by Fursæus, at Burgh Castle. At Lincoln also there is a house in the Bull Ring which once belonged to Belaset de Wallingford, a Jewess who was hanged for clipping coin in the eighteenth year of Edward I. There is a brief description of it in Allen's History of Lincolnshire.

Murder in St. Paul's.

Other illustrations of the History of London will be found in the letters referring to the outrage at St. Paul's, when the constable of the Tower pursued some escaped prisoners as far as the cathedral, where they took refuge. Being determined to recover them, he entered the sacred building in pursuit. One of the fugitives was wounded before the high altar, and the rest were beheaded just outside the churchyard. The whole of London was accordingly put under an interdict.⁴

The case of Tedisius de Camilla, dean of Wolverhampton, which occupied some space in the first volume, comes up again here. The delinquent appealed to the Pope against the archbishop's sentence of deprivation, and procured the intercession of some of the cardinals with Peckham to allow him to hold his benefices, but he was inexorable.

Tedisius de Camilla.

Plurality, as we have already seen, was a special object of the primate's wrath. He was successful in 1280 in opposing the election of Richard de la More as bishop of Winchester on this ground, and in 1283 he won a similar victory at Rochester. John de Bradefeld, who died on St. Gregory's day 1283, was precentor of the monastery when he was elected bishop. Being humble and quiet in the cloister, the monks thought he would still be so in the bishop's throne. No little bribery was necessary to procure his election and confirmation, and it was all thrown away.² Ἀρχὴ ἄνδρα δελεῖ, and instead of the patient submissive precentor, the priory found they had a hard avaricious bishop, who cared nothing for the prior or the monks, and exacted the gift of St. Andrew to the uttermost farthing. On his death they elected a stranger, John de Kyrkeby, archdeacon of Coventry, but Peckham refused to confirm their postulation, on the ground of his notoriously holding several benefices with cure of souls. Wharton supposes that he refused the dignity, but his resignation, a certificate of which is stitched in to the archiepiscopal register, was evidently on compulsion. The right of election had hereby devolved upon the archbishop, but he allowed the convent another choice.³ They selected Thomas de Yngelthorp, dean of St. Paul's, who was consecrated at Canterbury on 26 Sept.⁴ following.

occurred. A large roll was flung into the archbishop's face, the outrage being accompanied by violent and abusive language.¹ The assailant was the sacristan of Westminster, a partisan of Tedisius de Camilla, who had been trying to collect the revenues of his benefices in Kent, and had been excommunicated for so doing.² It need hardly be said that the sentence was immediately repeated. At another time also archbishop Peckham was subjected to personal insult, when his servants were attacked and himself hooted at at Alcester Abbey, a cell of Evesham.³ What the cause was does not appear. It may have been connected with the sequestration of the abbot of Evesham's benefices a year ago for refusing to attend the council at Lambeth.

At visitations, also, the officials were ordered to cite all rectors holding several benefices, to exhibit their dispensations for this breach of the law,⁴ and also those who had held benefices for a year without being ordained. Six months was the longest time fixed by the Council of Lyons for such an arrangement to last,⁵ but in England it was extended to a year.

The manor of Quincy and the house at Lyons,⁶ of which the lease fell vacant in 1283 by the death of Chatardus de Chamaremi, dean of Lyons,⁷ were granted to the see of Canterbury by Guichard, or Wicard, who held the archbishopric of Lyons from 1165 to 1180. Before his elevation to that dignity, he had been abbot of Pontigny, the monastery where Thomas Beckett passed nearly two years of his absence from England. He thus had been brought into connection with the see of Canterbury, and no doubt acquired an affection for the archbishop, who attempted at first to imitate the Cistercian austerities, but soon broke down. One of Becket's biographers speaks of the abbot as smilingly chaffing his guest, when boasting of his readiness to submit to death for the cause of the church, with the incongruity of the cup of wine he was drinking and the cup of martyrdom.¹ Hugh of Poitiers² also mentions his co-operating with Becket in attempting to patch up a quarrel between the Count and Countess of Nevers and the abbot of Vezelay. The grant in question, however, was not made to Becket, but to his successor. As it has not, I believe, hitherto been printed, I have given it here in full.

The enthusiasm for the newly martyred archbishop did not stop here, for only a few years after dean Olivier de Chavannes built a chapel in his honour, on the heights of Fourvieres, which his successor, Stephen de St. Amour, in conjunction with archbishop Jean de Bellesmes, completed and refounded as a conventual and collegiate church.¹

king of Castile, and his son
Sancho.

While Peckham was at South Malling² in July 1283, news came to England of the misfortunes of Alfonso El Sabio, king of the Romans and of Castile, Leon, &c., king Edward's father-in-law. Many years before this he had been a competitor for the imperial crown against Richard, earl of Cornwall. By the help of the relations of his mother, Beatrice, daughter of Philip of Swabia, he succeeded in procuring his election by one party of the nobles, while the earl was equally successful by means of another. Neither, however, could ever succeed in establishing their authority, and Alfonso considerably injured his position at home by sending money and men to support his party. At his rival's death in 1272, he hoped to attain his end without more trouble, but the electors, instigated by the pope (Gregory X.) fixed upon Rudolph, count of Hapsburg, and those of Alfonso's adherents, who refused to acknowledge the validity of the election, were excommunicated. The Spanish king did not accept even this as a total defeat, and continued to intrigue against the new emperor. In 1275 he visited the pope at Beaucaire, but reaped no advantage from the interview,

although he had attempted to gain the pope's favour by modifying the old laws of the Visigoths in accordance with the canon law, by giving up the independence of the Spanish church, and allowing to the clergy immunities and privileges hitherto unknown in the peninsula. King Edward also wrote a fruitless letter to the pope in his favour,¹ and promised himself to help him, though he did not scruple to accept his rival's proposals for his son Hartmann's marriage with the princess Johanna. The dissatisfaction caused by these changes was taken advantage of by the king's second son, Sancho, who allied himself with Mahomet I., the founder of the kingdom of Granada, and attacked his father. Before long the Moors of Africa joined in the war. The Infante, Don Fernando de la Cerda (of the Bristle) died during his father's absence in France, from the fatigue and hardships of the campaign. Fernando had left two sons by his wife Blanche, sister of king Philip of France, but the Cortes, which met at Segovia in 1276, decided that by the laws of the Visigoths, the second son was the rightful heir. Sancho was accordingly proclaimed successor to the throne. War with France followed, in which Edward tried to mediate, and, indeed, promised to come to Gascony² to assist in patching up a peace, though affairs at home prevented him from fulfilling his intention, and again in 1282 he wrote to both combatants excusing himself from giving assistance, and recommending peace. Alfonso proposed to the Cortes to separate Murcia from his crown in favour of his two young nephews. This did not increase the respect in which he was held by his subjects, and his popularity was destroyed by depreciation of the coinage, and other acts of rapacity and cruelty,³ so that Don Sancho had not much difficulty in procuring his father's deposition. His uncle, Don Miguel, proposed that he should be king, but he contented himself with the title of regent. Seville alone remained faithful to the old king, and none of his Christian neighbours would help him. The king of England, however, pitying a deposed king, sent him 100 Gascon knights, notwithstanding his previous refusal, and his old enemy, Abu Jusef Ben Merin, king of Morocco, chivalrously came to his assistance. Moorish lances and spiritual artillery (for the pope excommunicated Don Sancho's adherents) turned the scale in his favour, and as he was on the eve of regaining his throne, Sancho made overtures for reconciliation, of which Alfonso gladly informed the pope,¹ that he might remove the ban from his son, but very shortly after he died. Sancho now succeeded him, but civil wars and Moorish invasion made his reign as uneasy as his fathers.

The bishop of Tusculum, whom Peckham defends against a charge of assisting Sancho, no doubt knew something about Spanish affairs, for the ambassadors of Edward and Alfonso had jointly applied to him for help when in Rome, but there does not appear to be any evidence as to his taking any side in the matter. He may have attempted to dissuade the Pope from excommunicating Sancho.

There are two errors in vol. I. which require correction. One is the reference to Dionysius the Carthusian of the quotation, "hierarchis in hiis quæ agunt hierarchice obediendum est sicut a Deo motis."²

It is a translation of a passage in the "Ecclesiastical Hierarchy" of Dionysius the Areopagite.³

The other error is a double one. The word "tuitio" was translated "wardship" in the marginal abstract of

³ Τους δὲ ἄλλους οὕτω τοῖς ἱεράρχοις, ἐν οἷς ἂν ἰδῶσιν ἱεραρχικῶς, προσεκτέον, ὡς ὑποθεῖν κεκινημένους. Ὁ ἀθετῶν γὰρ ὑμᾶς, φησὶν, ἐμὲ ἀθετεῖ. Cap. vii. § 7.

No. cxliii., and on the authority of a passage in the Decretals, corrected in the Errata to "testamentary jurisdiction." Neither of these meanings is right, at least in this connection. The "tuitio" was the prerogative which the archbishop possessed as legatus natus (since the time of Theobald) of receiving appeals and protecting the appellants from the jurisdiction of the bishops of their province. The archbishop himself defines it as "the duty of protecting appellants to the Holy See, from being attached in persons or goods, that so they may prosecute their appeals the more freely."¹

The following words of Matthew Parker will explain it more fully.

"Præterea cum in hiis causis in quibus jam ad regiam majestatem appellatur, antiquitus ad usurpatum Romanum consistorium appellatum fuit, Cantuariensis archiepiscopus de causa controversa summarie cognovit, reïque controversæ possessionem juxta juris exigentiam uni litigantium adjudicavit, proprietatis jure ad instantiam et exitum appellationis reservato. Et hæc appellatio, quia possessionis tuendæ causa interponebatur, tuitoria dicta est. Cujus præsidio ut possessionem firmaret, non modo litigantibus, sed ipsis Romani Pontificis judicibus delegatis inhibuit, ne lite pendente quacunq̄e innovatione possessionem a se decretam turbarent, aut appellanti præjudicium inferrent. Ad hoc possessionis tuendæ auxilium implorandum, non modo ex sua provincia, sed ex Eboracensi, atque Hibernia, aliisque provinciis Gallicanis quæ quondam in Angliæ regis ditione fuerunt, omnes ad Papam provocantes olim confugerunt."¹

A treatise was written, "De consuetudinibus ac statutis in tuitoriis causis observandis," by John Alen, archbishop of Dublin, who had acted as judge in Cardinal Wolsey's legatine court,¹ but I have not been able to discover any copy at present existing.

I have attempted in these pages to illustrate a few of the events of interest with which archbishop Peckham was connected, and which are recorded in the portion of his Register printed in this volume.

There will be found, besides, much information concerning ecclesiastical affairs in various parts of the kingdom, to which it is unnecessary here to call attention in detail.

pagina continentur, a te, fili prior, sumentes exordium, qui in absentia nostra abbatis geris officium, ex cujus moribus et industria totius monasterii bona dispositio cognoscitur dependere. In primis, igitur, quia omnium tam spiritualium quam temporalium tibi ex regula committitur dispensatio, ut vigore meriti ministerium tuum facias honorabile, et commisso tuo collegio fructuosum; volumus et mandamus, ut quotienscumque vacare poteris commode, et forinseca negotia id permittent, quorum onus pro subditis tuis cogere principaliter sustinere, quasi cervus umbram desiderans, ad claustrum refrigerium confugas, et ibidem sedens et silens cum fratribus conquiescas, sicut aquila ad volandum provocans pullos suos, ut et fratrum confiteri volentium cures vulnera, et consolides vacillantes, ac in ceteris locis communibus, utpote choro in vigiliis, dormitorio in quiete, capitulo in collationibus, refectorio in necessitatibus, te sic realiter priorem ac præcessorem exhibeas, ut oves cum gaudio te sequantur. Alioquin si, quod absit, implicationem forinsecam ultro amaveris, si etiam, quod absit, laxius vixeris, si vigiliarum excubias remissius custodieris, in te adimplebitur, quod avertat Altissimus, illud Sapientis elogium, "Rex insipiens populum suum perdet."¹ Demum vobis filiis scribimus universis, ut divinarum laudum officio vos totis viribus coaptantes, horis canonicis in choro cum fratribus, ubi Verbi Incarnati est procul dubio præsentia corporalis, ubi condigne psallentibus angelorum assistit applausus, dimissis omnibus intersitis, illis duntaxat exceptis qui ex causa necessaria coguntur abesse de certa conscientia præsentis. Et qui secus fecerint, secundum regulam puniantur, de quo tuam, prior, conscientiam in tremendo iudicio oneramus. Et ne causari valeas impotentiam, volumus et mandamus vice et auctoritate nostra cervices indomitas, si quæ fuerint, in hoc et in aliis corrigas, in minoribus arbitrarie, in gravioribus autem de consilio seniorum tibi assidentium, quos non solum annorum numerus verum vita immaculata facit amplius reverendos. Ubi autem regula certam pœnam infligit, magistram sequaris regulam ut teneris. Nec etiam aliquid subtrahas de necessariis communitati, seu in vestibus seu alimentis, seu necessariis quibuscunque, sine communi consilio, juxta quod regula fieri mandat in capitulo "De fratribus ad consilium adhibendis."¹ Nec juniores fratres administrationibus interioribus vel exterioribus quomodolibet implicentur, donec suum servitium reddiderint competenter, nisi sint tales quibus propter prærogativam meritorum et utilitatem publicam fieri debeat gratia specialis. Nulli insuper fratri pro necessitate quacunque seu negotio de claustro egredi liceat, absque socio interius et exterius non suspecto sibi assignato de certa conscientia præsentis. Inhibemus autem ne in prioris absentia quicunque, supprior vel alius pro conventus regimine subrogatus, alicui vel aliquibus præbeat exeundi licentiam, ad quemcunque locum vel loca, cui vel quibus priorem si præsens esset putat probabiliter velle negare licentiam exeundi. Sacristæ autem et camerario equos, bigas et prata concedimus, quæ pro suo explendo officio habere consueverunt temporibus retroactis. Ita tamen quod eisdem sacristæ et camerario non liceat equos ipsos aut bigas accommodare alicui sine licentia præsentis. Circa dispensationem vero temporalium forma ista inviolabiliter observetur: ut, videlicet, prior de fratrum consilio, ut fieri consuevit, ballivos collocet in singulis maneriis sæculares, et præpositos aliquos de tenentibus ecclesiæ fideles et industrios in eisdem. Ita tamen quod ballivi nullam pecuniam recipiant de maneriis, sed dumtaxat præpositi omnes proventus et exitus maneriorum undecunque provenientes recipiant et colligant, et ad thesaurariam deferant, sub custodia thesaurariorum, absque diminutione qualibet collocanda, exceptis tantummodo possessionibus illis quæ sunt ad eleemosynariam in subsidium egenorum et ad præcentoris officium pro librorum custodia deputatæ. Ita quod omnia alia bona monasterii temporalia ex quacunque causa seu spirituali seu temporali provenientia, ad thesaurum veniant evidenter, et tam prior pro necessitatibus personæ suæ, vel ecclesiæ, quam ceteri obedientiarum, ex eodem thesauro recipiant omnia sibi necessaria sine fraude. Prohibemus autem, monentes primo, secundo et tertio, quia evidens periculum excludit inducias longiores, ne per aliam viam quis audeat vel in maneriis vel in ecclesia vel alibi ubicunque bona ecclesiæ contrectare, seu in privatos usus quomodocunque convertere, sub pœna excommunicationis majoris, quam in hiis scriptis ferimus in quoscunque contrarium facere præsumentes, abusum talem dampnatæ proprietatis ac sacrilegii vitium reputantes. Præpositi autem ipsi de receptis reddant rationem coram priore vel aliquo ejus vices gerente, et aliquibus discretis fratribus, prout fieri consuevit. Provideatur insuper per priorem et capituli seniores, quod duo fratres honesti et providi, quando dicetur eis per priorem de seniorum consilio, visitent pariter maneria prioratus quæ sunt in Kancia, et duo alii maneria extra Kanciam, qui statum maneriorum, ac ballivorum et præpositorum diligentiam seu negligentiam, explorent sollicite, et priori et conventui referant quod invenerint in præmissis. Ita tamen quod isti supervisores nullam recipiant pecuniam in maneriis, sed præpositi eis sumptus necessarios subministrent, et expensas necessarias, si quas facturi sunt, usque ad proximum manerium juxta distantiam itineris faciendi; et de sumptibus et expensis faciant tallias monachis supradictis. Præterea, quia secundum regulam prior omnia domus negotia tractare et expedire habet, de consilio totius capituli vel seniorum, et plerumque difficile est in celeritate qua decet omnes senes ad consilium convocare, huic periculo obviantes, sex fratres quos in capitulo ad hoc deputavimus seniorum nomine intelligimus ad consilium vocandorum, ita quod prior nihil talium istis sex faciat inconsultis. Et quando id requirit negotiorum arduitas, plures convocet de consilio prædictorum, quorum auditis consiliis id eligat quod secundum Deum magis viderit expedire. Ita tamen quod fratribus sic vocatis revelet ad quam partem velit negotii declinare: nec omnes putet senes esse ad consilium convocandos, sed illos tantum quos vita bona et laudabilis commendat conscientia.

Cum dicit sapiens, "A consiliario malo conserva animam tuam,"¹ et alibi, "Cum fatuis consilium non habeas;"² et quia secundum regulam,³ non licet fratribus vocatis ad consilium procaciter defendere sensum suum, si qui contrarium facere præsumpserint, ipsis merito a consilio exclusis, loco eorum alii Deum timentes et humiles subrogentur. Exiturus insuper prior ad quæcunque negotia procuranda vel ad videnda maneria, de prædictis sex fratribus juxta formam quam sibi in capitulo præfiximus, duos secum ducat ad minus, quorum consilio in suis processibus innitatur. Et si quos ibi sumptus inopinatos necessarium sit effundere, vel in exenniis vel in donis, communicato id faciat fratrum consilio prædictorum, et hoc in reditu suo aliis referat. Ita quod omnia facta sua fiant in luce secundum sancti regulam Benedicti. Quandocunque insuper exire cogitur ad partes remotas vel ad oca talia fratres aliquos destinare, causas talium egressionum vel missionum revelet capitulo, quando hoc sine periculo fieri posse existimat bona fide. Omnia autem dona vel exennia fiant nomine prioris et capituli, cum ea quæ dantur sint communitatis jure, quorum prior esse dinoscitur dispensator. Nec aliquod donum notabile præbeat cuicumque in auro vel argento, vel quocunque pecuniæ genere, exceptis esculentis et poculentis, nisi communicato consilio prædictorum. Et dicimus donum notabile quod dimidiam marcam excedit, secundum consuetudinem ecclesiæ, ut aiunt seniores. In boscis autem dandis vel vendendis, hæc forma de cetero teneatur, ut hæc venditio absque consilio capituli nunquam fiat. Et cum eam fieri cogit necessitas vel honestas, ad hoc faciendum duo fratres idonei, bonæ famæ interius et exterius, de quorum vita et moribus prior probabiliter sit securus, per ipsum et capitulum assignentur, quibus in litera patenti capituli forma certa et limitata præfigatur, et carecteria communia eis tradantur, sine quorum visu nulla vendendo aut dando nemora distrahantur. De officialibus vero ecclesiæ volumus de cetero taliter provideri, ut videlicet prior, vocatis ad scaccarium senioribus sex prædictis ad minus, tractet de personis magis idoneis ad hujusmodi officium exequendum, et illum nominet in capitulo pro hoc officio, cui majus et fidelius testimonium ac major fratrum numerus attestantur. Ita tamen ut juxta quod dicit regulæ capitulum tricesimum secundum,¹ illum in tali officio prior præficiat, de cujus vita et moribus ac competenti sufficientia saltem probabiliter sit securus. Idem etiam ordo teneatur circa fratres ab officiis amovendos, salva tamen

R. f. 80 b.

Frater J[ohannes], etc., venerabili in Christo fratri domino W[illelmo], Dei gratia Norwycensi episcopo, salutem et sinceram in Domino caritatem. Scripsit nobis vestra fraternitas supplicando ne turbemur ex relatibus aliquorum, qui nobis suggestisse dicuntur vos ex frequentia querelarum nostram curiam præ ceteris suffraganeis nostris inquietasse, ac nostram velle jurisdictionem metropolitancam plus aliis perturbare. Sciat vestra caritas prædilecta, quod in præsentiarum non tenemus memoriter talia nobis fuisse suggesta, et si fortassis sinistra relatio ad aures nostras aliquid consimile detulisset, tali relatui fides per nos non fuisset adhibita, quin potius experientia didicimus, quod juris nostri etiam præ ceteris confratribus zelatores existitis, et de hoc proculdubio confidenciam adhuc gerimus specialem. Cujus rei gratia in ambiguitate habita inter nos et confratres super jurisdictionis exercitio, vestro specialiter usi sumus consilio, et uti volumus in futurum. Verumtamen ex habundanti et fortassis supervacue vestram fraternitatem requirimus, quatenus sicut hactenus vestra devotio erga nos et Cantuariensem ecclesiam prærogativa quadam benevolentia dinoscitur præfulsisse, sic de cetero velit vestris cavere processibus, ne quicquam emergat quod sinistris interpretibus exemplum inobedienciæ ostendere videatur, quia revera plus gravaret nostrum animum nota modica rebellionis vestræ propter confidenciam quam habemus, quam aliorum recalcitratio manifesta. Ceterum, super hiis quæ nobis per dilectum clericum nostrum vivæ vocis oraculo nunciastis, attendat vestra fraternitas quod licet, ut debemus, promotionem magistri Adæ de Hales affectemus, tamen nihil a vobis petere proponimus, quod juri sit contrarium aut dissonum æquitati, et quicquid pro ipso scripserimus, talem sibi gratiam et non aliam fieri petimus quæ saluti suæ conveniat et ecclesiasticæ congruat honestati. Porro dispensationem seu moderationem faciendam circa observantias monialium vestræ diocesis in visitatione nostra factas, vestræ prudentiæ relinquimus; ita quod pro nobis et vobis reddatis super hiis in extremo judicio rationem. Proposuimus autem fratres Rading' vel ad aliquem locum communem pro variis congregasse, maxime si Dominus aliquid inspiraverit quod congrueret honori regiæ majestatis, quodque tractaremus plenius super jurisdictione cum confratribus, quia aliqui tanto nobis magis ingratos se exhibent, quanto eis gratiam fecimus ampliorem, aliqui etiam ex propria pharetra quædam scripserunt statuta et scripta mirabilia, exhibentes ipsa in locis publicis ac asserentes falsissime nos talia edidisse. Vestro tamen consilio quantum cum honestate possumus in hiis sicut in aliis inhærere volentes, propositum nostrum ad tempus differimus donec videamus quid circa hoc deliberato consilio fuerit faciendum. Super quo vos satis tempestive eritis prævuniti, et si per custodiam pacis vobis commissam vel alio modo legitimo prævediti fueritis quominus venire poteritis, licet grata et fructuosa vestra esset præsentia, nihilominus ipsam absentiam habebimus favorabiliter excusatam. Præterea non mittimus vobis transcriptum privilegii cruce signatis indulti, nec processum habitum in visitatione nostra contra vicarium de Langham, quem a nobis per dictum nostrum clericum petivistis, quia nec ipsum privilegium nec rotulos visitationis vestræ dicecesis ad manus habuimus in recessu præsentium portitoris, sed alias si inveniri valeant fiet libentius quod rogastis. Et vos eidem archidiacono, ut asserit, dixistis coram multis, et officialis vester coram vobis tunc personaliter existens vobiscum asseruit pro constanti, quod nullam excommunicationis seu interdicti sententiam per vos seu per officialem vestrum seu per quemcunque alium unquam in ipsum fulminastis, seu fulminari fecistis quoquo modo. Pestis autem hujusmodi sunt ut asseritur clandestini compositores, advocati quidam qui in curia Cantuariensi continue conversantur, quibus largitas ipsius curiæ tanquam suis familiaribus sæpe subministrat divitias varias et honores, et illi retributionem ei impendunt, quam juxta vulgare proverbium, "Mūs in pera, serpens in gremio, ignis in sinu," suis consueverunt hospitibus exhibere. Sunt etiam nonnulli, qui dum in causis ecclesiasticis se sentiunt judicialiter condemmandos, ad vetitum examen convolantes, judicialem indaginem, quæ cohæret ecclesiasticæ libertati, enervari procurant per potentias sæculares, dum curiam Christianissimi principis nostri per falsi suggestiones et veri suppressiones fallaciter alliciunt ad scribendum. Per quod libertas condolet se læsam absque remedio respirandi, et veritas justitiæ, quæ pietatis studio consuevit oppressis judicialiter subvenire, miseræ socialitatis consortio confusa concidit funditus in ruinam. Cum igitur omnes infringentes in aliquo seu perturbantes ecclesiasticam libertatem, sint auctoritate Oxoniensis concilii majoris excommunicationis, sententia innodati, nos volentes hæc et hiis similia, quæ cavillosa calliditas ad subversionem justitiæ ac ecclesiasticæ libertatis novercalibus insidiis machinatur, prout possibile est hiis temporibus extirpare, vobis committimus et mandamus quatenus si quos de cetero inveneritis qui ope, consilio seu favore, clam vel palam, arte qualicunque, machinatione, seu ingenio per se vel per alios aliquid in præjudicium nostræ jurisdictionis seu fori nostri, quæ libertatis ecclesiæ Cantuariensis portionem non modicam reputamus, ausi fuerint attemptare, ipsos tanquam majoris excommunicationis sententia veraciter innodatos auctoritate memorati concilii eviteris et faciatis ab omnibus arctius evitari, donec deliberaverimus cum peritis quid ulterius contra tales canonice fuerit exequendum. Volumus etiam et mandamus quod præsens mandatum nostrum vobis, decane de Arcubus London', et vestris successoribus committatur, ut bis in anno, quotiens major ibidem exuberat litigantium multitudo, ad futuram rei memoriam in illo consistorio sollemniter ac publice recitetur, ne prætereundum valeant malignantes confictam ignorantiam præmissorum. TO THE SUBPRIOR OF RUFFORD.

Frater J[ohannes], etc., subpriori Rufford', salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Literas vestras nobis missas, prout earundem exhibitor asserebat, nuper recepimus, inter cetera præcipue prætendentes vos . . . abbatibus de Rufford, . . . archidiaconi Notingham judicum principalium a sede apostolica, ut dicitur, delegatorum commissarium in causa quæ vertitur, ut dicitis, inter abbatem et conventum de Cumbermere ex parte una, et abbatem et conventum de Sancto Ebrulfo super ecclesia de Dreyton', Conventrensium diocesis, ex altera, quarum quidem capitulis propensius intellectis, manifeste perpendimus quod eis obtemperare de jure minime debebamus, cum nobis super rescripto apostolico ac aliis quæ in hac parte requiruntur, merito hæsitantibus, secundum canonicas sanctiones non fuerit facta fides. Quæ quidem et si nobis canonicè facta fuisset, tamen propter errores tam juris quam facti multiplices in præfato mandato contentos, exequi non cogimur quod mandatur. Sane evidenter intelligunt, qui prudenter attendunt, quod cum status appellantium a quibuscunque judicibus ordinariis seu delegatis ad sedem apostolicam pendente appellatione, utriusque juris auctoritate integer esse debeat, quæ sic appellantes interim eximit a jurisdictione judicis appellati, ac ecclesia nostra Cantuariensis sit et fuerit in possessione, vel quasi jure scripto et non scripto, a tempore de quo memoria non existit, tuendi a quibuscunque judicibus etiam delegatis ad sedem apostolicam appellantes, ne in rebus vel personis medio tempore capiantur; dictæ ecclesiæ nostræ tuitionem ausu temerario, intellectu erroneo, ac mente sacrilega, corruptelam dicere præsumpsistis, ac sacris canonibus inimicam, quæ contra iniquorum vel stultorum judicum oppressiones sacrosanctæ sedis apostolicæ præcipue in hac parte specialis existit ministra; non intendens processus seu decreta aliquorum judicum appellationes ad sedem apostolicam interpositas præcedentia infirmare, seu quovis modo alio impedire, sed ut superius est expressum, contra opprimentes ad sedem apostolicam appellantibus subvenire, ac sedi prædictæ necnon et suis omnibus delegatis reverenter in canonicis obedire. Unde vestrum scire volumus monachatum, et vestræ prudentiæ complices, quod ibi incipit nostræ curiæ tuitio, ubi cessat seu suspenditur jurisdictio delegati. Quod idcirco vobis scribimus ut de cetero a talibus temeritatibus caveatis. Adhæc super eo quod nobis imponitur nos inhibitionem dictorum principalium judicum recepisse, ac eos super receptione nostris literis certificasse, et post præmissa sententiam excommunicationis in certas personas dicti monasterii de Cumbermere de facto fulminasse, ecclesiam sæpe dictam de Dreyton' ecclesiastico interdicto nihilominus supponendo, discretionem vestram volumus non latere quod nec inhibitionem hujusmodi recepimus, nec certificationem fecimus, quod sciamus. Et licet præmissa veritate niterentur, quod non credimus, nihil tamen contra prædictum abbatem seu aliquos de conventu acceptavimus, occasione causæ seu controversiæ memoratæ, sed nobis per dictam ecclesiam pro expeditione rei publicæ versus Walliam transeuntibus, et eandem ingredi ob certas causas volentibus, quidam monachorum prædicti monasterii de Cumbermere canonicè moniti ingressum liberum denegarunt, eam ut castrum manu armata detinentes temere obseratam. Propter quæ ad præmissas sententias excommunicationis et interdicti processimus justitia suadente. Ad hæc vos credimus non latere, quod omnes juris et libertatum ecclesiæ nostræ Cantuariensis turbatores in sententiam excommunicationis majoris in concilio Oxoniensi latam incidunt ipso facte. Quocirca vos rogamus, monemus et hortamur in Domino, et per vos, ipsos quorum prætenditis esse commissarium, ne vos, vel ipsi seu quivis alius seu alii, clam vel palam, directe vel indirecte, quacunquæ arte vel ingenio, quicquam in præjudicium juris et libertatum nostrarum et ecclesiæ nostræ Cantuariensis audeatis, audeat, vel audeant attemptare, faciatis, faciat, vel faciant aliquatenus attemptari. Et si qua per vos ipsum vel ipsos attemptata fuerint, ea studeatis, studeat, [vel] studeant quanto citius sine difficultate aliqua revocare. Alioquin vos, eum vel ipsos in dicti concilii excommunicationis sententiam denunciavimus incidisse et denunciabimus locis omnibus in quibus nobis videbitur expedire. Postremo scire vos volumus quod nec sententia vestra nec aliquorum judicium hujusmodi personam nostram potest involvere ex nostræ ecclesiæ reali privilegio, cujus hortamur ne velitis offendere libertatem. R. f. 190 b.

Frater J[ohannes], etc., decano Hereford', etc. A memoria vestra non credimus excidisse, qualiter vobis denunciavimus per literas nostras adventum nostrum ad vos causa visitationis in ecclesia vestra et diocese auctoritate metropolitana exercendæ, vobis ad hoc diem crastinum post festum Sancti Martini venturum proximo statuentes, ut interim præmuniretis concanonicos et fratres vestros, quod ipsa die parati essent visitationem nostram canonicè suscepturi. Verum quod ad præsens variis negotiis pro utilitate rei publicæ sumus adeo præpediti, quod prædicta die ad vos personaliter accedere non valemus, nos dictam præfixionem circumducentes ex causa prædicta, notum vobis facimus per præsentem quod in crastino Sancti Nicholai proximo venturi, ad vos per Dei gratiam venire proponimus, pro dictæ nostræ visitationis officio apud vos prout alias mandavimus inchoando. Quocirca discretioni vestræ committimus et mandamus, in virtute obedientiæ et sub pœna canonica firmiter injungentes, quatenus hoc fratribus et concanonicis vestris curetis patefacere sine mora, ut dicta die se præparent una vobiscum visitationem nostram in forma canonica suscepturi. Asks him to cause the church of Drayton to be taken from the possession of the convent of Cumbermere, who unjustly hold it.
R. f. 100 h.

Excellentissimo principi ac domino Edwardo, Dei gratia illustri regi Angliæ, domino Hybernæ, duci Aquitaniæ, frater J., etc., salutem et prosperos ad vota successus. Excellentiæ vestræ clementiam nuper duximus exorandam, ut vim laicalem ab ecclesia de Dreyton, quæ contra judicium ecclesiasticum violenter per . . . abbatis et conventus de Combermere potentiam tenebatur, faceretis de benignitate solita removeri. Cumque ad mandatum vestrum dicta potentia laicalis penitus amota fuisset, et frater Fulco prior de Ware, procurator . . . abbatis et conventus Sancti Ebrulfi, qui in causa quæ vertebatur inter se actores ex parte una, et prædictos . . . abbatem et conventum de Cumbermere reos ex altera, super ecclesia memorata coram nobis sive auditoribus nostris pro se judicium reportarant, auctoritate nostra in plenam ejusdem ecclesiæ possessionem cum suis juribus et pertinentiis canonice missus esset; prædicti . . . abbas et conventus de Cumbermere tanquam iniquitatis filii in præfati prioris de Ware ejectionem novis adinventioibus non sine Dei offensa et ecclesiæ machinantes, ac prædicti mandati vestri quod in ipsius prioris favorem fuerat impetratum, formam et intellectum subdole pervertentes, procurarunt postmodum eundem priorem et suos tanquam dictæ ecclesiæ violentos detentores, cum certe eam canonice et auctoritate ecclesiastica tenerent, per idem mandatum vestrum expelli a possessione ecclesiæ memoratæ, et se intrudi contra libertatem ecclesiasticam in eandem. Ne igitur per hujusmodi fraudulentas adinventiones ecclesiasticum, quod absit, iudicium enervetur, aut dicti . . . abbas et conventus de Cumbermere, ab unitate ecclesiastica merito segregati, de sua malicia valeant gloriari, clementiæ regiæ humiliter supplicamus, quatenus vim et potentiam qualemcumque qua prædicta ecclesia de Dreyton' ad præsens illicite detinetur, jubere dignemini penitus amoveri, ut justitia quæ omni petenti debetur debitum consequatur effectum; præsertim cum præfatus prior sit in prosecutione juris sui in Romana curia, ad quam pro illatis sibi gravaminibus legitime appellavit, et interim concessa sit ei tuitio curiæ nostræ Cantuariensis, ne in persona capiatur aut rebus. NEGOTIATIONS WITH LLEWELLYN.

Iste est processus domini J. Dei gratia Cantuariensis archiepiscopi, habitus in partibus Walliæ.

Isti sunt articuli intimati domino L[ewelino] principi Walliæ et populo ejusdem loci, ex parte domini archiepiscopi supradicti.

Primo, quia propter salutem eorum spiritualem et temporalem ad partes istas venimus, quos semper dileximus usque modo, sicut plures eorum noverunt. Secundo, quia venimus contra domini regis voluntatem, cui etiam adventus noster dicitur plurimum displicere. Tertio, quia rogamus eos et supplicamus eis pro sanguine Jesu Christi quatenus venire velint ad unitatem

Articles proposed by Peckham to Llewellyn, prince of Wales.¹

¹ Printed in Wilkins' Concilia, ii. 73. The whole of these negotiations with the Welsh are placed here under the date of Peckham's last letter to Llewellyn, that the sequence may not be interrupted by other documents; although most of them must have been written a short time earlier.

cum gente Anglorum, et ad pacem domini regis, quam eis intendimus quanto melius poterimus procurare. Quarto, volumus eos scire quod in hiis partibus diu non poterimus remanere. Quinto, volumus eos attendere quod post recessum nostrum non invenient forsitan aliquem qui ita velit sua amplecti negotia promovenda, qui vellemus, si placeret Altissimo, vita nostra temporali ipsorum pacem honestam et stabilem perpetuo procurasse. Sexto, quia si nostras preces spreverint et labores, statim intendimus eorum pertinaciam scribere summo pontifici et curiæ Romanæ, propter peccata mortalia, quæ multiplicantur occasione discordiæ omni die. Septimo, noverint quod nisi citius ad pacem venerint, aggravabitur eis bellum, quod non poterunt sustinere, quia crescit regia potentia omni die. Octavo, noverint quod regnum Angliæ est sub speciali protectione sedis apostolicæ, et quod Romana curia plus inter regna cetera diligere consuevit. Nono, quod eadem curia nullomodo volet permittere statum regni Angliæ vacillare, quod sibi specialibus obsequiis est devotum. Decimo, amarissime plangimus hoc quod dicitur Walenses crudeliores existere Saracenis, quia cum Saraceni capiunt Christianos, eos servant pecunia redimendos, quos Walenses captos dicuntur illico jugulare, quasi solo sanguine delectentur, immo, quod est deterius, quos permittunt redimi, tradunt, ut dicitur, accepta pecunia jugulandos. Undecimo, quod cum consueverint Deum et personas ecclesiasticas revereri, a devotione hujusmodi videntur multipliciter recessisse, qui in tempore sanctissimo in Redemptoris injuriam moverunt seditionem, homicidia et incendia perpetrantes, in quo eos nullus poterit excusare. Duodecimo, petimus ut tanquam veri Christiani ad cor redeant pœnitentes, quia ceptam discordiam non possent diu continuare etiam si jurassent. Tertiodecimo, petimus ut nobis significant quibus modis velint et valeant turbationem pacis regiæ, læsionem rei publicæ et mala alia emendare. Quartodecimo, ut significant nobis qualiter valeat ipsa concordia stabiliri. Frustra enim pax firmari videbitur quæ tam assidue violatur. Quintodecimo, ut si dicunt leges suas vel fœdera ex pacto inito non servari, nobis significant quæ sint illa Sextodecimo, noverint quod etiam posito quod eis derogatum fuisset ut aiunt, quod nescimus, nullo modo licebat eis quasi essent iudices in causa sua taliter majestatem regiam impugnare. Septimodecimo, quod nisi modo pax fiat, procedetur contra eos forsitan ex decreto militiæ, sacerdotii et populi convocati.

CCCXLI.

LLEWELLYN TO PECKHAM.

Responiones Leuwelini principis ad articulos supra-scriptos.

Reverendissimo patri in Christo domino J[ohanni], Dei gratia Cantuariensi archiepiscopo, totius Angliæ primati, suus humilis et devotus filius L[ewelinus], princeps Walliæ, dominus Snaudon', salutem et filialem dilectionem cum omnimoda reverentia, subjectione et honore. Sanctæ paternitati vestræ pro labore vobis quasi intolerabili, quem assumpsistis ad præsens pro dilectione quam erga nos et nostram nationem geritis, omni qua possumus devotione regratiantes vobis assurgimus, et eo amplius quod contra domini regis voluntatem venistis, prout nobis intimastis. Ceterum, quod nos rogastis ut ad pacem domini regis veniamus, scire debet vestra sanctitas, quod ad hoc prompti sumus dummodo idem dominus rex pacem debitam et veram nobis et nostris velit observare. Ad hæc, licet gaudeamus de mora vestra facienda in Wallia, tamen per nos non eritis impediti quin pax fiat quantum in nobis est, quam optamus per vestram industriam magis quam alicujus alterius roborari; et speramus, nec per Dei gratiam erit opportunum, propter nostram pertinaciam aliquid scribere domino papæ, nec vestras paternas preces ac graves labores spernemus, sed eas amplectimur omni cordis affectu ut tenemur; nec erit opus quod dominus rex aggravet¹ contra nos manum, cum prompti simus sibi obedire, juribus nostris et legibus nobis, ut præmittitur, reservatis. Et licet regnum Angliæ sit curiæ Romanæ specialiter subjectum et dilectum, tamen cum dominus Papa, necnon et curia Romana audierint quanta nobis per Anglicos mala sunt illata, videlicet quod pax prius formata non fuit nobis servata nec pacta, deinde ecclesiarum devastationes, combustiones et ecclesiasticarum personarum interfectiones, sacerdotum videlicet et inclusorum et inclusarum et aliarum religiosarum personarum passim, mulierum et infantium sugentium ubera, et in veru positarum, combustiones etiam hospitalium et aliarum domorum religiosarum, homicidiorum in cimiteriis, ecclesiis et super altaria, et aliorum sacrilegiorum et flagitiorum auditu etiam horribilium auditui paganorum,² sicut expressius eadem in aliis rotulis conscripta, vobis transmittimus inspicienda. Speramus inprimis quod vestra pia et sancta paternitas clementer nobis compatietur, necnon et curia supradicta, nec per nos regnum Angliæ vacillabit, dum, ut præmissum est, pax debita nobis fiat et servetur. Qui vero sanguinis effusione delectantur, manifestum est ex factis, nam Anglici hactenus nulli sexui vel ætati seu languori pepercerunt, nulli ecclesiæ vel loco sacro detulerunt. Qualia vel consimilia Walenses non fecerunt. Super eo autem quod unus redemptus fuit interfectus, multum dolemus, nec occisorem manutenemus, sed in silvis uti latro vagatur. De eo vero quod inceperunt guerram aliqui in tempore indebito, illud ignoravimus usque post factum, et tamen iſsi asserunt quod nisi eo tempore hoc fecissent, mortes et raptiones eis imminebant, nec audebant in domibus residere, nec nisi armati incedere, et sic præ timore tali tempore id fecerunt.

De eis vero quæ fecimus contra Deum, ut veri Christiani per Dei gratiam pœnitebimus, nec erit ex parte nostra quod bellum continetur, dum simus indemnes ut debemus; ne tamen exhæredemur et passim occidamur, oportet,¹ nos defendere ut valemus. Cum vero injuriæ et damna hincinde considerentur et ponderentur, parati sumus emendare pro viribus quæ ex parte nostra sunt commissa, dum de prædictis injuriis et damnis nobis factis et aliis emenda nobis fiat. Et ad pacem firmandam et stabiliendam similiter sumus prompti debitis modis. Quando tamen regales cartæ et pacta inita nobis non servantur, sicut nec hucusque sunt observata, non potest pax stabiliri, nec quando novæ exactiones et inauditæ contra nos et nostros omni die adveniuntur. Vobis autem transmittimus in rotulis damna nobis illata et fœdera non servata, secundum formam pacis prius factam. Quod vero guerravimus quasi necessitas nos cogebat; nam nos et omnes Walenses eramus adeo oppressi, et subpeditati, et spoliati, et in servitutem redacti per regales justiciarios et ballivos contra formam pacis et omnem justitiam amplius quam si Sarraceni essemus vel Judæi, sicut credimus, et sæpe denunciavimus domino regi, nec aliquam emendam habere potuimus. Sed semper mittebantur justiciarii et ballivi ferociores et crudeliores; et quando illi erant saturati per suas injustas exactiones, alii de novo mittebantur ad populum excoriandum, in tantum quod populus malebat mori quam vivere. Nec oportet militiam ampliorem convocare vel contra nos moveri sacerdotium, dum nobis fiat pax et servetur modis debitis, ut superius est expressum. Nec debetis, sancte pater, omnibus verbis credere nostrorum adversariorum, sicut enim nos factis oppresserunt et opprimunt, ita et verbis diffamant nobis imponentes quæ volunt. Ipsi enim sæpe vobis sunt præsentés et nos absentes, ipsi opprimentes, nos oppressi, et ideo propter Deum fidem eis in omnibus non exhibeatis, sed facta potius examinetis. Valeat sanctitas vestra ad regimen ecclesiæ per tempora longa.

CCCXLII.

GRIEVANCES OF THE WELSH.

Articles of the peace with the Welsh which the English have not observed.
R. f. 243.
A. f. 99 b.

Primus articulus est talis. Cum in forma pacis sic contineatur ut sequitur: "Si vero idem L[ewelinus] jus vendicaverit in aliquibus terris, quas alii præter dictum dominum regem occupaverunt extra quatuor cantredos¹ prædictos, plenariam justitiam sibi exhibit præfatus dominus rex secundum leges et consuetudines partium illarum in quibus terræ illæ consistunt." Qui articulus non fuit observatus super terris Aroystly et inter Deuy et Dyblas fluviorum, pro eo quod cum dictus L[ewelinus] dictas terras vendicasset coram domino rege apud Ruthelan, et rex sibi concessisset causam examinare secundum leges et consuetudines Walliæ, ac advocati partium fuissent introducti, et iudices qui vulgariter dicuntur *eneyd*² fuissent introducti coram rege, ut judicarent de dictis terris, secundum leges Wallicanas, parte rea comparente et respondente, adeo quod eo die deberet finaliter terminari ex præfixione domini regis, qui apud Gloverniam existens diem prædictum partibus assignavit, licet sæpius in diversis locis coram justiciariis fuisset dicta causa examinata, et terræ ipsæ essent in pura Wallia, nec unquam judicatum fuit super eis nisi secundum leges Wallicanas, nec dominus rex posset vel deberet prorogare, nisi secundum leges Walliæ, diem tamen ipsum motu proprio prorogavit et contra leges antedictas, et adultimo fuit vocatus ad loca varia ad quæ non debuit evocari, nec justitiam obtinere potuit nisi secundum leges Angliæ, contra illud quod in dicto articulo continetur. Et idem factum fuit coram justiciariis apud Montgomery. Cum partes essent in judicio constitutæ et firmatæ et dies datus ad sententiam audiendam, diem prorogaverunt contra leges memoratas. Demum apud London' post multos labores et expensas varias, rex ipse justitiam sibi denegavit, nisi vellet secundum leges Angliæ subire judicium in causa memorata.

Secundus articulus non servatus est talis: "Et omnes transgressiones, injuriæ et excessus hincinde factæ penitus remittuntur usque in diem hodiernum." Iste articulus non fuit observatus, quia dominus Reginaldus de Grey, statim cum fuit factus justiciarius, movit varias quæstiones et innumerabiles contra homines de Tegeyngl et Ros super transgressis quæ factæ fuerunt in tempore domini regis Henrici et dicti domini L[ewelini], dum dominium in partibus illis obtinebant, unde dicti homines multum timentes non audebant in suis domibus permanere.

Tertius articulus ubi dicitur, "Rys Vachan¹ filius "Resi filii Maylgun, cum terra quam nunc tenet," etc. Post pacem initam fuit spoliatus de terra de Geneuerglyn quam tunc tenebat cum hominibus et averiis eorundem.

Quartus articulus. "Item concedit dominus rex quod omnes tenentes terras in quatuor cantredis et in aliis terris quas dominus rex retinet in manu sua, teneant eas adeo libere et plenarie sicut ante guerram tenere consueverunt, et eisdem libertatibus et consuetudinibus gaudeant quibus prius gaudere solebant," etc. Contra istum articulum dictus Reginaldus consuetudines varias de novo introduxit, et hoc contra pacis formam supradictam.

Item quintus articulus: "Controversiæ et contentiones motæ vel movendæ inter principem et quoscumque terminabuntur et decidentur secundum leges Marchiæ de hiis quæ emergunt in Marchia, et secundum leges Walliæ de rebus contentiosis quæ in Wallia oriuntur." Contra istum articulum venit dominus rex mittendo justiciarios usque ad Mon, qui ibidem judicare præsumperunt homines dicti L[evelini], vinetam ponendo super illos, contra leges Walliæ, cum hoc vel aliud simile nunquam factum fuisset ibidem temporibus retroactis, quosdam incarcerando, alios in exilium mittendo, cum ipse idem princeps paratus esset de eisdem hominibus suis exhibere justitiæ complementum omnibus querelantibus de eisdem.

Item, sextus articulus. Item cum sit contentum in dicta pacis forma, "quod Griffinus Vathan homagium faceret domino regi de terra de Yal et principi de terra de Edeyrnabu," justiciarii domini regis dominam de Maylaur introduxerunt in totam terram prædictam de Edeyrnab', cujus cognitio causæ ad principem pertinebat simpliciter, et non ad illos justiciarios, et tamen pro bono pacis princeps hoc tolerabat, cum ipse princeps paratus esset eidem dominæ super hoc justitiam exhibere.

Septimus articulus, ubi dicitur, "Et licet idem princeps se nostræ, ut dictum est, supposuerit voluntati, nos tamen concedimus et volumus quod voluntas nostra hujusmodi ultra dictos articulos se in aliquo non extendat."¹ Contra istum articulum exigebatur aurum ad opus reginæ, in qualibet solutione facta regi, cum hujusmodi aurum nunquam fuit exactum a Walensibus, nec in tempore domini Henrici vel alicujus alterius regis Angliæ. Quod aurum exsolvit pro bono pacis, cum tamen nihil de hoc tactum fuit in forma pacis vel excogitatum. Et nunc insuper exigitur a principe aurum ad opus reginæ senioris, matris videlicet domini E[dwardi] nunc regis Angliæ, pro pace facta in tempore domini H[enrici] regis Angliæ, cum nihil de hoc tunc fuerat dictum vel quoquomodo excogitatum, videlicet, duo milia marcarum et dimidiam. Et nisi dictæ marcæ solverentur, minabatur dicta regina quod bona ejusdem L[ewelini] occuparet quæ invenire poterat in dominio regis, et homines suos capere et venundare, quousque dictam summam haberet ad plenum.

Item, cum invitasset dominus rex dictum principem ad festum suum Wygornæ verbis blandissimis, promittendo ei quod sibi tunc consanguineam suam daret in uxorem et multis ditaret honoribus, nihilominus cum illuc venisset, in die desponsationis ante missam, petiit dominus rex unam literam consignari a principe, continentem inter cetera quod idem princeps nullum omnino hominem in terra sua teneret contra regis voluntatem vel manuteneret, ex quo posset contingere quod omnes fideles principis ab eo amoverentur. Quam quidem literam sibi sigillatam tradidit, compulsus per metum, qui cadere potest in constantem virum, cum tamen in forma pacis ut præmissum est contineatur quod nihil ab eo deberet exigi ultra quod in dicta forma continetur.

Item, cum secundum eandem pacis formam consuetudines eidem principi confirmentur, quibus usus fuerat ab antiquo, ac idem princeps et antecessores sui ex consuetudine diutina et obtenta bona de naufragiis in terris suis provenientia consueverant recipere, et in suos usus convertere ad libitum, justiciarius Cestriæ namium recepit super principem pro bonis quæ recepit de naufragiis ante guerram, contra dictam pacis formam, per quam omnia hincinde erant remissa, et contra consuetudines antedictas. Dato etiam quod hoc esset forefactum, namium recepit tale, videlicet quindecim libratas mellis et plures equos, ac homines suos incarceravit, et hoc de propriis bonis principis antedicti. Præterea accepit schafas de Baneweys quæ venerant apud Liverepol cum mercandiis per mercatores, et eas nunquam deliberavit donec pecuniam pro eis acceperat, quantum volebat.

Item, cum quidam homines de Geneuirglyn quædam bona abstulissent ab aliis vicinis suis de Gencuirglyn, dum essent in dominio principis de Meyron', homines regis de Lampadarn prædam fecerunt et acceperunt de terra principis de Meyron', et cum homines sui venissent illuc ad quærendum quare dictam prædam receperant, unum de eis interfecerunt et alios vulneraverunt et quosdam incarceraverunt. Et cum in dicta pacis forma contineatur quod in Marchia deberent emendari quæ in Marchia mittebantur, tamen dicti homines regis homines principis audire noluerunt alibi quam in castro de Lampadarn, et hoc contra pacis formam antedictam. Super quo hactenus nullam justitiam habere potuerunt. In istis articulis injuriatur dominus rex principi et suis et etiam in multis aliis. Et licet princeps tam per se quam per suos petivisset sæpius a domino rege, quod pacis formam supradictam erga se et suos faceret observari, in nullo tamen extitit observata, sed omni die de novo justiciarii et ballivi domini regis in partibus illis injurias injuriis et varia gravamina cumularunt. Propter quod mirum non debet videri alicui, si princeps præfatus assensum præstitit illis qui gwerare cœperunt, cum in hiis fides, quam in anima domini regis sibi dominus Robertus Tippetot juraverat, in nullo servabatur, et maxime et principaliter cum princeps fuisset præmunitus a personis fidedignis quod princeps foret a rege capiendus in suo primo accessu apud Ruthelan, et etiam fuisset captus si rex illuc accessisset post Natale, sicut proposuerat.

Hæc gravamina et alia quasi innumerabilia, sancte pater, considerantes, nobis affectu paterno compatiamini, et pro salute animæ domini regis et nostræ et etiam multorum aliorum ad pacem bonam utriusque populi laboretis fructuose.

COMPLAINT OF LORD DAVID.

Hæc sunt gravamina illata domino David filio Griffini per dominum Regem.

Cum dominus David primo venisset ad dominum Edwardum, tunc comitem Cestriæ, ac homagium sibi fecisset, idem dominus Edwardus eidem David duas cantredas, videlicet de Dyffryncluyt et Kywonant, cum omnibus suis pertinentiis, dedit plenarie, et literas suas patentes super hoc fieri fecit, tandem etiam do-nationem eidem innovavit, postquam creatus est in regem et etiam ipsum David in possessionem illarum cantredarum induxit corporalem. Demum domina Wenliaunt de Lacy mortua, tres villas quas in dictis cantredis tenuit quoad vitam, quæ ad ipsam David spectabant ratione donationis suprascriptæ, dominus rex sibi abstulit minus juste contra tenorem cartæ suæ.

Item, cum dictus David ex donatione domini regis prædicti villas de Hope et Eston' obtineret in Wallia, de quibus nulli respondere tenebatur nisi secundum leges Wallicanas; tandem justiciarius Cestriæ fecit ipsum ad instantiam cujusdam Anglici, Willelmi de Vanabel nomine, ad comitatum Cestriæ super dictis villulis ad judicium evocari. Et licet dictus dominus David petivisset multotiens quod injuriose contra eun-dem non procederetur in dicto comitatu, pro eo quod ibidem respondere nullatenus tenebatur super villis prædictis, quæ sitæ erant in Wallia, sed potius trac-taretur secundum¹ leges Wallicanas, hoc sibi plane denegavit.

Item, idem justiciarius Cestriæ in gravamen dicti domini David nemus suum de Leweny et silvas suas

de Hope fecit succidi, tam per villanos de Ruthelan quam per alios, cum idem justiciarius in terris prædicti domini David nullam haberet omnino jurisdictionem; et non contenti quod mæremium ibidem quærent ad ædificia erigenda, tam apud Rodolanum quam alibi in patria, sed nemus destruendo, mæremium ibidem factum ad vendendum in Hyberniam transtulerunt.

Item, cum idem dominus David quosdam forbanicos de terra domini regis, qui in nemoribus latitabant, cepisset ac suspendio tradidisset, tamen idem justiciarius ipsum David penes regem accusabat ac si ipse dictos malefactores defenderet et manuteneret, quod verisimile non erat, cum ipse David dictos latrones suspendi faceret et occidi.

Item, cum esset cautum in forma pacis quod Walenses deberent in causis suis tractari secundum leges Wallicanas, istud tamen circa dictum David et suos homines in nullo extitit observatum.

De præmissis vero gravaminibus et aliis, petiit idem David aliquam emendationem, vel secundum leges Walliæ, vel secundum consuetudines, vel etiam ex gratia speciali, et hoc etiam petiit a domino rege, quorum neutrum potuit aliquatenus obtinere. Et cum hoc præmunitus fuit a quibusdam a curia domini regis, quod in primo regressu domini Reginaldi de Grey de curia, idem David esset capiendus, vel filii sui capiendi pro obsidibus, esset insuper spoliandus castro suo de Hope, et etiam silva sua ibidem succidenda. Ideo cum idem David multum laborasset pro domino rege prædicto in diversis gwerris tam in Anglia quam in Wallia, et exposuisset se et suos variis periculis et injuriis, ac amisisset nobiliores de suis et fortiores, ac multos nimis; nihilominus de dictis gravaminibus et aliis nullam omnino justitiam, emendationem seu gratiam potuit obtinere. Propter quæ gravamina et pericula, timens mortem propriam aut filiorum suorum vel incarcerationem perpetuam, vel saltem diutinam, quasi coactus et invitus, incepit prout potuit se et suos defensare.

COMPLAINTS OF THE MEN OF ROS.

Hæc est forma quam dominus rex Angliæ promisit hominibus de Ros, antequam ipsi fecerunt sibi homagium, et illam formam eis promisit inviolabiliter observare, videlicet, quod ipse dominus rex concederet unicuique eorum jus suum et jurisdictionem suam et etiam dominium bonæ memoriæ domini Henrici quondam regis Angliæ, secundum quod prædicti homines de Ros referent ipsos habere temporibus prædicti Henrici.

Item, promisit prædictus dominus rex supradictis hominibus, quod non darentur nec ad firmam ponerentur. Quibus articulis concessis præfatis hominibus, homagium fecerunt domino regi, et ipse eis promisit ore proprio dictos articulos observare. Hoc non obstante, quidam cœmentarii redeuntes ad villam de Ruthelan de loco ubi ipsi operabantur, obviaverunt cuidam nobili transeunti cum uxore sua per viam regiam super pace domini regis, qui cœmentarii per vim proposuerunt auferre prædicto nobili suam uxorem, et quia ipse nobilis defendit suam uxorem ne ab ipso auferretur, prædicti cœmentarii prædictam¹ nobilem interfecerunt. Ille autem cui plus opponebatur dictum homicidium perpetrasse, cum quibusdam sociis suis capti fuerunt.² Et cum parentela prædicti interfecti petierit justitiam a domino justiciario Cestriæ de morte consanguineæ³ eorum, illi de parentela ipsius interfecti fuerunt incarcerati, et interfectores fuerunt a carcere liberati.¹

Item, quidam homo interfecit quendam nobilem, qui videlicet filium Goronu de Heylyn nutriverat, et interfector captus fuit. Et cum quidam de parentela prædicti interfecti peterent justitiam de eorum consanguineo a domino justiciario Cestriæ, quidam eorum capti fuerunt, et interfector fuit in castello domini regis liberatus, et adhuc est ibi, denegata justitia prædictæ parentelæ.

Item, quidam nobiles vendicaverunt jus in quibusdam terris, et de mobilibus suis obtulerunt domino regi magnam summam pecuniæ pro justitia habenda per relationem et veredictum proborum et legalium hominum de patria; quæquidem terræ adjudicatæ fuerunt prædictis vendicantibus. Totam terram prædictam, cum omnibus ædificiis, bladis et aliis bonis in ipsis contentis, abstulit dominus Reginaldus de Grey; et sic amiserunt primo pecuniam quam pro terra pacaverunt et postea terram.

Item, jurisdictionis nostræ est, quod nullus extraneus extirparet silvas nostras, nisi prius habita licentia nostra. Hoc non obstante, proclamatum fuit apud Rodolanum quod liceret unicuique Anglico extirpare silvas nostras sine nostra licentia ad libitum eorum voluntatis, et quod nobis fuit prohibitum dictas silvas nostras extirpare.

Item, terras quas probi homines a domino David filio Lewelini bonæ memoriæ habuerunt per donationem prædicti David, abstulit prædictus justiciarius a prædictis probis hominibus.

Item, quando aliquis ad villam de Rothelan veniret cum mercandiis suis, si refutaret illud, quod Anglicus eidem offerret pro suis mercandiis, statim duce retur ille Walensis ad castrum, et emptor ibidem haberet rem quam barginaverat, et dominus rex haberet pretium dictæ rei, tunc castellani dictum Walensem spoliatum et atrociter verberatum deliberarent, pacatis prius portario castri, iiii. d. Si vero aliquis Walensis emerit aliquam rem in villa de Ruthelan, Anglicus qualiscunque superveniret et rem venditam dicto Walensi ab ipso auferret, invitis dentibus suis, pro minore pretio quam dictus Walensis solverat pro eadem.

Item, contra promissionem domini regis prædictis hominibus de Ros, ipse dedit territorium villæ de Maenam et etiam Pennmaen et Lysuaen.

Item, taurus cujusdam probi hominis deprehensus fuit in pratis domini regis apud Ros et captus, et dominus ejus vocatus fuit ad placitum usque Rodolanum et fuit condemnatus in quinque libris occasione dicti tauri. Bis adivit London' pro justitia petenda, et nullam fuit assecutus, et in illis duabus vicibus expendidit prædictus homo tres libras.

Item, quidam nobiles de cantreda de Ros emerunt officia pro certa summa pecuniæ, pacata pecunia, meritis suis non exigentibus, dominus justiciarius Cestriæ abstulit ab eis eorum officia.

Item, quidam rusticus Goronou ab Heylyn condemnatus fuit in xvii. libris bonæ et legalis monetæ, et tribus obolis, juris ordine non observato.

Item, Goronou filius Heylyn accepit ad firmam territorium de Pennmaen et Lysuaen a magistro Godofrido Merillun' pro certa pecuniæ summa usque ad finem quatuor annorum. Quo facto dominus Robertus de Crefycur' cum equis et armis et cum viginti quatuor equitibus venit ad inquietandum prædictum Goronou occasione dictæ terræ, ita quod sic non fuit securus transitus, nec usque Rodolanum, nec usque ad justiciarium, nisi cum forti warnistura de sua parentela et etiam de suis amicis.

Item, in reformatione pacis ultimo factæ et firmatæ inter dominum regem et suos ex una parte, et dominum principem et suos ex altera, expresse continebatur quod omnes injuriæ et transgressionibus factæ ex utraque parte penitus remitterentur. Hoc non obstante, oppositum fuit contra quosdam nobiles quoddam forefactum tempore gwerræ, et statim capti fuerunt, nec potuerunt a carcere liberari antequam ipsi pacarent xvi. marcas.

Item, cum causæ debent tractari et terminari secundum legem et consuetudinem terræ nostræ, compelluntur homines cantredæ nostræ ad jurandum in causis prædictis contra suam conscientiam, nec aliter jurare patiuntur.

Præterea nos custavimus trecentas marcas eundo ad dominum regem pro justitia petenda in prædictis articulis, ibidem morando et ad propria redeundo, et cum nos credebamus habere plenam justiciam de singulis articulis, dominus rex transmisit ad partes nostras dominum Reginaldum de Grey, cui dictus dominus rex totam terram ad firmam concessit, ad tractandum homines prædictæ cantredæ, prout suæ placeret voluntati, qui compulsit nos jurare per manum suam cum deberemus jurare per manum domini regis, et ubi crux domini regis levari deberet, quod crux prædicti Reginaldi levaretur in signum quod ipse erat verus dominus. Dictus vero Reginaldus in suo adventu ad partes Walliæ vendidit quibusdam servantibus domini regis officia sua, quæ prædicti servantibus prius emerant a domino rege pro xxiiii. marcis, pro lx. marcis; et illa officia non deberent vendi nisi cum dominium dominorum mutar[etur.]

Item, dominus rex dedit Mareduc filio Madoc magistrum satellitum, pro suo servitio, dominus R. de Grey abstulit ab ipso suum officium, nec a domino rege assequi potuit aliquam justiciam.

Item, unus de consilio prædicti Reginaldi nobis dixit oretenus, scilicet Kynwricus Vychan, quod in adventu prædicti Reginaldi ad partes Walliæ, xxiiii. homines de probioribus hominibus cujuslibet cantredæ caperet ad incarcerandum ipsos perpetuò vel decapitandum.

Propter ista gravamina, et alia quæ dictus Reginaldus nobis fecit, et etiam propter minas quas ipse nobis intulit, videlicet, quod si mitteremus aliquos nuncios ad curiam domini regis pro justicia petenda, decapitarentur, multa alia damna nobis illata et injuriæ factæ, et quando mittebamus ad curiam domini regis, nuncii non mittebantur, nec ausi fuerunt intrare, sed expendebant multa inutiliter. Ob ista gravamina æstimabamus nos esse liberos a juramento facto domino regi coram Deo.

Item, Bledyn Seis et Anianus filius Jeuaf de Ros quoddam malefactum fecerunt temporibus David filii Lewelini et Henrici regis de homicidiis factis, tunc satisfactionem et emendam satisfacere monstrarunt, et modo de novo Reginaldus de Grey vellet et cogeret illam emendam renovare, donec oportuit ipsos terras proprias relinquere.

Item, census et obventiones quos solvimus de veteri moneta per medietatem unius anni ante adventum novæ monetæ, cogerunt nos reddere eis novas monetas pro veteri et hoc sub eodem numero.

Præterea, in terris præfati Resi talia gravamina fuerunt per Anglicos facta; maxime pertinent ad ecclesiasticos, videlicet, in ecclesia Sancti David, quæ vocatur Laungadawc, fecerunt stabula et meretrices collocaverunt, et omnia bona quæ in ea continebantur, omnino asportaverunt, atque totas domos combusserunt; et in eadem ecclesia juxta aram percusserunt capellanium cum gladio ad caput ejus, et eum reliquerunt semivivum.

Item, in eadem patria ecclesiam Dyngad et ecclesiam Launwrdaſ spoliaverunt et combusserunt, ceterasque ecclesias in partibus illis omnino spoliaverunt calicibus et libris ac omnibus aliis ornamentis et rebus.

Gravamina Lewelini filii Ris et Howel ejusdem fratris per dominum regem illata sunt hæc. Postquam in forma pacis inter dominum Henricum, tunc temporis regem Angliæ, et dominum principem apud Rydchwima, tunc præfatus rex concessit et per cartas suas confirmavit præfato principi homagium prædictorum nobilium, ex quo prædicti nobiles fuerunt fideles et constantes cum præfato principe, juxta eorum donationem et cartarum suarum confirmationem. Secundum est, quod præfatus rex in suo comitatu de Cardigan per suos justiciarios antedictos nobiles compellit, ut ipsi traderent iudicium super ignobiles ac subditos patriæ, et quod tales homines e converso iudicium super ipsos apponerent, ubi nunquam antecessores eorum ab Anglicis talia sustinuerunt.

Tertium est, quod justiciarii domini regis curiam eorum nobilium abstulerunt, compellendo homines suos proprios coram eis satisfacere, quia de jure coram prædictis nobilibus deberent satisfacere.

Quartum est, quod quoddam naufragium in terris antedictorum nobilium fuit. Qui quidem nobiles bona naufragii receperunt, sicut antecessores eorum fecerunt, et hoc non fuit eis prohibitum per aliquos ex parte regis. Antedictus vero rex contra eorum consuetudinem et legem, occasione illius naufragii eosdem dam-

Quintum est, quod nullus nostrum in comitatu Uffeg' de Cardigan ausus esset venire inter Anglicos propter timorem carceris, et nisi fuisset propter periculum nobilibus metipsis nihil contra honorem domini regis moverent.

Significant vero quod omnes Christiani habent leges et consuetudines in eorum propriis terris; Judæi vero inter Anglicos habent leges; ipsi vero in terris suis et eorum antecessores habuerunt leges immutabiles et consuetudines donec Anglici post ultimam gwerram ab eis leges suas abstulerunt.

Memorandum de querelis omnium nobilium virorum de Ystradaluy eisdem latis ac factis per Rogerum de Clyfford et Rogerum Crossil, vicem domini Rogeri de Clyfford gerentem, contra privilegium, justitiam et consuetudinem dictorum virorum de Ystradaluy, ut dicunt et probant.

Primus articulus est, quod cum dicti Rogeri¹ cogerent dictos homines de Ystradaluy reddere sibi pro consuetudinibus suis et privilegiis habendis viginti marcas sterlingorum, et post solutionem dictæ pecuniæ cito fregerunt in hunc modum, quod posuerunt super duodecim viros judicantes secundum jus Angliæ, quod nunquam fuit consuetudo nec privilegium dictæ patriæ.

Item, Madocus filius Bledyn condemnatus fuit in quatuor marcis injuste, et contra privilegium terræ.

Item, Lewelinus Rufus condemnatus fuit in quinque marcis et duodecim averiis contra privilegium et consuetudinem patriæ.

Item, quod ipsi Rogeri fecerint forestam super terram propriam virorum patriæ, et propter pedem unius cervi inventum in ore canis alicujus, tres homines fuerunt spoliati omnino.

Item, Ichael ab Ygustyl condemnatus fuit in decem solidis pro facto patris sui quadraginta annis elapsis.

Item, cogerunt parentes Ennii a Strabonis ad reddendum suum relevagium in vita sua.

Item, quod ipsi posuerunt super nos omnes satellites de Anglicis, quod nunquam fuit nisi dimidietas.

Item, dati fuimus domino Mauricio de Crum, et venditi fuimus Rogero de Clyfford, quod nunquam fuit super parentes nostros.

Item, relicta Roberti de Monte Alto petiit a domino rege tertiam partem terræ de Monte Alto in wardam, et dijudicata fuit coram domino rege, quod nunquam dicta terra fuit in wardam data.

CCCXLIX.

COMPLAINT OF THE MEN OF PENLITL.

Hii sunt articuli questionum illati ab hominibus de Penliti injuste per constabularium Albi Monasterii et suos cives.

Primo, Rirccht filius Madoei fuit spoliatus ab eis tempore pacis, octo libris et quatuor bobus et blado laboris unius aratri per duos annos et valore trium librarum a tribus hominibus ejusdem. Affirmat etiam quod solvit xvi. libras pro octo in valore, et majorem habuit injuriam, imponendo manus in ipsum, quam totum quod amisit, quia tunc erat constabularius domini principis apud Penllyn. Non fuit alia causa dictæ spoliationis nisi quia dicebatur invenire xxiiij^{or} garbas de decimis in domo cujusdam hominis dicti Kyrit.

Item, Adam Preco condemnatus fuit in vii. s. viii. d. et equa valoris unius libræ, imponendo manus in ipsum et liberando latronem dictæ equæ, quia ipse venerat ibidem cum dicto latrone capto.

Item, Ednevot ab Gruffud condemnatus fuit in xxvii. s., nec fuit causa nisi quod vendidit equam unam ad unum miliare citra villam, sicut solebant a tempore quo non extat memoria, quando veniebant ad nundinas.

Item, Adaf Du condemnatus fuit in xxx. s. eo quod duo boves, quos proposuerat vendere in foro Albi Monasterii, exhibant villam ipso connivente, et captus fuit et detentus usque ad solutionem xxx. s. Nec ipsi boves exierant, nisi de platea qua stabant, usque ad aliam plateam.

Item, Birit filius Guyn' condemnatus fuit in v. s. et in carcerem ductus, eo quod percussit unum bovem indomitum ipsum calcantem in foro.

Item, Jorverth ab Gurgonou condemnatus fuit in lxx. s. eo quod evaserat quondam de carcere eorum tempore guerræ, et in tempore pacis inventus fuit in dicta villa; et hoc contra formam pacis initæ inter dominum regem et dominum principem.

Item, duo famuli Kenwryc ab Gruffud condemnati fuerunt in duabus marcis, eo quod dicebant ipsos non solvisse tolletum¹ postquam solverant.

Item, Caducanus Niger, famulus constabularii de Penllyn, captus fuit et condemnatus in vii. s. iiiii. d., eo quod nolebat recipere veterem monetam pro nova.

Item, Gruffud ab Goronou, tercionarius domini principis, spoliatus fuit uno bove valoris xi. s. viii. d., et postquam araverat constabularius cum dicto bove per vii. menses, solvit dictus Griffinus pro dicto bove xl. d.

Item, Howel ab David spoliatus fuit per satellites

Albi Monasterii duobus solidis extra villam, eo quod denegaverat prius munera, ut solent satellites petere.

Item, David ab Goronou ab Eyniann spoliatus fuit xxx. s., eo quod quidam cives Albi Monasterii dixit¹ quod quidam de Penllyn qui mortuus fuerat, denegabatur eis in quibusdam rebus.

Item, duo famuli Ybongam capti fuerunt et condemnati in duabus libris, eo quod posuerunt manum in quendam latronem² qui spoliabat eos in villa per noctem, et liberaverunt latronem.

Item, Anianus filius Ichael captus et verberatus fuit, et spoliatus duobus bobus valoris xxiiii. s. et ii. d., nulla alia de causa nisi quod boves, ipso connivente, moverunt se de platea ad aliam plateam.

Item, Adaf ab Ichael condemnatus fuit in duabus libris pro una libra, et ipse posuerat in juramento cujusdam civis de Albo Monasterio, quod non tenebatur nisi in una libra pro principe, nec voluit jurare, et ideo spoliatus fuit una libra.

Item, Guyaun Maestran spoliatus fuit v. s., eo quod dicebant quod quidam mercator de Arduduy tenebatur eis in quibusdam rebus, cum ipse nec erat de dicta balliva. Item, condemnatus fuit in viii. d., quia dicebant ipsum vendere quasdam oves extra villam, cum ipse non vendiderat.

Item, famulus Lewelini ab Gwyun spoliatus fuit septem ovibus et v. s. d.³ et suo pallio, eo quod dicebant ipsum esse de dominio Gruffud ab Gwyun, cum ipse non erat.

Item, Iorwerth ab Meylyr captus fuit et condemnatus in xv. solidis cum pallio. Eo quod denegavit dare satellitibus⁴ munus quod petebant, ipsi finxerunt eum in villa pernoctare.

Item, cives Albi Monasterii rapuerunt a Madoco Rufo filio Ich' Dwyun unum bovem valoris xi. s. vi. d.

COMPLAINT OF GORONOU SON OF HEYLYN.

Has been denied justice, though he went to London.
R. f. 246.
A. f. 106.

Hæc sunt gravamina Goronou filii Heylyn. Videlicet, quod quidam villanus dictus Coronou vocatus fuit ad curiam domini regis occasione indebitæ causæ. Tunc dictus¹ Goronou venit ad suum villanum defendendum, et petiit pro ipso veritatem a domino iusticiario, aut legem, qua utuntur homines suæ patriæ. Omnibus autem hiis eidem denegatis, dictus villanus condemnatus fuit in xxvii. libris et tribus obolis. Tunc dictus Goronou adivit London' pro justitia habenda, et expendit quindecim marcas et quatuor solidos; et promissa fuit sibi justitia, et nullam fuit assecutus.

Item, quidam nobilis fuit interfectus, videlicet, qui nutriverat filium dicti Goronou, et ille interfectore captus fuit et deportatus² fuit apud castrum de Rothelan. Tunc dictus Goronou et quidam de parentela interfecti, petierunt justitiam de interfectore. Tunc denegata eis justitia, quidam fuerunt incarcerati, et ille interfectore fuit in castello liberatus. Tunc dictus Goronou iterum adivit London', propter supradicta gravamina, ad justitiam petendam, et expendit xx. marcas et iii. s. iii. d.; et dominus rex promisit eidem plenariam justitiam, et nullam fuit adeptus, quando revenit ad patriam suam.

Item, tertio ex defectu justitiæ oportuit dictum Goronou adire London' occasionibus supradictis pro justitia petenda, et expendit illa vice xxviii. marcas, vi. s. et viii. d. bonæ et legalis monetæ, et tunc similiter promisit dominus rex eidem justitiam perhibere; et quando credebat habere justitiam, tunc venit Reginaldus de Grey, et dixit aperte quod ipse deberet tractare totam patriam per cartas domini regis, et abstulit totam ballivam a dicto Goronou quam sibi dominus rex concessit, et vendidit illam ballivam ad voluntatem suam. Et tunc petiit dictus Goronou justitiam a domino Reginaldo de gravaminibus sæpeditis, et nullam fuit acceptus.

Item, dictus Goronou recepit terram, videlicet, Penmaen et Llysvaen ad firmam de Godfrido Merlium, usque ad finem quatuor annorum pro certa pecuniæ summa. Tunc Robertus de Crevequer venit cum equis suis et armis ad quærendam dictam terram per vim, et quia dictus Goronou non permetteret auferri dictam terram ab eodem, usque terminum præsignatum, tunc vocatus fuit ad curiam dictus Goronou illa occasione. Tunc venit Reginaldus de Grey cum xxiiii. equitibus armatis ad proponendum capere dictum Goronou, vel ad eundem decapitandum, et quia viderunt quod non possent implere suum propositum illo die, vocaverunt dictum Goronou crastino die apud Rothe-lan, et tunc dictus Goronou habuit consilium ita quod non deberet adire dictam curiam. Iterum dictus Goronou vocatus fuit ad placitum apud Kayrwys, et non ausus fuit adire dictum placitum nisi per conductum domini episcopi Assavensis, quia dictus Reginaldus et sui complices ibidem erant armati.

Item, propter ista gravamina, de quibus nullam habuit justiciam nisi laborare et expendere quinquaginta quatuor marcas et ix. d., et quia non ausus fuit in propria persona adire curiam, misit quendam nuncium deportantem duas literas, unam ad dominum regem, et aliam ad fratrem Lewelinum, ad significandum domino regi quod amitteret totam patriam. Et dictus¹ Goronou, quia non observavit illud quod eisdem promisit, et quia nullam possent homines de Ros et Aglifild assequi justitiam, et quia noluit corrigere sive emendare ista gravamina, propter hoc amisit totam patriam.

COMPLAINT OF THE MEN OF TEGEYAYL TO PECKHAM.

Complain of infractions of Welsh law, the destruction of their woods, &c.
R. f. 246 b.
A. f. 106 b.

Supplicant sanctitati vestræ, domine archiepiscopi Cantuariensis, totius Angliæ primas, nobiles viri de Tegeyayl, et vobis demonstrant, quod, cum prædicti nobiles fecerunt homagium domino Edwardo regi Angliæ, ipse rex eisdem promisit quod eosdem immunes observaret et indemnes, tam in bonis, libertatibus, juri- bus, jurisdictionibus, [et] privilegiis, quibus usi fuerunt tempore Henrici regis per suum obtentum privilegium, ex quibus privilegiis fuerunt postmodum spoliati.

In primis. Juribus et consuetudinibus patriæ fuerunt spoliati, videlicet prædictus G . . .² compellendo quod ipsi procederent in causis secundum legem Anglicanam, cum secundum tenorem privilegii sui, secundum legem Wallicanam procedere debuissent, videlicet, apud Tref Eduyueyn et apud Rudlan et apud Keyr Wys, et optimati de patria fuerunt manucapti, quia ipsi provocabant quod ipsi procederent in causa apud Tref Eduyueyn, secundum legem et consuetudinem Wallicanam, secundum tenorem privilegii.

Secundo. Quod unus justiciarius duceret in causis peragendis, alius suus prædecessor in irritum revocaret; videlicet, in causa David Reginaldus de Grey recitavit processum, quem suus antecessor ratum habuit et etiam approbavit.

² G. in A.; blank in R.

Tertio. Quod si unus nobilis de patria fuisset propter calumniam sibi impositam captus, quod non remitterent eundem pro cautione fidejussoria evadere, quod facere debuissent.

Quarto. Quod tres unius nobilis ¹ fuerunt deducti ad castrum de Flynt propter parvam accusationem, una cum averiis suis, nec potuerunt de castro devenire, nec dilationem obtinere, donec unusquisque dedit unum bovem constabulario de Flynt, et donec solverunt tres libras Kynwrico Seys pro dilatione habenda.

Quinto. Reginaldus de Grey terras virorum de Mertunt dedit et concessit abbati et conventui de Basyngwerc, ordinis Cisterciensis, contra legem Wallicanam, et patriæ consuetudinem, et contra formam pacis initæ inter dominum L[ewelinum] principem et dominum regem, videlicet xvi. carucatas terræ.

Sexto. Mirantur nobiles et optimates ² patriæ, pro eo quod dominus rex fecit ædificare castrum super terram et possessionem magnatum, et mandavit dominus rex justiciario suo quod ipse solveret æque bonam terram illis spoliatis, et adhuc aliquam terram nec suæ terræ æstimationem sunt consecuti in Flynt.

Septimo. Reginaldus de Grey non permetteret possessores silvarum uti silvis suis, donec ab eisdem pretium ac præmium fuisset consecutus, et aliis rusticis gratis permetteret silvam prædictorum abscidere, cum non debuissent secundum patriæ consuetudinem et legem Wallicanam.

Octavo. Cum homines de Karanan fecerunt pactum cum domino rege, quod cum ipsi concederent dimidietatem cujusdam prati, ad hoc ut dominus rex non permetteret silvam prædictorum abscidere, Howelo filio Gruffud præsentem, et postmodum Reginaldus de Grey prædictum pactum infirmavit; videlicet, concedendo aliis quod absciderent silvam prædictorum et eosdem dimidietate prati sui spoliando.

Nono. Filius Kynwrici ab Goronou fuit captus apud Ruthelan culpa sua minime præcedente, nisi vellet pignus suum acquietare a quadam muliere. Et constabularius de Ruthelan fecit eundem detradi in carcerem injuriose, nec potuit exinde deliberari, donec prædictus fuit condemnatus ultra suorum bonorum hypothecam.¹

Decimo. Cum ballivus de Rudlon erat in convivio apud villam Fontis, Hutinus de Lunayl quendam virum nobilem crudeliter vulneravit in præsentia ballivi prædicti, cujus vulneris occasione prædictus Hutinus fuit in viii. libris condemnatus, et quando ille, cui injuria fuisset illata, petere voluisset prædictas octo libras, eundem fecit detrudi in carcerem una.

Undecimo. Nuncii Reginaldi de Grey proposuerunt facere illud quod erat absurdum et dissonum juri, secundum canonicas sanctiones, videlicet, petere ab eisdem quod ipsi ararent Reginaldo de Grey, et quod ipsi seminarent illam araturam. Et illi fuerunt nuncii, scilicet, Kynwricus Seys et Hutinus de Lunayl, quod prædictus vero Kynwricus, in præsentia omnium de patria, juravit, quod nisi omnes de patria ararent, quod ipsi ante breve tempus poeniterent, et ipsi multum timuerunt metu, qui potuit cadere in constantem virum.

Duodecimo. Quod præcones de Tegeygyl emerunt officium præconiæ pro xxx. marcis a domino rege, et postmodum Reginaldus de Grey prædictos præcones tam pecunia quam præconia spoliavit, contra legem et consuetudinem Anglicanam.

Tertiodecimo. Septem nobiles fuerunt interfecti minus juste ab Anglicis, et adhuc parentes prædictorum aliquam satisfactionem non habuerunt; cum illi malefactores fuerunt capti et postmodum prædictos malefactores remiserunt prædicti constabularii impunitos.

Quartodecimo. Constabularius de Rudlan detradit duos satellites domini regis in carcere, pro eo quod ipsi tenuerunt aliquem Anglicum, qui grave delictum commisit, hominem alium vulnerando.

Isti omnes articuli in præmissis nominati, fuerunt perpetrati contra prædictorum virorum libertatem, jurisdictionem et privilegium, et contra legem et consuetudinem Wallicanam, videlicet quod non erant anxii eorum querelas domino regi per suos nuncios denunciare propter metum Reginaldi et timorem, qui metus potuit cadere in constantem virum. Quia prædictus Reginaldus sua voce dilucida fuit protestatus, quod si inveniret nuncios prædictorum, quod eodem decapitaret, prout nobis ex parte unius de consilio suo fuit certive intimatum. In tantum quod lingua non potest proferre¹ nec penna scribere, in quantum prædicti homines de Tegeyli fuerunt aggravati.

COMPLAINT OF LLEWELLYN SON OF GRIFFIN, SON OF MADOC, TO PECKHAM.

Conqueritur vobis, domine archiepiscopo Cantuariensis, totius Angliæ primas, Lewelinus filius Griffini, filii Madoci, de constabulario de Cruce Oswaldi regis et de hominibus ejusdem villæ, qui prædictum Lewelinum tertia parte cujusdam villæ quæ vocatur Ledrot, et curia patris sui, sine observatione juris patriæ suæ vel consuetudine, nequiter spoliarunt.

Præterea, prædictus constabularius et sui complices eundem L[evelinum] communi pastura, qua prædictus L[evelinus] usus fuit temporibus retroactis, ordine juris patriæ minime observato, spoliarunt, et in lxx. libris occasione prædictæ pasturæ condemnarunt. bastardo, scilicet Griffino Vachan de villa Gynwrith, ad litigandum contra eundem Lewelinum pro toto dominio suo obtinendo, quarum literarum occasione idem Lewelinus expendit cc. libras sterlingorum legalis usualisve monetæ.

Iterum, prædictus constabularius compulsit prædictum Lewelinum ad mittendum duos suos nobiles ad eos suspendendos ad prædictum constabularium, qui quidem¹ viri nobiles suspendi minime debuissent. Quam suspensionem nollent parentes prædictorum hominum sustinuisse pro ccc. libris sterlingorum. Postmodum prædictus constabularius incarceravit bis lx. homines prædicti Lewelini, nulla præmissa ratione, nisi quod quidam garcio emisit quandam vocem, nec potuerunt evadere suum carcerem, donec quilibet eorum solvit x. s. pro sua deliberatione.

Item, quando homines prædicti Lewelini venirent ad forum ad suos boves vendendos, prædictus constabularius faceret boves deduci ad castrum, nec postmodum boves restitueret nec pretium solveret venditori. Præsertim idem constabularius et sui ceperunt jumenta prædicti Lewelini ad terram suam propriam, et de eisdem jumentis fecerunt suam voluntatem.

Præterea, justiciarii domini regis compulserunt prædictum Lewelinum ad tradendum quandam villam filiis Aniani, filii Griffini, qui quidem prædictam villam nec a se nec a prædecessoribus fuerunt consecuti, ordine juris patriæ suæ in hac parte minime observato.

Item, prædictus constabularius abstulit equum ballivi prædicti Lewelini, sine aliqua ratione, nec sibi aliquid debebatur, nec adhuc prædictus ballivus satisfactionem aliquam est consecutus. Ceterum, quando prædictus Lewelinus volebat adire villam quæ vocatur Kaerlon cum literis domini regis ad comparendum ibidem in die sibi assignata, filii Griffini filii Gwenynnyn et armigeri domini Rogeri Stermui ex consilio Rogeri eundem Lewelinum et suos incarcerarunt, in sui injuriam et suorum non modicam læsionem. Quam injuriam et læsionem nollet prædictus Lewelinus et sui sustinuisse pro ccc. libris sterlingorum, nec ab eisdem potuit evadere donec invenit pro se sufficientem cautionem.

PECKHAM'S REPORT TO THE KING AND HIS ANSWER.

Hiis et aliis receptis in scriptis, accessit archiepiscopus ad dominum regem supplicans ei humiliter ut gravamina supradicta dignaretur advertere, et ea correctione debita terminare, et saltem pro tanto habere excessus Walensium excusatos. Qui respondit Walenses in injuriis sibi illatis esse inexcusabiles,¹ quia omni tempore paratus extiterat omni facere justitiam conquerenti. Quo audito archiepiscopus regi iterum supplicavit, ut permetteret Walenses pro suis gravaminibus exponendis, et remediis offerendis, ad ipsum habere accessum liberum et regressum. Qui respondit quod libere permetteret eos ad se accedere, sed et redire, si secundum justitiam regressus eorum meritis responderet. Quibus auditis, accessit archiepiscopus ad principem Walliæ in Snaudoniam, ut tam ipsum quam David fratrem suum et ceteros Walenses ad aliquam humilitatis regulam ipsorum animos inclinaret, per quam posset, quasi ipsorum nuncius, regiam clementiam ad ipsos admittendos in gratiam inclinare. Post varios autem tractatus respondit princeps quod paratus erat voluntati regiæ se supponere, duobus præsuppositis, salva scilicet conscientia sua, qua populo suo assistere

Quæ cum archiepiscopus retulisset domino regi, respondit dominus rex quod nullum alium de pace volebat cum principe ac subditis suis habere tractatum, nisi quod ipsi supponerent se in omnibus regiæ voluntati. Et cum constaret archiepiscopo Walenses nullo modo velle se regiæ voluntati supponere, nisi præscite in forma eis tolerabili et accepta, tractatum habuit ex permissione domini regis cum magnatibus tunc præsentibus, qui omnes consenserunt in articulos infrascriptos, quos per fratrem Johannem Walensem in scriptis principi et suis archiepiscopus destinavit.

Hæc sunt dicenda principi coram consilio suo:—

Primo. Quod dominus rex de quatuor cantredis et terris ab eo datis magnatibus suis, nullum vult habere tractatum, nec etiam de insula Engleseye.

Item. De tenentibus eorundem cantredorum, si ad suam pacem venerint, proponit facere prout condecet regiam majestatem. Credimus tamen quod aget cum eis misericorditer si ad pacem venerint, et ad hoc proponimus una cum ceteris amicis efficaciter laborare, sperantes efficaciter exaudiri.

Item. De facto domini Lewelini, nullum potuimus aliud habere responsum, nisi quod simpliciter et absolute ad domini regis voluntatem, et credimus firmiter quod dominus rex cum eo aget misericorditer, et ad hoc intendimus cum totis viribus laborare cum ceteris amicis, exaudiendis ut confidimus cum effectu.

Ista sunt dicenda principi in secreto:—

Primo. Quod proceres hanc formam gratiæ regiæ conceperunt, ut, videlicet, domino Lewelino se regiæ gratiæ submittente, provideatur ei per regem honorifice in mille libratibus sterlingorum de aliquo honorifico comitatu in aliquo loco Angliæ. Ita tamen quod prædictus Lewelinus ponat dominum regem in seysina Snaudoniæ absolute, perpetue et quiete. Et ipse rex filiæ principis, secundum condecientiam sui proprii sanguinis providebit, et ad hoc sperant se posse regis animum inclinare. Item, si contingat Lewelinum ducere uxorem, et habere de ea prolem masculam, intendunt impetrare proceres a domino rege ut proles illa succedat perpetuo hereditarie Lewelino in terra illa mille librarum, videlicet comitatu. Item, de populo principi immediate subjecto, tam in Snaudonia quam alibi, providebitur secundum Deum, prout competit salutis ejusdem populi, et honori, et ad hoc est regia clementia satis prona, populo desiderans consolabiliter providere.

Item, longe difficilius est omni tempore in guerra esse, in angustia cordis et corporis vivere, et semper in insidiis malignari, et cum hoc vivere et mori in peccato mortali continuo, et rancore. Item, de quo doleremus valde si ad pacem minime veniatis, indubitanter timemus contra vos debere sententiam ecclesiasticam intolerabiliter aggravari, pro excessibus vestris, de quibus non poteritis vos aliquatenus excusare; in quibus invenietis misericordiam, si ad pacem veniatis: et de hiis nobis respondeatur in scriptis.

LLEWELLYN TO PECKHAM.

Will submit to the king, but disapproves of the terms proposed.
R. f. 248.
A. f. 108.

Reverendissimo in Christo patri ac domino J[ohanni], Dei gratia archiepiscopo Cantuariensi ac totius Angliæ primati, suus in Christo devotus filius L[ewelinus] princeps Walliæ, dominus Snaudoniæ, salutem cum desideriis benevolentiae filialis ac reverentiis multimodis et honoribus. Sancte pater, sicut vosmet consulistis, ad gratiam regiam parati sumus venire, sub forma tamen nobis segura et honesta. Sed quia forma contenta in articulis ad nos missis minime segura est et honesta, prout nobis et consilio nostro videtur, et de qua multum admirantur omnes audientes, eo quod plus tendit ad destructionem et ruinam populi nostri ac nostram, quam ad nostram honestatem et securitatem, nullo modo permittet consilium nostrum nos in eam consentire, si vellemus, alique nobiles et populus nobis subjecti nullo modo consentirent in eandem ob indubitatum destructionem et dissipationem, quæ inde eis possent evenire. Unde supplicamus vestræ sanctæ paternitati, quatenus ad reformationem pacis, debite, honeste et secure, ob quam tot labores assumpsistis, provide laboretis, collationem habentes ad articulos quos vobis mittimus in scriptis. Honorabilius enim est et rationi magis consonum, ut de domino rege teneamus terras in quibus jus habemus, quam nos exheredare et eas tradere alienis. Datum apud Garthekevyn, in festo Sancti Martini.

REPLY OF THE WELSH TO PECKHAM.

Responsiones Walensium. Primo, quod licet dominus rex de quatuor cantredis et aliis terris ab eo datis magnatibus suis, ac de insula Engleseye, nullum voluerit habere tractatum, tamen consilium principis non permittit, si contingat aliquam pacem fieri, quin tractetur de præmissis, eo quod isti cantredi sunt de puro principis tenemento, in quibus merum jus habuerunt principes et prædecessores sui a temporibus Kambri filii Bruti; tum quia sunt de principatu, cujus confirmationem princeps obtinet, per bonæ memoriæ Ottobonum sedis apostolicæ legatum in regno Angliæ, consensu domini regis et sui patris ad hoc interveniente, sicut patet cartas eorum inspicienti; tum quia etiam æquius est quod veri heredes teneant dictos cantredos de domino rege pro pecunia et servitiis consuetis, quam eos dari extraneis et advenis, qui etsi fuerunt regis aliquando, tamen per vim et potentiam. Dicunt etiam communiter omnes tenentes de omnibus cantredis Walliæ, quod non sunt ausi venire ad voluntatem regis, ut de eis disponat secundum regiam majestatem. Primo, quod dominus rex nec pacta nec juramenta nec cartas servavit ab initio versus dominum suum principem et ipsos. Secundo, quia regales in ecclesias et ecclesiasticas personas nunc crudelissimam exercent tyrannidem. Tertio quod non tenentur ad prædicta, cum sint homines principis, qui etiam paratus est de dictis tenementis domino regi obedire per servitia consueta. Ad id quod dicitur, quod princeps veniet simpliciter et absolute ad voluntatem domini regis, respondetur quod cum nulli de dictis cantredis ausi sint venire ad talem voluntatem propter causas prædictas, nec communitas eorum permittit principem venire ad dictam voluntatem modo prædicto. Item, quod proceres regni procurent ut dicto principi provideatur in mille libratis in aliquo loco Angliæ, dicatur quod illam provisionem non debet acceptare, cum sit procurata per dictos proceres qui nituntur ad exheredationem principis, ut habeant terras suas in Wallia. Item, idem princeps non tenetur dimittere hereditatem suam et progenitorum suorum in Wallia a tempore Bruti, et etiam sibi confirmatam per Romanæ sedis legatum, ut dictum est, et terram in Anglia receptare, unde linguam, mores, leges ac consuetudines ignorat; ubi possent etiam sibi quædam maliciose imponi ex odio inveterato a vicinis Anglicis, quibus terra illa privaretur imperpetuum. Item, ex quo rex proponit privare principem sua pristina hereditate, non videtur probabile quod rex permetteret ei habere terram in Anglia, ubi nullum jus videtur habere. Et si etiam non permittitur principi terra sterilis et inculta jure hereditario ab antiquo ei debita in Wallia, nullatenus permitteretur eidem in Anglia terra culta, fertilis et abundans.

Item, quod dictus princeps ponat dominum regem in seysinam Snaudon' absolute, perpetue et quiete. Dicatur quod cum Snaudon' sit de appenditiis principatus Walliæ, quem ipse et antecessores sui tenuerunt a tempore Bruti, ut dictum est, consilium suum non permittit eum renunciare dicto loco et locum minus sibi debitum in Anglia receptare. Item, populus Snaudon' dicit, quod licet princeps vellet dare regi seysinam eorundem, ipsi tamen nollent homagium facere alicui extraneo, cujus linguam, mores, legesque penitus ignorant. Quia sic posset contingere eos imperpetuum captivari, ac crudeliter tractari, sicut alii cantredi circumquaque per ballivos regis ac alios regales alias tractati fuerunt, crudelius quam Saraceni, prout patet in rotulis quos vobis miserunt, sancte pater.

REPLY ON BEHALF OF DAVID, BROTHER OF LEWELLYN.

Ista sunt dicenda pro David fratre principis. Quod cum voluerit Terram Sanctam adire, hoc faciet voluntarie et ex voto, pro Deo, non pro homine. Unde invitus non peregrinabitur Deo dante, quia coacta servitia Deo novit displicere. Et si contingat ipsum imposterum Terram Sanctam adire, bona ductus voluntate, non propter hoc deberent ipse et heredes sui imperpetuum exheredari, immo potius præmium obtinere. Præterea, quia princeps et sui, causa odii ad aliquos concipiendi, vel lucri captandi, non moverunt gwerram alienas terras invadendo, sed suam propriam hereditatem, jura, libertatesque necnon suorum defendendo, dominusque rex et sui odio inveterato et causa lucrandi terras nostras, gwerram fecit, credimus in hoc justam gwerram nos fovere, et speramus in hac Deum nos velle juvare, ac in ecclesiarum devastatores divinam ultionem convertere, qui ecclesias funditus destruxerunt ac combusserunt, sacra ex eis rapuerunt, sacerdotes, clericos, religiosos, claudos, surdos, mutos, infantes, ubera lactantes,¹ ac debiles et miserabiles personas utriusque sexus occiderunt, et alia enormia perpetrarunt, sicut in dictis rotulis vobis transmissis continetur. Unde absit a sancta paternitate vestra sententiam aliquam fulminare in alios quam in illos qui prædicta perpetrarunt. Nos enim qui a regalibus prædicta passi sumus, speramus a vobis super præmissis paternum solatium et remedium obtinere, et in prædictos sacrilegos eorumque fautores, qui nullo super hiis privilegio defenduntur, animadvertere, ne præ defectu dignæ correctionis seu ultionis in eos exercendæ, prædicta mala imperpetuum per alios trahantur ad exemplum. Mirantur etiam quamplures in terra nostra, quod consulistis nobis dimittere terram nostram propriam, et alienam adire inter hostes nostros conversando. Quia ex quo non possumus pacem habere in terra quæ nostra est ipso jure, multominus poterimus in aliena patria inter hostes nostros pacifice conversari. Et licet durum sit in guerra et insidiis vitam ducere, durius tamen est funditus destrui et ad nihilum, nisi Deus avertat, deduci populum Christianum, qui nihil aliud quærit nisi sua jura defendere. Unde necessitas ad hoc nos cogit et inimicorum cupiditas nos offendit. Et vos, sancte pater, coram nobis dixistis quod vos sententiastis in omnes qui impediunt pacem causa odii vel lucri, sed manifestum est qui sunt illi qui gwerrant istis causis. Timor enim mortis et incarcerationis vel perpetuæ exheredationis, nulla observatio fœderum, pactorum vel cartarum, tyrannica dominatio, et multa alia consimilia, cogunt nos esse in gwerris, et hoc Deo et vobis ostendimus, et petimus a vobis paternum adjutorium, ut patet in literis nostris.

Ad hæc, multi alii in regno Angliæ offenderunt regem, et tamen nullos exheredavit imperpetuum, ut dicitur. Unde si aliqui ex nostris ipsum offenderunt injuste, dignum est ut satisfaciant, prout possunt, sine exheredatione, et sicut in vobis confidimus supplicamus quod ad hoc laboretis, sancte pater. Nam etsi nobis imponatur quod fregimus pacem, tamen illi verius fregerunt, qui nullum fœdus vel pactum nobis servave-runt, qui nullam emendam de querimoniis nobis fecerunt, ut patet in rotulis.

Hiis auditis rescripsit archiepiscopus Walensibus in hæc verba.

Transeuntes nuper per diœcesem vestram, quam dudum auctoritate metropolitana visitavimus, tam fama celebri perstrepente quam relatu suscepimus fidedigno, quod mala illa et scandala, pro quibus corrigendis et extirpandis in dicta visitatione nostra personaliter agebamus, utpote incestus multiplices, damnata diversis statutis quæstum improbitas, appropriationes ecclesiarum illicitæ et inutiles, aliaque infinita pericula et peccata jam quasi revivificata iterantur quotidie et recidiva continua patiuntur, ac si correctiones nostræ et ordinationes circa pericula hujusmodi constitutæ penitus negligantur, quin potius in elusionem ecclesiasticæ disciplinæ et auctoritatis nostræ contemptum, non sine pastoris vestri conniventia, relictæ totaliter videantur. Certe non erat illa judicantis intentio, ut quod ad honorem Dei et ecclesiæ ac animarum commodum in detestationem criminum extitit ordinatum, in novi erroris audaciam et sopiti mali excitationem, sed ad medellam potius pertransiret. Sane, quod ubi majus versatur periculum, ibi salubrius est remedium adhibendum, ac in vestra diocese per appropriationes ecclesiarum factas contra statuta bonæ memoriæ domini O. Ad hæc vobis tenore præsentium districtius inhibemus in virtute obedientiæ et sub pœna suspensionis ab ingressu ecclesiæ, quam in personas vestras in hiis scriptis ferimus, si contrarium præsumpseritis attemptare, ne in aliquam appropriationem ecclesiarum quibuscunque faciendam consentiatis de cetero, nisi in forma illa quam dictus legatus concedit. In nomine Domini, Amen. Cum nos frater J[ohannes], permissione Divina Cantuariensis archiepiscopus, totius Angliæ primas, visitaturi clerum et populum civitatis et diocesis Herefordensium, nuper circa ipsius nostræ visitationis principium in capitulo Herefordensi canonica monitione præmissa, omnes officii nostri executionem et ecclesiæ nostræ jurisdictionem, exercitium, potestatem, per nos vel alios auctoritate nostra agenda, gerenda vel quoquo modo facienda, qualitercumque impediens seu turbantes, in scriptis excommunicaverimus sub hac forma:— In nomine Domini Amen. Quia nos frater J[ohannes], permissione divina Cantuariensis archiepiscopus, totius Angliæ primas, intelligentes ex verisimilibus conjecturis quod quidam suæ salutis non satis memores, contra libertates nostræ Cantuariensis ecclesiæ veniendo, nostram visitationem seu jurisdictionem metropolitanam impedire, molestare seu perturbare intendunt, et pro parte maliciose ac temere præsumperunt, quominus visitationis seu nostræ metropolitanæ jurisdictionis officium exercere possimus secundum canonicas sanctiones; nos volentes maliciis hominum industria quanta possumus obviare, monemus et firmiter injungimus, ne quis directe vel indirecte, clam vel palam, per se vel per alium, scienter et studiose officium nostræ visitationis impediatur seu perturbetur, aut impediri seu perturbari procuret, seu ad ea quæ ad nos ratione visitationis hujusmodi seu nostræ jurisdictionis qualitercumque pertinent, manus, potestatem aut actum quoquo modo extendant. Et si quid in hiis forsan in nostri seu ecclesiæ nostræ Cantuariensis præjudicium præsumptum fuerit seu etiam attemptatum, illud expresse revocamus, ac omnino carere decernimus robore firmitatis; monentes pro prima, secunda et tertia monitione, cum qualitas negotii dilationem ulteriorem non requirat, ut ab impedimentis, molestationibus seu perturbationibus hujusmodi omnino desistant, et quod illicite præsumptum est seu attemptatum in hac parte de cetero non defendant. Alioquin ipsos omnes et singulos perturbatores seu defensores hujusmodi, vel qui eis consilium, auxilium vel consensum clam vel palam, verbo, opere seu favore seu quovis alio modo impendunt, vel in præmissis impendent, cujuscunque ordinis, conditionis seu dignitatis existant, excommunicamus et exnunc excommunicatos denunciamus publice in hiis scriptis. Postmodum, quomodo ex relatu fidedignorum ac facti experientia intellexerimus quod nonnulli iniquitatis filii in suis maliciis stare ac perseverare gloriantes, nostramque sententiam supradictam vilipendere non verentes, nos et nostram visitationem ac ejus effectum, jurisdictionem et officium, contra statuta tam canonica quam legalia, in nostri et ecclesiæ nostræ Cantuariensis præjudicium non modicum et gravamen, impediunt pertinaciter et perturbant, ad ea quæ ad nos ratione prædictæ visitationis canonice pertinere noscuntur, manus temerarias nitentes extendere quantum possunt, non sine incedentiæ vitio et contemptu. Nos tot præsumptionum errores sub dissimulatione, sine nostrorum et ecclesiæ nostræ jurium et libertatum læsione maxima, impunitas dimittere non valentes, omnes hujusmodi malefactores seu nostræ et ecclesiæ nostræ Cantuariensis jurisdictionis contra justitiam perturbatores in præfatam incidisse excommunicationis sententiam declaramus. Eisdem nihilominus propter suas injurias præsumptiones continuatas monentes, una monitione pro prima, secunda et tertia monitione præmissa, ut a præmissis omnibus de cetero penitus desistant, ac nos et nostros ad nostri officii executionem et nostri juris exercitium in futurum absque cujuscunque frivolæ repugnationis obstaculo reverenter admittant. Alioquin omnes et singulos hujusmodi contrarium facere præsumentes in hiis scriptis excommunicamus, et prædictam nostram sententiam ut præmittitur latam alias innovantes, eosdem in eandem sententiam incidisse, et excommunicatos esse publice nunciamus, protestantes nos velle, cum de eorum constet nominibus, hanc prædictam sententiam specialiter extendere ad eosdem, et facere eos tanquam excommunicatos ab omnibus catholicis arctius evitari.

Frater Johannes, etc., dilecto filio . . . officiali . . . archidiaconi Stafford', salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Nuper nobis in diocèse Conventrense et Lichfeldense visitationis officium exercentibus, Agnes de Dodelebur' ad nos accedens, gravi conquestione monstravit, quod Johannes de Pontifford, maritus suus, ipsam maritali affectu non pertractans, eam a se amovit eidem necessaria denegando. Volentes autem in hoc facto effici certiores, inquisitionem super hiis religioso viro et discreto abbati Salop' mandavimus faciendam. Qui in dicto negotio procedens, dictum Johannem propter suas multiplicatas contumacias pariter et offensas, auctoritate nostra excommunicationis sententia innodavit et excommunicatum publice nunciavit. Denum dictus Johannes ad nos veniens, divortium inter ipsum et dictam Agnetem cum effectu in forma canonica petiit celebrari, asserens se ipsam de adultério et incestu post matrimonium inter eos contractum velle in forma juris coram competenti iudice accusare. personaliter haberemus accessum, comperimus fores eorum exteriores sine valvis existere, eo quod dominus Thomas quondam Herefordensis episcopus monachos ipsos coegerat valvas ab ipsis foribus amovere. Cum autem videremus aperte, hoc religionis honestati minime convenire, quæ habet a sæcularium tumultibus hominum et incursibus congrui ambitus intersticio communiri, ut divinis liberius et commodius vacet obsequiis, pro quibus dinoscitur instituta, perpendemus etiam ex hoc familiæ dictorum monachorum licentiam et occasionem tribui multa inibi nepharia perpetrandi, monachisque ipsis vel eorum aliquibus, si forsitan tales essent, quod absit, ad similia contra religionis vinculum aditum præparari; necnon, quod magis credimus ponderandum, nepharios homines et impudicos infra loci ipsius ambitus latibula multa enormia crimina commisisse, prout nobis ex parte quorundam parochianorum ibidem extitit intimatum; ac etiam ad hoc idem pro defectu clausuræ semper aditum esse paratum; licet tot malorum et criminum evidentia, statim ad salubris correctionis remedia nos artaret, pro pace tamen et securitate omnium causam valvarum amotionis hujusmodi plenius duximus exquirendam. Demum pro facto dicti episcopi fuit propositum coram nobis quod, cum ecclesia Leomenistr' parochialis existat, ad quam tam de nocte quam de die liber omnibus patere debet accessus, ut in casibus fortuitis confugientes ad eam ipsius immunitate gaudeant, et parochianis infirmis semper viaticum sit paratum, ac fores ipsæ semper nocturno tempore solent claudi, multa propter hoc, ut dicebatur, pericula contigerunt. Nos itaque considerantes certa pericula esse dubiis præferenda, posseque hujusmodi confugarum incertis periculis per viam aliam commodius obviari, volentes in periculis certis aditum et occasionem peccandi tollere, et dictorum religiosorum honestati et securitati impostorum salubriter providere, habito super hiis cum venerabili viro magistro R[icardo] electo Herefordensi per nos confirmato, decanoque et capitulo ejusdem loci diligenti tractatu, de eorundem voluntate et assensu, prædictis monachis auctoritate præsentium valvas suas prædictas restituimus, ita libere sicut eas aliquo tempore habuerunt, et circa prædicta pericula excludenda taliter duximus ordinandum; ut videlicet præacti monachi extra januas suas prædictas, in loco ad hoc congruo, ædificent et perficiant infra annum unam honestam capellam decentis magnitudinis in honore beati Thomæ martiris gloriosi, ad quam confugarum hujusmodi liber accessus omni tempore pateat, et in qua corpus Christi pro infirmis honorifice collocetur, et unus de capellanis parochialibus, vel alter sacerdos, celebret omni die, ut immunitas sit et protectio omnibus confugientibus ad eandem. Inhibemus autem nostris subditis universis sub pœna distractionis canonicæ, ne quis eorum præfatam ordinationem nostram præsumat aliquatenus infirmare, vel ei ausu temerario contraire. Decernentes exnunc prout extunc irritum et inane si quid per eos aut eorum aliquem contra præmissa fuerit attemptatum. TO CARDINAL [CHIOLETTI].

Reverendo in Christo patri et domino J[ohanni], Dei gratia tituli Sanctæ Cæciliæ presbytero cardinali, suus frater J[ohannes] etc., cum omni reverentia et honore. Si non possimus alteri, conquerimur coram vobis sanguini Redemptoris super eo quod, ut nobis certis mandatis innotuit, Tedisius de Camilla, cum esset olim fama teste omnium vilior curialium, quædam beneficia ecclesiastica sacrilege intrusus, quorum sibi confirmationem a domino Johanne papa, mediantibus quibusdam in toto falsis suggestionibus, impetravit, sua impetratione multiplici abusu privandus, ut parati sumus docere coram iudice veritatis, tantum repperit in sancta Romana curia favorem, quod in nostri nostrorumque gravamen multiplex multa ei supra cursum solitum conceduntur. Quod nos teste Altissimo plangimus longe plus quam nostro incommodo pro dedecencia tantæ matris, et scandalo quod inde sequetur, non solum pusillorum sed etiam illorum qui scientes qualiter Christus docuerit carnales affectus curæ postponere animarum, cernunt eum ibi reperire favorem quo debuerat captivari, in tali maxime qui totius expertus scientiæ et linguæ etiam literalis, moribus suis fuscavit aerem, ut dicitur, ubicunque hactenus moram traxit. Quia igitur in ipso canonicè privato credimus de ovili Domini eiecisse furem, de templo negotiatorem et abominationis idolum prostravisse, supplicamus sanctitati vestræ ut summo pontifici suggerere dignemini, quatenus illorum qui ipsum in dicti Tedisii favorem inclinare nituntur, dignetur advertere laqueos, et nobis pro solo Christi sanguine agentibus favorem consuetæ dulcedinis impertiri. Custodiat Dominus incolumitatem vestram ecclesiæ suæ sanctæ per tempora longiora.

ea ad præsens in nostri injuriam et subversionem jurium et libertatum nostræ Cantuariensis ecclesiæ nitimini retorquere, et eadem interpretamini contra mentem juris, juribus illis quæ pro nobis faciunt non pensatis. Quocirca dilectionem vestram rogamus in Domino et hortamur, quatenus ab hujusmodi nostrorum jurium offensionibus velitis imposterum abstinere, nec vos contra libertates nostras tot studiis involvatis, quantum ex hoc finaliter nihil vobis acquirere poteritis gloriæ vel honoris. Officiales autem nostros nec deceret nos ab executione officiorum suorum retrahere, cum hoc in maximum nobis scandalum redundaret. Unde rogamus quod non habeatis pro malo si preces vestras ad præsens non duximus admittendas, volentes ut officialis noster circa hoc faciat quod sibi viderit expedire. Et attendatis quod constitutio illa quam allegatis pro vobis, quæ loquitur de salariis advocatorum, etc., excipit nisi de consuetudine aliud habeatur. Ne credatis oculos nostros aut nostrorum circa jura talia caligare, et ne de cetero nobis scribatis talia vos rogamus. Valete. Datum Wygornia, ii. non. Februarii, ordinationis nostræ anno quinto.

Frater J[ohannes], etc., discreto viro in Christo, sibi carissimo, Giffredo de Vezano, nuncio domini papæ in Anglia, salutem et sinceram in Domino caritatem. Libenter vestris precibus annuimus et annuere cupimus in illis, quibus secundum Deum possumus et voluntati vestræ credimus complacere. Verumtamen quod in sacris literis et fundamentis euuangelicis eruditi ecclesiam Dei pro animarum procuranda salute novimus institutam, miramur valde et inter cetera facinora plurimum abhorremus, quod ecclesiæ hujusmodi laicis et mercatoribus committuntur. Unde quandocunque dominus Leo, de quo scribitis, nobilis sit et ingenuus, non possemus tantum abusum incorrectum sana conscientia pertransire; et parum certe de proprio curamus honore, ubi honorem Dei, qui omnibus aliis præferri debet, nos scimus ut potest fieri procurare. Frater J[ohannes], permissione etc., venerabili in Christo fratri domino R., Dei gratia Herefordensi episcopo, salutem et fraternæ caritatis in Domino continuum incrementum. Nuper jure metropolitico Herefordensem diocesem visitantes, inter ceteras inquisitiones auctoritate nostra inibi factas, invenimus magistrum Philippum Walensem ecclesiam de Stratton' in Strattonedale, post ultimum Lugdunense concilium, titulo institutionis fuisse adeptum, et infra annum a tempore sibi commissi regiminis, in presbyterum minime ordinatum, ac etiam aliud beneficium ecclesiasticum curam habens animarum sine dispensatione sedis apostolicæ obtinere. Qui quidem magister Philippus personaliter coram nobis in judicio constitutus, se ad¹ præfatam ecclesiam de Stratton' post prædictum concilium admissum esse,² nec procurasse infra annum se in presbyterum ordinari, judicialiter est confessus. Frater J[ohannes], etc., dilectis filiis archidiacono nostro Cantuariensi et ejus officiali, salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Ex fidedigno relatu audivimus, et credimus esse verum, quod aliqui, licet pauci per Dei gratiam, quos gremio nostræ Cantuariensis ecclesiæ ascribit habitus et professio monachalis, pœnam sacrilegii et damnabile proprietatis vitium non satis veriti, bona monasterii in privatos usus convertere hactenus sunt conati. Reverendo in Christo patri ac domino Giffredo, Dei gratia tituli Sanctæ Susannæ presbytero cardinali, frater J[ohannes], Dei etc., cum filiali reverentia paratam in omnibus ejus beneplacitis voluntatem. Quanto possumus cordis affectu regraciamur dominationi vestræ, quæ nostrum refocillare dignata est animum suarum solatio literarum, quas utinam inter pressuras sæculi frequentius recipere mereremur. Speramus enim quod sanctitatis vestræ theologica fundamenta magnum concedente summo Artifice ecclesiastico artificio robur dabunt. Ceterum, pater sanctissime, rumor dulcissimus nostris insonuit auribus jam frequenter, quod videlicet pater sanctissimus summus pontifex, inter alia cordis sui mysteria divinitus afflata, concepit propositum de Parisiensis doctrinæ serenis radiis proficiscens, quod intendit clericorum conscientia corruptorum audaciam refrenare qui non verentur multiplicare sibi beneficia præbendalia contra decretum ewangelicæ disciplinæ, quo cavetur ut qui habet duas tunicas unam tribuat non habenti, et qui habet escas similiter, sicut vestra sapientia melius longe novit. Scitis enim, pater sanctissime, quod hujusmodi multiplicatio ex radice præsumptionis infinite progreditur, qua unus plurimos existimat se valere. Patet etiam toti mundo qualiter per talia ministrorum Dei numerus minuitur, ecclesiæ defraudantur, et pleno populo civitas sola sedet. Certe non licebat hoc cum olim clerici viverent in communi. Tunc enim non amplius licebat unum esse clericum diversarum ecclesiarum, quam unum monachum plurium monasteriorum. Nec decet distinctionem præbendarum provisam ad commodum in tantum dispendium redundare. Nec hæc scribimus præsumentes docere Minervam, sed ad pii patris recurrimus præsidium, quia per hoc confundi cernimus in Anglia ecclesias præbendales. Obsecrantes per viscera Jesu Christi ut cum opportunitatem dederit cœlestis clementia, excitare velit illius sancti propositi igniculum, ut in facie totius ecclesiæ accendatur. Supplicantes humiliter ne sciant ceteri nos de ista materia vestræ reverentiæ scriptitasse. Scimus enim quod hoc pluribus displiceret qui in hac parte se sentiunt sauciati. Custodiat Dominus incolumitatem vestram ecclesiæ suæ sanctæ per tempora longiora. Scriptum vii. kal. Maii.

Sane litera vestra nobis exhibita duas petitiones, si bene recolimus, continebat, quarum prima fuit de c. li. sterlingorum in quibus tenemur fratri Ricardo de Stratford', quas pro fratrum necessitatibus sibi petitis liberari. Et scire debetis quod dum fuit in sæculo, diversarum ecclesiarum etiam nostri patronatus bona rapuit et consumpsit, de quibus nobis haberet volente justitia respondere. Et circa hoc bonæ memoriæ dominus Robertus prædecessor noster, nobis præsentibus in curia, talia retulit de eodem, per quæ potuissemus cum licite privasse omnibus ecclesiasticis bonis suis. Si autem nomine ordinis pro fratrum necessitatibus hæc pecunia exigatur,¹ advertere debetis et scire quod Biblia illa quam dictus prædecessor noster scribi fecit, pro cujus scriptura magister Henricus Lovel senescallus noster solvit de bonis ecclesiæ c. marcas et xiii., per fratres indebite detinetur. De quo certe valde miramur, cum ipsa Biblia de bonis ecclesiæ facta ad nos pertineat pleno jure. Unde si nobis esset ipsa Biblia restituta, promptiores essemus et merito fratrum necessitates in hiis et aliis sublevare. Hæc scribimus quantum ad justitiam. Caritatis autem intuitu parati semper erimus, quantum secundum Deum possumus, ordinis vestri solatia procurare, et in hac parte amplius quam scribamus. [1283.]

Reverendo in Christo patri ac domino Matheo, Dei gratia Sanctæ Mariæ in Porticu diacono cardinali, frater J[ohannes], etc., cum filiali reverentia paratam ejus beneplacitis voluntatem. Scimus, reverende pater, et frequenter sumus experti, quod vos ecclesiæ Cantuariensis jura et negotia propter sanctorum ejusdem ecclesiæ reverentiam patronorum habetis affectuosius commendata, et zelum vestrum libenter convertitis ad ea quæ honorem Dei in ea respiciunt et commodum animarum. Sane licet ecclesia ipsa prædicta a longis temporibus in suo collegio sanctos viros habuerit et honestos, frequenter tamen inter alios discolos se habere gemuit, qui sua insolentia collegium macularunt, quique lasciviis et vanitatibus sæculi insistentes potius quam monasticæ honestati, maneria ecclesiæ et possessiones in suis manibus tenuerunt, exeuntes et discurrentes per patriam, religionis vinculo penitus dissoluto; ex quo contigit ut bona ecclesiæ in suos privatos usus convertentes proprietarii efficerentur, dissolutam vitam agerent, ecclesiam suam inofficiatam dimitterent, et multa alia scandala in tota patria seminarent. Quæ ita publica et notoria existere dinoscuntur, quod pro certo credimus ipsius famæ strepitum aures vestras aliquotiens offendisse. Nec adhuc desunt quos certum est ad talia ignitis desideriis aspirare. Nec latent vos, ut credimus, ea quæ in dicta ecclesia nuper occasione dissolutionis hujusmodi perpetrata fuerunt per duos discolos, ut credimus, qui in toto collegio graves discordias suscitaverunt, et tanquam fures sacrilegi et excommunicati clandestine recesserunt. Hoc autem majorem eis præstat audaciam malignandi, quod cum ipsis monachis per sedem apostolicam dispensatum esse dicitur, ne pro suis delictis puniendis extra monasterium transmittantur. Nec habet illa ecclesia nostra cellas sicut aliæ plures per orbem ecclesiæ, ad quas mitti possint pro suis sceleribus expiandis. Prædicta vero incommoda multum minuit qui nunc est ipsius prior ecclesiæ, frater Thomas nomine, bonus homo et honestus, in disciplina rigidus, communem utilitatem amplectens, commoda privata detestans, qui hujusmodi insolentiæ causam et occasionem tollere satagens et sedare, primus instituit ut maneria ecclesiæ a monachorum manibus et per fideles ballivos communitati devotos custodiantur, ut fructus et obventiones eorundem ad communem bursam integre veniant, omni privato commodo sic excluso. Et quia ad hæc manus nostras porreximus, ut potuimus, adjutrices, et ea facimus observari, quidam de ipso collegio indignationis concepto spiritu in prioris dejectionem et sibi adherentium machinantur. Mittimus igitur ad pedes sanctitatis vestræ dilectum nobis in Christo fratrem Robertum, monachum ejusdem ecclesiæ, latorem præsentium, expositurum vobis ipsius ecclesiæ negotia, humiliter supplicantes ut ei aurem dignemini inclinare propitiam et preces nostras efficaciter exaudire pro internorum et exteriorum gravaminum remediis, prout honori congruit Sancti Thomæ.

Frater J[ohannes] etc., venerabili in Christo fratri domino R., Dei gratia Bathoniensi et Wellensi episcopo, salutem et sinceram in Domino caritatem. Ex parte omnium coepiscoporum nostrorum in ultima congregatione nostra London' præsentium et procuratorum absentium, vobis scribimus quæ sequuntur, ut ea ex parte nostra et illorum intimetis, si placet, domino nostro regi. De eo videlicet quod, sicut publice prædicatur et certum est, sacræ ædes in quibus deposita erat pecunia pro subsidio Terræ Sanctæ collecta, fuerunt, Dominica qua cantatur Lætare Jerusalem, eadem quasi hora per Angliam spoliata, ipsa pecunia, ut dicitur, asportata, nec est dubium quin spoliatores hujusmodi in excommunicationis sententiam pluribus rationibus inciderint ipso facto. Et quia ipsi per mandatum regium se excusant, se hoc de ejus mandato fecisse temere asserentes, quod nimis redundat in dedecus regiæ majestatis, scire desiderant nobiscum fratres et coepiscopi nostri, quibus modis valeamus dictum dominum regem apud intrinsecos et extrinsecos excusare. Quocirca fraternitatem vestram totis præcordiis exoramus, ut si quid explorare potueritis, quod in hac parte dominum regem valeat excusare, velitis id nobis per latorem præsentium literatorie intimare. Et hoc dicere velitis domino nostro regi, nos vobis scripsisse ex parte omnium prædictorum, sicut ipsi domino unicordi. Ad hæc grave scandalum credimus imminere, si dominus rex circa factum ecclesiæ de Crundale, quam dominus Wyntoniensis episcopus contulit bono et honesto viro domino Pëtro de Geldeford, capellano nostro, procedat, sicut eum dicitur processurum. Ipsam enim ecclesiam Jacobus de Ispania, puer ut dicitur inhabilis; prius tenuit occupatam, quam dominus rex voluit conferri cuidam medico, literalem¹ scientiam et linguam patriæ non habenti. Cum igitur dictus Jacobus non sit capax beneficii, tum quia minor annis et illegitimus ut dicitur, nec secum sit auctoritate apostolica dispensatum, dominum regem velitis inducere propter Deum, ut in hac parte quicquam faciat aut fieri præcipiat, quod possit in dedecus suum aut læsionem libertatis ecclesiasticæ aliquatenus redundare; quia certum est istud, si aliquod inhonestum fiat, ad sanctæ Romanæ ecclesiæ notitiam perventurum, ex quo plurimum offendetur. Valete semper in Christo, significantes nobis statum vestrum, quem desideramus semper in Domino prosperari. Datum apud Novum Locum, iii. idus Maii.

Procuratorium domini in curia Romana, super quibusdam articulis et negotiis impetrandis:— Inprimis, ut, quia canones servare juravimus quibus consuetudines laicalis curiæ adversantur, nobis non imputet apostolica benignitas in reatum, quam diu id facimus exhortando et persuadendo pro viribus quantum patitur temporis malicia nostris humeris incumbentis. Secundo, ut ecclesiæ nostræ provideatur de necessariæ contra discolos remedio disciplinæ, quæ cellas non habet ad quas incorrigibiles valeant destinari; et ut remedium insolentiæ pristinæ salubriter inchoatum favore apostolico roboretur. Tertio, ut bona ecclesiæ nostræ inventa penes bonæ memoriæ prædecessorem nostrum per camerarium occupata in pecunia numerata, in vasis, monilibus, ornamentis ecclesiasticis, libris et processibus judicialibus ac registralibus nobis restituantur, ut justitia exigit, de quibus non aliter ditari volumus quam vobis diximus viva voce. Demum, si qui turbare velint ecclesiæ nostræ jura et libertates vel etiam tuitionem curiæ nostræ Cantuariensis, in qua non sine magnis laboribus et expensis a longis retroactis temporibus sanctæ Romanæ ecclesiæ dinoscitur ancillari, ipsi per vestræ sollicitudinis industriam, de qua confidimus, reprimantur. Item, ut cupiditas Thedisii de Camilla per viam aliquam rationabilem quietetur. Item, ut status archidiaconalis attenuatio et dejectio per viam aliquam rationabilem et tolerabilem reformetur, præsertim quia canonum novellorum archidiaconos quasi prævaricatores constituit universos. Demum, ut constitutio suscipiendi sacerdotalis ordinis a promotis, ne pereant inferiores scientiæ, temperetur. Item, ut informatio sanctæ rememoratio- nis domini Nicholai de suadendo valetudinariis epis- copis cessionem, sub quorum impotentia deficiunt bona .spiritualia et temporalia, qui exhortati per nos recusant cedere illorum consilio qui seniles defectus suos faciunt profectus, summo pontifici ad memoriam revocetur. Item, ut executores bonæ memoriæ domini Bonifacii seu substituti eorum nobis cogantur reddere rationem, et nobis de residuo respondere; præsertim quia dictus dominus Bonifacius, in magnum gravamen nostrum, domos Cantuariensis ecclesiæ permisit decidere in immensum. Longe autem magis vellemus quod manus apostolica residua vendicaret, nobis juxta suum beneplacitum partitura, quam in manibus sacrilegis remanerent.

Universis præsentis literas inspecturis frater J[ohannes,] etc., salutem in Domino sempiternam. Noverit universitas vestra quod nos tenore præsentium facimus et constituimus dilectum nobis in Christo fratrem Robertum de Seleseye, [ecclesiæ] nostræ Cantuariensis monachum, procuratorem nostrum et nuncium specialem in Romana curia, ad impetrandum et contradicendum literas tam simplices quam legendas, privilegia et indulgentias tam gratiam quam justitiam continentes, quæ pro nobis et statu nostro facere poterunt et prodesse, judices et loca eligendum, et in eosdem conveniendum, negotia nostra utiliter gerendum et procurandum, et omnia alia circa præmissa faciendum quæ per verum et legitimum procuratorem valeant expediri. phariam cohibere, minuendo tamen et mutando pluries bonum facitis quod valetis. Ecce ergo tempus acceptabile, quo magni meriti titulum vobis coram Deo et hominibus acquirere poteritis, si acceptet omnium Moderator. Ecce enim dura et horrenda dicta contra Wyntoniensem episcopum et ecclesiam dicuntur nuperime profluxisse, et ex occasione irrationabili supra modum, quia videlicet data est ecclesia de Crundale primo vacans Wyntoniensi episcopo, capellano nostro, juxta Cantuariensis ecclesiæ libertatem, cum satis habeat idem episcopus in votis et potentia illi medico alias et alibi providere. Intrusus est in eandem ecclesiam puer ut dicitur illegitimus vi et armis regalibus, ut patuit per ministros intrusionis, quos non est dubium ipso facto in excommunicationis sententiam incidisse. Et quia talia facta non sunt veræ Christianæ fidei argumenta, ut ad ea quæ honori regio et saluti expediunt, studeatis totis viribus ipsius animum inclinare rogamus, pro certo scientes quod si ista ad aures pervenerint apostolicas, movebitur ipse et tota curia ut credimus vehementer. Et quid inde humanitas valeat evenire, satis potestis conjicere, quodque circa hoc in thesauris iræ Altissimi sit signatum, videntur quædam evidentia præagire. Dominum nostrum regem custodiat clementia Salvatoris. Væ enim et lamentationes hiis imminent, ut putamus, qui finem dierum suorum infelici omine pertransibunt, novercalis fortunæ verberibus flagellandi. Moneat autem dominum regem quod Wyntoniensis episcopi gravamina in nostrum redundant dedecus multiplici ratione, ex quo concludimus quod quicquid sibi feceritis in hac parte solatii vel refrigerii, dilatorii saltem ad tempus, nobis sapimus esse factum. dentia plus quam nostra. Quantum autem id horrerit inexperientia cordis nostri, novit Ille solus cui omnes latebræ sunt apertæ. Unum scimus et ipso conscio protestamur, quod salvo solius Dei honore quantum in nobis est plus vellemus ab illo tempore usque in præsens in carcere sine carceris merito speculationibus cælestibus indulgisse. Incidimus etenim in nervos leviathan perplexos, dum jurati cum amaris lacrimis super altare principis apostolorum servare canones, eos licet involuntarii non servamus, dum sæculares principes Deum in Thomæ sanguine non verentes, formato sibi consuetudinis antiquæ sed corruptelæ potius idolo, sprete apostolica reverentia excavare nituntur ecclesiæ fundamenta. Qualiter autem sacrum Lugdunense concilium quorundam clericorum abjecisset improbitas, nisi nos, ut fueramus per sanctæ memoriæ summum pontificem informati, ascendissemus pro viribus ex adverso, narrare poterunt omnes ad curiam venientes. Ad quod et similia vitia extirpanda, etsi non plene sufficimus, diatim proficimus ut valemus, quamquam quidam clericorum magni viribus diabolicis sibi arrogent impudenter, se absque dispensatione apostolica posse ex consuetudine quotlibet qualialibet et quantalibet citra episcopalem gradum beneficia occupare. Laboramus igitur, sancte pater, ut fures et lupos a Christi gregibus expellamus, quæ si vellemus clausis palpebris transilire, nihil esse lætius temporalis fallaciæ applausibus quam cor nostrum, quod ex causis contrariis in felle revolvitur et dolore. Proinde, pater piissime, ad immediate nobis subjectos intuitum dirigentes, invenimus præ ceteris Tedisium de Camilla in greges nostros a principio per ostium non intrasse, investituram decanatus de Wulverenehampton' a laico recepisse, qui decanatus nostri juris est plenarie, quamvis regia violentia sit detentus. Invenimus ipsum Tedisium, sicut male sibi conscium, dispensationem apostolicam ex falsis in toto suggestionibus ut plurimum impetrasse. Tandemque dispensationis abusu neglecta animarum cura totaliter, non rectoris sed raptoris exercuisse officium in eisdem, demum pro absentia contumaci ab ecclesia de Wulverehampton', super qua nullo privilegio excusatur, cum maturitate debita excommunicationis sententia involutus, in qua longo tempore perduravit, ultimo pactus cum Bogone de Clare, ut a fidedignis asseritur, de dimittenda sibi ecclesia de Wengeham pro quadam laicalis terræ possessione, si noster concurrisset assensus, per peritos in jure sententialiter est privatus. Non possemus igitur, pater sanctissime, revocare judicium sine peccato mortalissimo et scandalo totius cleri et populi Anglicani, inter quos qualis sit nominis et quam fetidam sui reliquerit memoriam, noverunt omnes incolæ regionis. Quia igitur, teste beatissima Trinitate, parati sumus vestris beneplacitis acquiescere in omnibus, quantum sine Dei offensa valemus, supplicamus humiliter ut nostram in hac parte velitis habere innocentiam excusatam. Nihil enim vobis honoris accresceret si in filio vestro infelicitas adimpleret illud apostolicum, "Si quæ destruxi, hoc iterum reedifico, prevaricatorum me esse constituo."¹ Compositionis autem quandam formam posuimus in ore magistri Adæ de Phileby, qua volumus ob vestri reverentiam dictum T[edisium] liberaliter consolari. Ergo, pater piissime, si sanguinem illum diligitis gratitudinis bonitate, qui tamen vobis nescientibus se dicitur frequenter extraordinarie dilatare, dignemini attendere quod nos solus exagitat in hac parte amor sanguinis Crucifixi, quia circa animarum procurandam salutem arguens allegantes vinculum parentelæ dixit Mt. xii., "Quæ est mater mea," etc.;² et sacerdotium Melchisedec, quod est Christi, genealogiam nescit secundum apostolum ad Hebræos, sicut vos hæc omnia novistis melius, pater sancte. Custodiat Dominus incolumitatem vestram ecclesiæ suæ per tempora longiora. Scriptum viii. kal. Junii.

TO THE ABBOT OF SEEZ.

Frater J[ohannes], etc., venerandæ religionis viro domino . . . Dei gratia abbati Sagiensi, salutem et sinceram in Domino caritatem. Nuper in progressu visitationis nostræ metropoliticæ in diocese Cyclesi, prioratum vestrum Arundell' visitantes, invenimus monachos vestros ibidem nulli regulari subijci disciplinæ, sed eorum correctiones, qui in nostræ jurisdictionis finibus delinquent, vobis, qui statis in partibus transmarinis, contra omnem formam canonicam reservari, cum inter se priorem habeant qui posset et deberet quotidianos defectus corrigere et insolentias delinquentium refrænare. Cum igitur monasticam deceat honestatem sub disciplina et regulari observantia Domino famulari, mandamus quatenus, si vobis expedire videbitur, committatis priori vestro loci prædicti liberam potestatem corrigendi et reformandi monachos sibi commissos, et quod unum sub se habeat subpriorem, qui in ejus absentia inter monachos ipsos faciat observari regulas ordinis et disciplinas secundum canonica instituta. Quid autem circa hoc feceritis, aut facere decreveritis in præmissis, nobis citra festum Assumptionis gloriosæ Virginis fideliter rescribatis. Alioquin nos extunc dissimulare non poterimus quin circa præmissa, prout expedire viderimus, salubre remedium apponamus. Valet. Datum apud Slyn-done, v. kal. Thomæ cancellario Eboracensi salutem. Noveritis, carissime, quod ab illo tempore quo vos vidimus, nunquam præsentiam Roberti de Bradegare, infirmitate sua et nostris occupationibus obstantibus, potuimus obtinere, cum tamen intellexerimus aliorum fidedigno relatu vos circa istam materiam, licet hoc credere difficile videatur, linguam vestram in nostri præjudicium ultra religionis debitum relaxasse. Parcat vobis Dominus si est ita, qui vulnerat et medetur. Per villam tantum de Maydestan transitum facientes, pro certo audivimus vos per vestros plus de illius ecclesiæ fructibus recepisse, quam translationis vestræ jura permitterent, etiam si jus habuissetis, etiam obtentu ipsius ecclesiæ, quam episcopus Portuensis translationis suæ minime ignarus conferre non potuit, ut in Romana curia didicimus, et per prudentes viros intellexi-mus; ex hoc fundamento archidiaconatum Cantuariensem ecclesiæ conferentes, cujus collationem videtur sedes apostolica sicut cernitis approbasse. Rogamus igitur, carissime, ut a nostris injuriis desistentes, juxta theologica fundamenta res alienorum pauperum concupiscere desistatis, pro certo scientes, quod si exactiorem vestram justam esse decerneret industria sapientum, vobis inde faceremus justitiæ complementum. Sed quia in aliorum præjudicium nihil possumus, vestram hortamur in Domino caritatem ut, a dedecenti petitione et impetitione hujusmodi desistentes, expectetis pacifice donec dederit nobis Dominus opportunitatem, sicut vere votis gerimus, dante Altissimo, vos per viam aliam honorandi. TO CARDINAL HUGH OF EVESHAM.

Reverendo in Christo patri ac domino Hugoni, etc. Clarificato pridem nostro Cantuariensi collegio per abcedentes duos filios tenebrarum, sicut olim ipsius Auctor ecclesiæ per recessum Judæ perfidi se clarificatum esse asseruit, non miramur, reverende pater, si nisi sunt spargere tenebras coram vobis. Sed quia frustra rete jacitur ante oculos pennatorum, vos cœlesti lumine perlustranti et fidem suggestis sanctæ maturitatis pondere distulistis impendere, et nos de suggestorum pernicie pia sollicitudine literarum vestrarum paterna prudentia docuistis, de quo vobis regratiamur, pater carissime, toto corde. Quamvis igitur insolitis et indebitis laboribus et expensis conati fuerimus pluries, prudentissimorum virorum subnixi consilio, illud nostrum Cantuariense collegium reformare, tam quantum ad sedandam discordiam capitis et membrorum, quam quantum ad periclitantem per amfractus varios lineam disciplinæ, profecerimusque Dei auxilio, priorisque ministerio, ex parte supra multa tempora retroacta. TO THE PRIOR AND CHAPTER OF ROCHESTER.

Frater Johannes, etc., dilectis filiis priori et capitulo ecclesiæ Roffensis, salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Venientes ad nostram præsentiam dilecti filii fratres Johannes de Wautham et Thomas de Wldeham, nuncii monasterii vestri, nobis humiliter supplicarunt quod, cum nuper post petitam a nobis et obtentam licentiam eligendi personam convenientem canonicis institutis vobis legitime in pastorem, electio de honorabili viro domino Johanne de Kyrkeby, archidiacono Conventr' et illustris domini regis clerico, in vestro monasterio celebrata, propter notoriam pluralitatem beneficiorum cum cura, quæ ipsum ineligibilem prorsus reddit, non tenuerit ipso jure, iteratam eligendi licentiam vobis misericorditer concedere dignaremur. Nos igitur advertentes quod ob hujusmodi præsumptam electionem, rigor justitiæ secundo eligendi vobis ad præsens potestatem canonicam non concedit, vires nostras supra jus erigere non valentes, petitam licentiam hujusmodi, quatenus permittunt in vestro casu canonicæ sanctiones, vobis repetita gratia non negamus. Protestamur tamen pro nobis et ecclesia nostra Cantuar', quæ a tempore cujus non extat memoria usque ad tempus gloriosissimi confessoris Eadmundi, prædecessoris nostri, vestro monasterio variis vicibus viduato consuevit de Excellenti viro sibi in Christo carissimo domino Eadmundo, filio domini regis Alemanniæ, et comiti Cornubiæ, salutem et sinceram in Domino caritatem. Novit Ille qui est cognitor secretorum, quod honorem vestrum intima prosequimur affectione, et actus vestros ad ea semper dirigi cupimus quæ honorem Dei respiciunt et animæ vestræ salutem continue operantur. Sane nobilitatem vestram nolumus ignorare quod Petrus de Boseham, gerens se pro ballivo vestro Cycestr', nostras et ecclesiæ nostræ Cantuariensis libertates hætenus obtentas et in civitate Cycestr' pacifice observatas, necnon per dominum regem qui nunc est perpetuo confirmatas, in nostri præjudicium et contemptum multipliciter violavit et turbavit, ac quantum in ipso est violat omni die, carectas et res nostras seu nostrorum et ecclesiæ nostræ tenentium in strata regia Cycestr' publice arrestando. Et licet ipsum pluries moneri fecerimus, ut res hujusmodi et bona restitueret, et satisfaceret de commissis, idem tamen bajulus vester hoc facere neglexit hætenus pertinaciter et contempsit; vos in hiis omnibus suum laudans auctorem, quem talia facere velle non credimus aliqua ratione, nititurque supra hoc nos et nostros ad suum judicium evocare, quod inauditum est temporibus retroactis. Quare ipsum Petrum in forma juris tanquam libertatis ecclesiasticæ turbatorem fecimus excommunicatum publice et sollempniter nunciari. Et quia de vobis facile credere non possumus, quod ipsum Petrum seu quemcunque alium ad hujusmodi maleficia aliquatenus animetis, seu ad hoc præstetis auctoritatem aliquam vel consensum, dilectionem vestram, quam Deo et ecclesiæ scimus esse devotam, quanta possumus affectione rogamus, et in Domino exhortamur, ut dicti Petri tanquam excommunicati vitetis consortium, faci-

Quid autem in præmissis duxeritis faciendum, nobis, si placet, per latorem præsentium rescribatis. Valete in Christo et Virgine gloriosa. Datum apud Suthmalling', vi. non. Quod, excellentissime domine, propria experientia didicistis, ut credimus, et nos pro parte nostra frequenter ex hujusmodi torcularibus amaritudinis hausimus absinthum, quod nobis excogitata malitia propinavit. Hæc nulli parcat gradui, sed excellentioribus libentius effundit livoris jacula, feriendis parata in pharetra pravitatis. Cum enim reverendus pater dominus Tusculanus sit exemplar totius innocentiae, ut putamus, et in sancta Romana ecclesia speculum puritatis, plangit sibi hujusmodi tribulationis turbinem suscitatum per quendam sanctæ religionis falsum pallium deferentem, qui de ipso finxit enorme mendacium, impie præsumens asserere prædictum patrem fuisse præscium et conscius discidii inter dominum regem Castellæ et proprium filium suscitati. Facetæ caritatis erat indicium, quod vos nobis super executione mandati apostolici voluistis animi vestri innocentiam et benevolentiam literis excusatoriis indicare, de quo vobis grates referimus speciales. Verumtamen non videtur esse mansuetudinis argumentum quod vos illum, quem novistis nostrum infrunitissimum inimicum, ad executionem mandati vestri nuncium elegistis. Pro certo autem scire vos volumus, quod mandatis apostolicis obedire tantum cupimus et quærimus, quantum aliquis homo vivens. Illos insuper qui patrem sanctissimum excitant pro adversario Dei contra filium, pro fure contra judicem, pro lupo contra pastorem, pro hirco vilissimo contra gregem, convertat Altissimus vel conterat corpora, ut spiritus salvi fiant. Supplicamus etiam Altissimo ut in hac causa suam solam quærentes gloriam promovere dignetur. Illos vero qui in eadem carnalitem suam præponunt sanguini Crucifixi, temporaliter destruat et confundat. Rogamus igitur, carissime domine, ut in delegato vobis negotio nolitis hostiliter procedere ut fecistis. Scientes quod nihil in hac parte canonicum formidamus, qui parati sumus spiculatori, si oporteat, cervicem subjicere pro hac causa, nec ditemus eam donec finem justitiæ conservatur. Nec deerunt qui dicturi sunt, pater pie, favori in ipso furi contra judicem, lupo contra pastorem, et hirco ut dicitur contra gregem; assumentque sæculi potestates exaggerandi gravamina curæ meæ, si viderint inde confundi ecclesiam, unde confusionis remedium sperabatur. subterfugit manus medici languidus versipellis, et, ne dissolvatur iniquitatis vinculum, ad appellationis falsæ tenebras confugit ut lucem fugiat, currit et impetrat ad pastoris æmulum qui in evacuandis pastoris sacris conatibus triumphaliter gloriatur. Licet enim nulli fiat præjudicium si in casibus juridicis ad summum pontificem appelletur, hoc tamen gravamen intolerabile reputamus, quod lupo iudex efficitur sententiæ pastoralis. Ex hoc enim puer scinditur, grex inficitur, et quasi desperata infimicis cura negligitur, dum medentis officium sic partitur. Nec credimus quod majus periculum in ecclesia valeat inveniri. Ex hiis enim radicibus discessit orientalis ecclesia a matris suæ uberibus imprudenter. Sane, reverende pater ac domine, nos Deum habentes præ oculis dudum processimus contra Tedisium de Camilla, qui creditur esse cleri obprobrium in partibus Anglicanis, ipsum tanquam furem in forma canonica a Christi gregibus expellendo. Procurantibus autem quibusdam suggestoribus, quorum urat Deus renes et corda, commisit ipsum negotium pater sanctissimus summus pontifex summarie cognoscendum, in nostri gravamen non modicum, adversario nostro notorio Gyffredo de Vezano, qui, qualiter jura didicerit non tam in studiis quam in scriniis revolvendis, processus sui pravo et amfractuoso tramite indicavit; sicut ex processu negotii per Dei gratiam apparebit. Quia igitur favor iste, quem ex facti ignorantia credimus processisse, redundat in dedecus delegantis; vestræ clementiæ flexis nostri cordis genibus supplicamus, quatenus, cum opportunum fuerit, dominum papam rogare dignemini ut favorem homini indigno, ut mundus credit, exhibitum dignetur in melius commutare, nostris in hac parte favendo processibus quatenus tendunt in gloriam Jesu Christi. Pro certo sciturus quod in grave scandalum multitudinis redundabit si processus noster in hoc negotio totam Angliam ædificans pro homine tam obscuri nominis irritetur. Et inde contra nos sument sæculi potestates audaciam elationis supercilium erigendi, si ab illis in causa Christi reportemus obprobrium, a quibus sperabatur obprobrii remedium processurum. Recommendamus etiam pietati vestræ procuratores nostros, supplicantes humiliter ut eisdem pium patrocinium dignemini impertiri.  nec aliud facere possemus sine stimulo conscientiæ

Totius autem invocamus testimonium ecclesiæ triumphantis quod solo timore Dei, ex quo spirat fiducia fortitudinis, processimus taliter contra ipsum, et ejusdem timoris stimulis conclavati aliud facere non audemus, quicquid nobis immineat pro hoc negotio incommodi vel jacturæ. Frater J[ohannes], etc., dilecto filio . . . officiali domini archidiaconi Lewensis, salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Cum nos nuper diocesem Cycestrensem visitaremus atque ad locum religiosorum virorum . . . prioris et canonicorum de Hasting¹ accederemus, et eisdem præciperemus ut nobis nostrisque dicerent quæcunque in eorum domo, tam in capite quam in membris, essent corrigenda, quidam tamen dictorum canonicorum, videlicet fratres Johannes de Hugham et Johannes de Bello, nostro in hac parte præcepto minime obtemperantes, quædam correctione digna conscientiam suam nobis celarunt, quæ nunc ad cor redeuntes nobis referunt et revelant. Dicunt enim in primis quod prior non est legitimus. Item, quod non rite curam est assecutus. Item, quod est insufficientis litteraturæ, nec stat cum eis in ecclesia in servitio divino. Item, dicunt quod nimis raro venit in capitulum. Item, quod non quiescit cum eis in dormitorio. Item, occupat omnia bona domus, nec inde vult reddere rationes. Item, quod sustinet famulos suos sæculares contra confratres suos. Item, quod injuste vexat homines patriæ, unde timetur dampnum domui imminere. Item, quod sustinet fratrem Johannem de Wepham, qui proprietarius est et negotiator, et fuit a tempore suæ professionis, et eum talem sciens, in suppriorum contra regulam eorum creavit; et est similiter dictus frater J[ohannes] suscitator dis-

Frater J., etc., dilecto filio officiali domini Cicestrensis episcopi, salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Licet in certificatorio nobis misso de citando fratres Willelmum priorem ordinis Fratrum Prædicatorum Cycestr', et Robertum laicum, nuper receperimus ac præceperimus ipsos certis ex causis in singulis ecclesiis dictæ diocesis excommunicatos publice nunciari, ex causa tamen rationabili volentes eisdem gratiam facere specialem, vobis mandamus firmiter injungentes quatenus a dictis citatione et denunciatione interim desistatis, donec a nobis aliud habueritis in mandatis. Intelleximus quod dictus prior scienter celebravit in ecclesia de Staninges, quam nos ecclesiastico supposuimus interdicto, et quod sententias a nobis latas esse asseruit irritas et inanes, et verbis eas coram pluribus adnolavit. Quocirca verbis iterato mandamus, quatenus de præmissis et eorum quolibet et similibus diligentius inquirentes, nos cum omni celeritate qua poteritis infra festum Omnium Sanctorum studeatis reddere certiores, quibus etiam modis cum eo ballivo de Fescamp' et suis complicitibus inveneritis adhærere. TO THE BISHOP OF ROCHESTER.

Frater J[ohannes], etc., venerabili fratri domino Thomæ, Dei gratia episcopo Roffensi, salutem et sinceram in Domino caritatem. Nuper ecclesiam Roffensem auctoritate metropolitana visitantes, invenimus quædam correctione digna circa personas aliquas, quas comperimus inibi multipliciter deliquisse. In primis siquidem, priorem ipsum de suspecta consumptione honorum ecclesiæ invenimus accusatum, secundum tenorem cedulae quam vobis sigillatam mittimus excessus hujusmodi continentem, de quibus omnibus nihil respondit rationabile requisitus. Et idcirco volumus ut ab eo rationem integram super omnibus exigatis. Et quia prior ipse, et nonnulli alii creduntur magnam habere pecuniam in deposito, eidem . . . priori et monachis ecclesiæ universis præcepimus districte, ut quicquid haberent pecuniæ apud se vel alios reconditum, infra triduum a tempore tunc factæ monitionis, thesaurariorum manibus penitus commendarent communibus utilitatibus applicandum. Alioquin in excommunicationis extunc latæ sententiam inciderent ipso facto. De hoc autem quid dictus prior et ceteri fecerint, cum omni sollicitudine inquiratis. Preterea invenimus eundem priorem suspectum, ut videbatur, haberi de inhonesta procuratione electionis bonæ memoriæ domini Johannis episcopi immediate vos in officio præcedentis, in qua procuratione multa consumpsisse mobilia, et quædam alia dicitur alienasse perpetuo, non sine scrupulo symoniæ, de quibus etiam in nullo se rationabiliter excusavit. Sunt et alia minoris ponderis tam circa ipsum quam ceteros, quæ in alia de qua præmisimus cedula continentur, quorum vobis correctionem et reformationem sicut fidei et experto socio nostro tenore præsentium committimus cum coercionis canonicæ potestate. Præcipientes vobis nihilominus, et in virtute obedientiæ firmiter injun-

 R. f. 229. Roffensem ecclesiam auctoritate metropolitana visitantes,
 A. f. 168 b. invenimus in eadem quasdam consuetudines, vel potius corruptelas, quæ videbantur dampnatæ proprietatis et sacrilegii viciis aditum ministrare, sicut per quasdam querelas ibidem intelleximus quorundam Deum timen-tium, qui circa talium remedium nostrum consilium pariter et auxilium implorarunt. Nos autem com-municato consilio discretorum Deum habentes præ oculis, pietatis periculis in forma quæ sequitur perhenne remedium duximus apponendum, sacros canones et Beati Benedicti regulam imitantes. Statuimus igitur ut de consilio prioris et totius capituli tres eligantur discreti et probatæ conversationis monachi, qui et thesaurarii appellentur, sub tribus clavibus totam domus pecuriam servaturi, ad quorum manus tota ecclesiæ substantia mobilis, sive de maneriis, sive

de appropriatis ecclesiis, sive de eschactis, sive quibuscunque aliis obventionibus communibus deducantur; illis tantum exceptis quæ specialibus officiis ab antiquo, ut elemosinæ, vel coquinæ, vel sacristæ, sunt a donatoribus assignata. Et ab illis thesaurariis, tam prior quam sibi subditi ministri, necessaria accipiant de scitu prædictorum trium pro suis officiis et expensis. Monentes tam priorem qui pro tempore fuerit, quam universos sibi subjectos, et in virtute obedientiæ præcipientes eisdem, sub pœna excommunicationis, quam in hiis scriptis ferimus in contrarium facientes, ne quis eorum, prior scilicet vel quicumque sibi subjectus, per aliam formam audeat aliquid de bonis ecclesiæ contrectare. Priori autem qui pro tempore fuerit liberam administrationem bonorum ecclesiæ relinquimus, sicut retroactis habere temporibus consuevit; hiis exceptis quod sibi et officio suo necessaria de scitu accipiat prædictorum, et de expensis suis per se vel capellanum suum reddere teneatur, prædictis tribus adjunctis, etiam pro majoribus sumptibus aliis non suspectis capituli senioribus ad minus ter in anno et pluries si oporteat, rationem. Firmas igitur monachorum hactenus observatas, quibus solebant de appropriatis ecclesiis vel maneriis ecclesiæ quæ tenebant certas mensuras frugum vel denariorum vel quorumcunque aliorum bonorum per vices annuas cellario vel aliis officiis exhibere, residuis suis voluntatibus reservatis, imperpetuum sub pœna prædicta lati anathematis prohibemus. Ut autem omnia tractentur securius et serventur, volumus et ordinamus ut unus sit fidelis et idoneus sæcularis de prioris consilio et conventus, cui et aliquis probatus monachus adjungatur, qui duo conjunctim et non divisim superintendant bonis ecclesiæ universis, sollicite providentes qualiter eadem bona veniant integre ad thesaurum. Quia igitur formam istam credimus communibus utilitatibus¹ ecclesiæ convenire, juxta quod exemplariter didicimus in omnibus monasteriis bene dispositis, fraternitati vestræ committimus et mandamus, vobis nihilominus in virtute obedientiæ firmiter injungentes, quatenus totis viribus eam faciatis effectui demandari. Sunt et alia quæ nullatenus dimitti poterunt incorrecta. Intelleximus enim quod hospitalitatis gratia olim in ipsa domo, quando minus temporalibus affluebat, solebat omnibus habundare. Nunc autem et hominibus ibidem caritatis brachia sunt subtracta, et equis annona in magna annis singulis quantitate, quæ omnia præcipimus reparari, juxta quod bona fide sufficiunt ecclesiæ facultates, et nisi elemosina in talibus constituta ab antiquo infra mensem a data præsentium reparetur, cum continuatione perpetua extunc priorem, sacristam, camerarium, et ceteros omnes sacerdotes in officiis constitutos, in hiis scriptis suspendimus a divinis. Præterea est et aliud inconveniens quod non potest aliquantulum tolerari, quia videlicet populus civitatis parochialem non habet ecclesiam, nisi ipsam basilicam cathedralem, quæ clausis prioratus januis nocturno taliter continue obseratur tempore, quod nec ad ipsam ecclesiam patet accessus confugis, nec ægrotantibus viaticum, nec cetera ecclesiastica sacramenta, nec de die unquam dicitur cum nota populo matutinum, nec horæ etiam canonicæ in eadem, ut nobis fideliter est relatum. Unum ergo istorum oportet fieri necessario, vel quod infra septa¹ monasterii fiat ecclesia parochialis, quæ dudum fuerat inchoata, et fuit consequenter perniciose destructa, vel quod paretur omni tempore accessus ad majorem ecclesiam pro rationibus supradictis, et quod in eadem dicatur populo matutinum, cum ceteris horis canonicis, cum missa et solempnitate debita omni die. Cogatis etiam sacristam complere sufficiunt ecclesiæ facultates. Bene valet in Christo salutem et sinceram in Domino caritatem. Transevntes nuper per monasterium de Lesnes, vestræ dicecesis, et auctoritate metropolitana visitationis officium inibi exercentes, invenimus abbatem loci ejusdem super multiplici bonorum ecclesiæ læsione notatum. Super quo præsens per nos ad rationem positus, nobis re-spondendo minime satisfecit, unde in remedium dilapidationis seu læsionis bonorum hujusmodi taliter ibidem duximus ordinandum. Ut, videlicet, tres fratres de ipso collegio per conventum eligantur, ad quorum manus omnia bona monasterii interiora et exteriora, illis duntaxat exceptis, quæ ab antiquo sunt certis officiis assignata, deveniant. A quibus tam abbas quam ceteri officiales domus necessarias expensas reci-pant, et de expensis eisdem tribus canonicis rationem fidelem reddere teneantur. Inhibemus autem sub pena excommunicationis, quam ipso facto incurrere volumus, omnes ex certa scientia contrarium facientes, ne abbas seu quivis alius officialis, cui nihil certum est sicut præmisimus assignatum, alio modo quocunque bona ecclesiæ audeat ullatenus contrectare, ut sic omnia facta abbatis et aliorum officialium domus per dictos custodes deducantur in lucem, nihilque cedat in usus privatos, sed omnia in utilitatem communem ecclesiæ convertantur. Præterea invenimus quod canonici carnes esu ad camerulas quasdam et alia loca privata contra disciplinæ regularis observantiam se divertunt. Circa quod expediens esse credimus ut prædicti canonici tribus diebus in ebdomada carnes comedant in refectorio, sicut in plerisque locis ordinis ejusdem comperimus observatum. Interdicentes omnino ne de cetero totus conventus pro esu carniū a refectorio emittatur. Sed si contingat eos juxta consuetudinem domus in refectorio carnes minime comedere, et oporteat eos carnis edulio aliquotiens¹ recreari, præcipimus ut semper duæ partes conventus maneat in refectorio, et tertia pars tantummodo pro recreatione hujusmodi emittatur. Nec alio modo de cetero liceat ipsis canonicis carnes sumere, sive in camera abbatis sive ubicunque alibi infra domum. Ad hæc ne moniales amodo infra monasterii claustrum pernoctare sinantur, firmiter inhibemus. Abbatem autem ipsum in sua potestate permittimus ordinandi domus negotia, et alia excrendi quæ officio suo incumbunt, sed sine scitu et administratione dictorum trium canonicorum bona domus nullatenus contrectandi. Ipsi insuper custodes bonorum hujusmodi de administratione sua teneantur conventui respondere. Igitur fraternitati vestræ committimus, et districtè præcipiendo mandamus, quatenus præscripta omnia faciatis a prædictis abbate et conventu inviolabiliter observari, certificaturi nos super hoc cum a nobis fueritis requisiti. In cujus rei testimonium præsentem paginam sigilli nostri fecimus appensione muniri. Valet. Datum apud Mortelak', ix. kal. Novembris, anno Domini MCCLXXXIII., ordinationis nostræ quinto.

Nec ipsum latere volumus quod quantumcunque personam ejus sinceris affectibus prosequamur regioque libenter deferamus honori, nequaquam pati poterimus, cum non sit deferendum homini plus quam Deo, quin super hoc si opus extiterit aliud remedium apponamus. Volumus igitur et fraternitati tuæ per apostolica scripta in virtute obedientiæ districtæ præcipiendo mandamus, quatenus ad eundem regem te personaliter conferens, ipsum juxta datam tibi a Deo prudentiam ex parte nostra diligenter moneas et inducas, ut infra unius mensis spatium post monitionem tuam, prædictam pecuniam in locis eisdem juxta literarum ipsarum tenorem cum integritate restitui faciat seu reponi, aperte prædicens eidem quod, cum tantum et tam grave dictæ Terræ Sanctæ dispendium nolumus sicuti nec debemus aliquatenus sustinere, nisi hujusmodi monitioni parere curaverit, tam contra eum quam terram suam, prout qualitas facti

Primo, ut pecuniam decimæ suis jussionibus asportatam faceret integraliter infra mensem ad pristinæ loca custodiæ reportari, tantæ devotionis promptitudine quæ posset asportationis maculam expiare. Secundo, ut de cetero a talibus ausibus penitus abstineret; adjungens quod licet ipsum apostolica clementia in carissimorum filiorum numero complectatur, si tamen ipsum contingeret in talibus offensionibus de cetero inveniri, nec posse eam nec velle virgam ei correctionis subtrahere, ne parcendo homini divinis injuriis, quas non corrigeret, assentiret. Tertio, ne custodibus vel depositariis pecuniæ memoratæ aliquid hujus occasione molestiæ vel gravaminis irrogaret. Quibus silenter ac reverenter auditis, tandem cum suis deliberatione præhabita, ad sibi proposita sic respondit. Ad primum, inquiens quoniam non fuisset necessarium pro hac causa summum pontificem nobis suas literas destinasse, nec archiepiscopum ad regiam accessisse præsentiam, cum pæne duobus elapsis mensibus pecuniam prædictam jusserimus restitui cum effectu. Ad secundum, subjungens quod nihil indebitum intendebat de cetero contra ecclesiam attemptare. Ad tertium, "Miramur," asserens, "quare ad illos custodes jubemur specialiter "innocentiam custodire, cum nostri sit propositi immobilis conceptio, sicut et debitum regiæ dignitatis, "nullum lædere pro viribus innocentem." Demum juxta mandati vestri beneplacitum, pater sancte, feci fieri publica instrumenta, præcepta vestra reverenter et diligenter sicut potui in omnibus executus. Ad hæc noverit vestræ providentia sanctitatis quod licet communiter fidedignis testimoniis astruatur, quod prædicta pecunia sit juxta jussionem regiam suis custodiis restituta; hujus tamen præcisa veritas sciri non poterit, nisi per illos qui ipsius noverunt pondus, numerum et mensuram.  R. f. 229 b.

 A. f. 170 b.

Nuper nobis in ecclesia vestra visitationem metropolitica[m] exercentibus, quædam invenimus contra te, fili prior, proposita, non levi testimonio ut putamus, quæ si inventa penitus vera essent, omni honore ordinis tui redderent te indignum. Verum quia tu humiliter gratiæ nostræ statum tuum et personam penitus submitisti; nos amotionis tuæ ab officio distulimus sententiam, reservata nobis ejusdem sententiæ potestate, si aliquando in forma canonica nobis videbitur expedire, ut amoto te a prioratus officio alius subrogetur. Interim autem dum in officio steteris permissive, observare tibi præcipimus fideliter quæ sequuntur. Primo, ut omnem amoveas suspectam familiam, quam tibi in conventu expressimus nominatim, nec ipsos nec consimiles imposterum recepturus. Devites etiam omnium suspectarum muliercularum colloquia, non solum illarum de quarum familiaritate fuerunt contra te scandala suscitata, verum etiam omnium aliarum de quibus valeat contra te suspicio suboriri. Et quando-cunque inventus fueris suspectum cum quacunque muliere habere colloquium, suspectum inquam vel ratione personæ infamis vel ratione susurrii solitarii et singularis, vel cum inhonesto consortio, quod est idem, vel ratione loci et temporis, extunc te haberi volumus pro convicto et suspenso ab officio per præ-sentes, nisi tuam possis innocentiam certis indiciis coram episcopo vel ejus officiali in forma canonica indicare. Et si forsitan aliqua surreptione ab ipsis vel altero eorum favor tibi indebitus impendatur, volumus ut ad nos negotium deferatur. Præcipimus etiam tibi in virtute obedientiæ, ut de cetero a claustris non faciliter exeas, nisi pro negotiis quæ non possunt per alium vel alios expediri. Quando-cunque autem pro quacunque causa te exire contigerit, unum istorum quinque canonicorum vel plures indeclinabiliter ducas tecum, scilicet, fratrem Ricardum de Brikevile vel fratrem Willelmum de Bristoll', vel fratrem Alanum de Snaham, vel fratrem Willelmum Prisset, vel fratrem Thomam de Berton', a quibus nullo diverticulo separeris. Et quia tibi officium exterioris cellerarii jam a triennio occupasti, quod tibi imposterum firmiter inhibemus, præcipimus ut de receptis hoc triennio coram suppiore et senioribus capituli, infra quindenam a tempore receptionis præsentium, integre rationem reddere tenearis. Tibi etiam ad memoriam revocamus, quam districte tibi inhibuerimus sub poena excommunicationis majoris, quam volebamus et volumus te incurrere, si contrarium præsumeres attemptare, reservata nobis solis potestate ab hujusmodi sententia absolvendi, ne occasione visitationis nostræ graves per te vel per alium, vel gravari procures, vel etiam permittas quemquam canonicorum seu fratrem conversum ex certa deliberatione facto vel verbo vel solatium subtrahendo. Et hanc etiam sententiam ad canonicos extendimus in casu consimili universos. Et si forte instinctu diabolico te contigerit contrarium præsumere, alicui vel aliquibus ex prædicta causa gravamina inferendo, liberum sit gravato nobis ubicunque fuerimus nullis obstantibus inhibitionibus præjudicialibus suas molestias intimare. Præterea pro certo volumus te tenere quod ad ingressum arctioris religionis te credimus obligatum. Quæ autem sequuntur, tam per te quam per successores tuos perpetuo volumus observari. Primo ut prior qui pro tempore fuerit juxta infirmitates spirituales et corporales canonicorum omnium, studeat eos sine acceptione personarum recreationibus consolari, et punire etiam delinquentes, hoc observato quod prior pro gravioribus culpis de consilio superioris et tertii prioris et aliorum laudabilium seniorum puniat delinquentes. Negotia etiam ardua priusquam punctus expeditionis urgeat, in capitulo proponantur, ut fratres deliberare valeant super ipsis, priusquam diffinitive in negotio concludatur. Omnes etiam sæculares custodes maneriorum et interioribus officiis deputandi, sed et obedientiarii interiores et exteriores, præficiantur de consilio seniorum vel totius collegii: quia quod omnes tangit, debet ab omnibus approbari. Ad hoc provideatur infirmariæ serviens juratus, idoneus et securus, ne cogantur infirmi necessitates suas extraneis indicare. Prior etiam qui pro tempore fuerit, visitet infirmos assidue, et cum omni misericordia provideat necessitatibus singulorum, quod ei præcipimus firmiter et districte; et omni anno juxta statutum Oxoniensis consilii, suum mutare debet capellanum, quem maturum, discretum habeat et honestum, et boni testimonii inter fratres. Attendat etiam prior sollicite ut quodcumque periculum aliquod circa defectus fratrum vel statum collegii sibi fuerit relatu verisimili revelatum, statim illud emendare studeat de consilio discretorum, ne per moram periculum degeneret in scandalum manifestum. Mulieres autem coagulatrices, tam de ambitu monasterii quam cujuslibet manerii, penitus propellantur, et homines hujusmodi scientes officium subrogentur. Qui si sufficienter inveniri non valeant, liceat vetulas accipere, sed nullam quæ juxta Pauli sententiam annos non transierit sexaginta. Provideatur insuper de forinseco cellerario qui bona monasterii recipiat, ut retroactis temporibus facere consuevit. Provideatur nihilominus per priorem cum consilio totius capituli de duobus thesaurariis qui omnia bona monasterii recipiant, a prædicto cellerario, et omnibus qui habent bona ecclesiæ communia contrectare. Et prior quicquid expendit exterius vel interius de pecunia numerata a dictorum thesaurariorum recipiat manibus, non per se, qui non habet manus suas pecunia maculare, sed per capellanum, qui de omnibus receptis et expensis reddat ante exitum de intrinsecis, et post reditum de expensis externis integre rationem; inhibentes priori sub pœna excommunicationis majoris, quam ipsum incurrere volumus, si contrarium præsumpserit attemptare, ne quoquomodo per viam aliam pro se vel alio interius vel exterius pecunia ecclesiæ abutatur. Ipsi etiam thesaurarii et alii obedientiarii quater in anno circa quatuor quartarum anni principia reddant coram senioribus capituli perpetuo rationem, ita quod eisdem temporibus status monasterii innotescat. Finalis autem compotus tam de grangiis quam bonis aliis monasterii quibuscunque, reddatur in fine anni, et rotulus compoti in thesaurariorum scriniis reponatur. Præterea in absentia prioris, cellerarius et subcellerarius ac ceteri obedientiarii omnia faciant de consilio supprioris, et in ejus absentia de illius consilio cui ordinis gubernaculum interim est commissum. Nec aliquis eorum in absentia prioris de monasterio exeat sine licentia præsentis. Provideatur autem sacristæ et præcentori de necessariis p̄r priorem, juxta quod intentio fuisse dicitur fundatoris. Et sacrista in operibus circa ecclesiam necessariis, de consilio prioris et capituli procedere teneatur. Præterea præcipimus firmiter et districte, ut in diebus anniversariorum assignatorum pro suffragiis defunctorum, fiant pietantiæ secundum intentionem ipsorum qui ad hoc suas elemosinas assignarunt. Et quotienscunque prior vel qui ejus vicem tenuerit imposterum ipsam elemosinam in usus alios absque inevitabili necessitate convertere præsumpserit, totiens jejunare in pane et aqua per obedientiam teneatur, et donec taliter jejunaverit ipsum suspendimus a divinis. Hanc autem nostræ ordinationis literam, præcipimus sub thesaurariorum clavibus custodiri, et omni mense die prima, qua prior in capitulo præsens fuerit, coram ipso et ceteris professis omnibus recitari. Valet. Datum apud Byterne, vii. kal. Februarii, anno Domini MCCLXXXIII., ordinationis nostræ sexto.

1284. Frater J[ohannes], permissione divina Cantuariensis
 27 Jan. ecclesiæ minister humilis, totius Angliæ primas, dilectis Injunctions in Christo filiabus . . . abbatissæ et conventui de for Wher- Wellabelle, salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Virgi-wellabbey. nali poenitentia nulla est Deo gratior in hac vita, quæ
 R. f. 230 b. in sexu fragiliori eo laudabilior esse dinoscitur, quo
 A. f. 186. mirabilior est infirmitas, quæ semetipsam superans, cœlestis vitæ speciem imitatur. In quarum figuram Domino crucifixo mulieres leguntur ipsi lamentando viris absentibus firmiter inhæsisse. Quia etiam, ut inpræsentiarum cernimus, invenimus virgines Deo sacra-tas quam viros dulcius, sedulius, firmiter ut plurimum Sponsi cœlestis devotionis brachia extendere in amplexum; hujus igitur puritatis ac devotionis vestræ delicias, quasi paranimphi ipsius Domini Dei æmulatione ferventibus desideriis æmulantes, quasdam radices amaritudinis, quas inter vos nuper invenimus pullulasse, cupientes perpetuo extirpare, pauca quæ se-quuntur statuta edidimus de consilio discretorum, quæ vobis transmittimus sigilli nostri testificata munimine in obedientiæ meritum perpetuo observanda. Et sicut a materiali capite totius corporis connexio et regimen derivatur, sic in te, dilecta filia abbatissa, si juxta condecentiam status tui religiosa refulserit disciplina, to-tum venustabit tui corpus collegii, et in vitalis unitatis dulcedine confovebit. A te igitur informanda sumentes exordium, tuam industriam requirimus et hortamur sicut desideras abbatissæ præmium a cœlesti Judice reportare, ut matrem te exhibeas tui collegii, et omnium et singularum tibi regulariter subditarum, nullam tibi imaginans esse adversariam sed filiam, quam si ali-quando in malicia deprehendas, habes ipsius animum tua clementia mitigare, ut quanto est corde vel ore fragilior, tanto eam studeas instantius in melius refor-mare, sicut solet mater misericors infirmiores parvulos majori diligentia confovere. Omnes autem sine personarum acceptione consolari studeas, omnibus te amabilem præbeas, nihil in te appareat novercale, cavens cum omni diligentia ne unquam de parte tibi adjuncta valeas reprehendi, nec unquam aliqua societas pars abbatissæ valeat appellari. Præterea noverit abbatissa quæcunque se non esse dominam bonorum ecclesiæ, sed dispensatricis officio tantum fungi. Crucliter igitur et sacrilege operatur quandocunque conventu inopiam patiente, et juxta domus consuetudinem in pane, potu, vel pitancia necessaria non habente, ipsa nimis inverecunde in camera sua sibi facit lauta convivia præparari. Quod imperpetuum condemnantes, tibi, dilecta filia abbatissa, districte præcipimus et omnibus te in officio perpetuo secuturis, ut quandocunque conventus defectum patitur notabilem in præmissis, vel aliquo præmissorum,¹ tu ostensura maternæ compassionis viscera, omnibus diebus talibus in conventu comedere tenearis, et interim nulla mensa in camera tua pro domesticis vel extraneis erigatur, sed omnes hospites hujusmodi temporibus in aula extrinseca recreentur. Quod si infirmitas manifesta tali tempore ad communem dietam te faciat impotentem, durante infirmitate cum una socia vel duabus poteris in tua camera manducare, omnibus aliis tunc exclusis. Tempore vero quo sana fueris, et nulla conventum molestat inopia, facias et faciant aliæ in futurum in casu consimili quod condecet abbatissam. Et quandocunque non vacabit tibi completorio interesse, statim dicto completorio in conventu, monialis quæ choro præfuit, assumptis duabus secum de honestioribus dominabus, annunciet abbatissæ completorium esse dictum. Et extunc omnes in camera sua cesset potatio, et omnes exeant sæculares sive domestici sive hospites, etiam si religiosi fuerint, et statim dicat completorium abbatissa, ut valeat cum conventu nocturnis vigiliis interesse, dum tamen infirmitate corporis non fuerit impedita. Et quia secundum regulam majora negotia habent de conventus consilio gubernari, statuimus ut de cetero nullus fiat bonorum ecclesiæ senescallus nisi de consilio et assensu conventus, vel saltem majoris et sanioris partis, si forte non omnes in unum velint aut valeant consentire. Minores autem ballivi vel ministri ecclesiæ de seniorum recipiantur consilio dominarum, quas ad minus volumus vocari duodecim, quæ tam de vita, conscientia ac zelo puritatis, sed et industria habeant laudabile testimonium in conventu. Et quia hæc est forma regulæ, districte præcipimus ut nunquam audeat abbatissa quæcunque imposterum in forma alia de re notabili ordinare. Et dicimus rem notabilem, provisionem de bajulis maneriorum, et obedientiis interioribus punitionem delinquentium, alienationem quamcunque bonorum in donis vel exenniis, vel modis aliis quibuscunque, emissionem etiam monialium et associationem exeuntium, attemptationem litium et negotiorum ecclesiæ quorumcunque. Vos autem omnes hortamur in Domino servare sollicite silentii disciplinam. Et ut omnis suspicio sustollatur imposterum, ordinamus ut quæcunque monialis cum quocunque homine locutura, præter casum confessionis, secum semper habeat duas socias colloquium audituras, ut vel ædificentur verbis utilibus si tractentur, vel verba mala impediunt, ne corrumpant mala eloquia bonos mores. Ut autem claustrum vestri tranquillitas melius solito imposterum observetur, præcipimus sub pœna suspensionis ab ingressu ecclesiæ, quam ferimus in contrarium facientes, postquam hæc nostra ordinatio fuerit publicata, ne quis sæcularis vel religiosus ingredi permittatur claustrum, vel interiores officinas, nisi pro manifesta et inevitabili causa, ut est infirmitas corporalis, pro qua intrare liceat confessori, vel medico vel propinquo, sed semper cum securo et laudabili comitiva. Ita tamen quod in claustro vel capitulo vel interioribus officinis, nullus monialis vel mulieris sanæ confessionem audiat sub pœna superius annotata. Sanam autem dicimus omnem illam quæ potest commode sine vitæ periculo ecclesiam vel locutorium introire. Confessiones autem audiantur regulariter, non in diverticulo aliquo vel loco abscondito, sed patulo et omnibus exposito, ubi liber sit omnium transitus et aspectus. Nec aliquo casu liceat alicui homini post solis occasum, nisi evidens vitæ periculum sit in causa, adhibitis societate loco et tempore opportunis, nec ante finitum capitulum in mane, claustrum ambitum introire. Nec sæculari homini vel religioso liceat in camera alicujus monialis comedere vel bibere, sub pœna excommunicationis majoris, quam ferimus in scienter contrarium facientes. Ad omnium insuper notitiam volumus pervenire, quod nos dudum de consilio suffraganeorum nostrorum excommunicavimus, statuto de hoc edito, omnes monialium corruptores, reservata solis diocesanis locorum talium potestate hujusmodi incestuosos et sacrilegos absolvendi. Sed quia vos irreprehensibiles manere volumus re et fama, omnes utriusque sexus personas suspectas, quas vobis nuper in capitulo nominavimus, juxta quod nobis in visitationis scrutinio fuerat intimatum, præcipimus indilate a vestris liminibus amoveri, et imposterum nulla mulier vobiscum morari sinatur nisi de licentia vestri episcopi speciali, illis tantum exceptis, qui derelicto sæculo vobiscum proponunt perpetuo remanere. Induendæ autem virgines et velandæ, ante completum quinquennium nullatenus admittantur, nec puer masculus permittatur cum monialibus educari. Superflua autem et inutilis ac suspecta familia per . . . officialem, cui in hoc committimus vices nostras, penitus expellatur. Et quandoque præsens ordinatio nostra in toto vel in parte aliqua fuerit violata, nisi episcopus interpellatus, vel ejus officialis, sufficiens remedium apposuerit indilate, liceat cuicumque de collegio vestro, nulla obstante inhibitione contraria, illud nobis ubicunque fuerimus literis intimare. Iterum ob Dei reverentiam et ecclesiae honestatem perpetuo inhibemus ne mercatores sedere in ecclesia cum suis mercibus permittantur. Hanc autem ordinationem nostram, quam volumus in priorissae et suppriorissae quae pro tempore fuerint custodia remanere, praecipimus, omni mense in prima ejus ebdomada primo capitulo recitari. Praeterea nulla litera sigillo communi signetur nisi in capitulo, et hoc de totius conventus vel majoris partis consilio et assensu, et prius examinata per aliquos fideles juratos ecclesiae et prudentes. Et si quis inveniatur serviens masculus aut femina, qui amaris responsionibus consueverit monialem aliquam vel aliquas molestare, nisi se monitione praemissa sufficienter corrigat in futurum, illico expellatur. Cetera insuper hic non scripta, quae in capitulo expressimus et in hac scriptura scienter praetermittimus, volumus in suo robore permanere. Et in horum omnium testimonium sigillum nostrum appendi jussimus tenore praesentium literarum. Valet semper in Christo et Virgine gloriosa. Datum apud Tichefeud', sexto kal. Februarii, anno Domini MCC. octogesimo tertio, ordinationis nostrae sexto.

cramentum corporale de fideli inventario faciendo et administratione etiam fideli, cum ratiocinio consequente, nunquam scivimus, donec hoc nobis extitit per vestras literas intimatum. Per magistrum etiam H. le Affeyte et Henricum de Elham intelleximus firmiter, multis audientibus, quod vos nunquam intendebatis per vos ipsos aliquid facere circa dispensationem testamenti sæpius memorati. Nos autem hoc intellecto et verbis eorum fidem plenariam adhibentes, audivimus a magistro H. quod non intendebat se cum prædicto H. de Elham executionis officio immiscere, pro eo quod prædicti Henrici coexecutoris vestri se fidei committere non audebat. Intellecto igitur per eosdem vos executionem testamenti prædicti, quantum ad personæ nostræ sollicitudinem, penitus rejecisse, et ignorantes omnino vos ipsi negotio nostram sollicitudinem miscuisse, nullo modo vos aliter absolvimus nisi quod de vestra in hac parte administratione penitus desperantes, cogitavimus quod potuimus sine juris injuria bonis periclitantibus remedium adhibere. Demum in præsentia dictorum H. procuratoris vestri et H. de Elham de ipsorum consilio et assensu, et juxta etiam æstimationem fructuum terræ nascentium, per eosdem in medio propositam, venditæ fuerunt fruges electo Roffensi, quæ jam albescentes excussionis dispendium minabantur, nisi festinum falcis remedium advenisset. De quorum fructuum pretio allocatis illis quæ juxta consuetudinem ecclesiæ successuro episcopo debebantur, cc. libræ sterlingorum defuncto episcopo debitæ in superstitis ærario remanserunt, vestris paratæ manibus, cum pro executionis officio eas duxeritis requirendas. Tandem ingeminatis assertionibus intellecto per prædictos H. et H., ut testibus omni exceptione majoribus, poterimus declarare, quod vos nolebatis vos aliter negotio immiscere. Intellecto insuper quod magister Henricus horrebat communionem H[enrici] alterius, ut suspectam, alterum sibi adjunximus vice nostra . . .

rectorem scilicet ecclesiæ de Suthfelete, virum coram Deo et hominibus approbatum. Et de hoc literas nostras patentes dedimus dicto magistro H., ut ipse scilicet cum prædicto rectore executionis intenderet pietati, reliquo H. de Elham satis ut videbatur contento, dimissa implicatione testamenti ad propria remeare. Prædicto igitur magistro H. cum suis et sui collegæ literis recedente, cum per plures ebdomadas eum putassemus agere bona fide, tandem invenimus quod ipse nec collegæ suo literas nostras ostenderat, nec negotio aliquo intenderat, sed nostram et defuncti pariter fiduciam deluserat, . . . Dunolmensis electi vocatione ut dicitur excitatus. Hæc est facti veritas, carissime, quantum meminisse possumus coram Deo. Quia igitur vos nunquam absolvimus ab hoc officio sicut nec potuimus justicia inoffensa, quod insuper administrare cepistis et per vos ipsos parati fuistis exequi, cujus nobis alii non veridici contrarium affirmarunt; vestram exoramus in Domino caritatem quatenus velit per aliquem procuratorem idoneum vel procuratores idoneos circa executionem prædictam perficere quod cepistis, caventes ne alicui executori bonæ memoriæ domini W. de Mertone hujusmodi procuratorium delegetis, quia ipsos in majori parte inter Sampsonis vulpeculas esse credimus computandos. Et nos faciemus vobis tam de prædictis cc. libris quam ceteris bonis armentariis et quibuscunque residuis plenarie responderi. Attendentes, si placet, quod potuistis a principio re integra officium respicere quod modo non potestis aliquatenus inchoatum. Nec est aliquis in regno Angliæ qui hoc facere valeat ita bene. Et nos officii nostri debito vobis et vestris procuratoribus parati sumus assistere pro viribus, ut valemus. Mittatis autem procuratoribus vestris factum inventarium per¹ quos ad hoc duxeritis assignandos, facta nobis prius inde copia et etiam testamenti, quia aliter, ut scitis, nulli licet in testamento hujusmodi ministrare. Quid super hiis facere decreveritis, nobis per literas vestras patentes rescribatis per præsentium portitorem. Et amore Domini Jesu Christi vos non exhibeatis difficilem in hac parte. Valet. Datum apud Slyndon', ii. kal. Febr.

ROMSEY ABBEY.

Injunctions appointing coadjutors for the abbes. Frater J[ohannes], permissione divina, Cantuariensis ecclesiæ minister humilis, totius Angliæ primas, dilectis in Christo filiabus . . . abbatissæ et conventui de Romeseyhe, salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Nuper apud vos metropoliticæ visitationis officium exercentes, invenimus inter vos quandam cordium inquietudinem, quæ ex defectibus tuis suscitata communiter dicebatur, dilecta filia abbatissa. Nos tamen personæ tuæ quantum secundum Deum possumus deferre volentes, in dissensionis remedium quæ sequuntur statuimus de consilio discretorum, quæ firmiter præcipimus observari. In primis nosse volumus tuam prudentiam, te non esse dominam bonorum communium, sed tantummodo dispensatricem et matrem tui collegii, juxta quod sonat interpretatio nominis abbatissæ. Volumus igitur ut dimissa de cetero omni amaritudine novercali, studeas filiarum tuarum in te corda attrahere, defectus earum materno more castigans, nullam tibi imaginans inimicam, et religionis omnimodæ in jejuniis et vigiliis te religionis speculum eis præbens, et ut magistram sequaris regulam ut teneris. Tibi districte præcipimus ut omnia majora domus negotia tractare studeas cum conventu. Majora autem negotia omnia illa dicimus, ex quibus posset notabile dispendium in temporalibus vel spiritualibus imminere, inter quæ provisionem de senescallo volumus contineri; præcipientes pro pace collegii, ut H. de Chalfhunte, quem tu contra voluntatem conventus diu in senescalli officio tenuisti, nec de prædicto nec de alio monasterii bajulatu se de cetero aliquatenus intromittat. Idem etiam de Johanne le Prikiere districte præcipimus et mandamus. Sed uterque eorum, reddita sui officii ratione coram magistro Philippo officiali, cui in hoc committimus vices nostras, sibi alibi prospiciat remansuro. Præterea omnia minora ecclesiæ negotia tractes juxta regulam cum duodecim ad minus senioribus dominabus. Et quia multum usa fuisse diceris motu propriæ voluntatis, tibi tres coadjutrices adjungimus laudabilis testimonii, dominas scilicet Margeriam de Verdun, Philippam de Stokes, Johannam de Rovedoune, sine quarum consilio et assensu nihil ad regimen conventus in temporalibus vel spiritualibus pertinens, audeas attemptare. Et quodcumque in re notabili scienter contrarium feceris, extunc ab administrationis officio noveris te suspensam. Et dicimus rem notabilem, provisionem de bajulis maneriorum, et obedientiis interiõribus, punitionem delinquentium, alienationem quamcunque bonorum in donis vel exenniis, vel modis aliis quibuscunque, emissionem etiam monialium et associationem exeuntium, attemptationem litium, et negotiorum ecclesiæ quorumcunque. Et si aliquam prædictarum trium infirmari contigerit vel abesse, loco illarum accipias vel dominam Leticiam de Montgomery vel dominam Johannam Flemeng vel dominam Agnetem de Lidyard, vocatis in tractatibus aliis juxta numerum prænotatum. Quodcumque autem te pro negotiis ecclesiæ exire contigerit, semper prædictas tres dominas quas tibi coadjutrices in regimine monasterii tam intus quam extra adjunximus, ducas tecum. Et si aliquando causa solatii exiveris, tecum habeas semper duas. Ita tamen quod sine tribus de expediendis negotiis te nullatenus intromittas. Et quia temporibus retroactis conventus totus propter inconsiderationem tuam maximam dicitur inopiam pertulisse, te in camera tua splendide convivante, præcipimus ut quandocunque deerit conventui panis vel potus, vel pitancia necessaria, tu sicut mater condolens filiabus, comedas in conventu, et nulli diebus talibus liceat in tua camera manducare; sed omnes hospites cujuscunque conditionis existant, sæculares scilicet vel religiosi, in aula communi comedant, et non intra. Aliis etiam temporibus quantum tua patitur fragilitas, sequaris collegium, præcipue in matutinis et capitulo, quæ habes de singulis animabus, prout tuo competit officio, in tremendo judicio respondere. Caveas ergo ne ipsas tuis moribus scandalizes. Camera vero tua tanta polleat honestate, ut nulla eam frequentet persona suspecta. Non sit ibi simia, non canum numerositas, nec ultra duas ancillas teneas sæculares. Roberto autem Waleraund, propter flagitiorum suorum enormitatem notoriam quæ commisit, inhibemus sub pœna excommunicationis majoris, quam in ipsum ferimus in hiis scriptis, si contrarium præsumpserit attemptare, ne unquam de cetero septa monasterii vel in ecclesiam vel in domum vel extra domum infra monasterii januas audeat introire. Et si contrarium fecerit diabolo instigante, dum ibi fuerit, inhibemus ne vel campana pulsetur vel celebretur missa, vel cum cantu horarum officium peragatur. Sub eadem etiam excommunicationis pœna, inhibemus eidem ne scienter aliquod introeat ecclesiæ manerium vel locum alium, in quo aliqua ipsius monasterii fuerit monialis. Volentes ad ejus et omnium sacrilegorum notitiam pervenire quod nos de consilio et assensu suffraganeorum nostrorum excommunicavimus in statuto de hoc edito omnes monialium corruptores, reservata solis diocesanis potestate hujusmodi sacrilegos absolvendi. Vobis autem præcipimus omnibus ipsius collegii filiabus, ut vestram vereamini plus solito abbatissam; a murmurationibus et detractionibus taliter abstinentes, ut mater vestra quæ pro omnibus est sollicita non gravetur. Vobis insuper abbatissæ et toti conventui districtè præcipimus sub pœna excommunicationis majoris, quam incurrere volumus ex certa deliberatione contrarium facientes, ne aliqua inquirat de persona se vel aliam accusantis, et ne aliqua de hujusmodi requisita, vel non requisita, de accusatione facta in visitatione nostra metropolitana se excuset, et ne si forsitan accusantis persona casu innotescat, vel suspitione aliqua cogitetur, malum aliquod ei verbi vel facti quomodolibet inferatur vel inferri per alium vel aliam procuretur. Absolutionem autem ab hac sententia, in quam incident in hoc casu triplici contrarium facientes, nobis et nostro ad hoc specialiter deputando commissario tenore præsentium reservamus. Si vero, quod absit, contingat hanc nostram ordinationem in toto vel in parte minime observari, liceat prædictis coadjutricibus vel aliis de conventu propter hoc ad officialem Wintoniensem, quem executorem præmissorum vice nostra constituimus, vel ipsi episcopo, specialem nuncium vel literas destinare. Quod si in executione facienda circa præscriptorum observantiam negligentes fuerint aut remissi, ad nos extunc negotium perducatur. Istius autem literæ custodiam tribus prædictis coadjutricibus committimus, ut eam faciant omni mense semel in capitulo recitari.

Frater [Johannes], permissione divina Cantuariensis ecclesiæ minister humilis, totius Angliæ primas, dilectis in Christo filiabus abbatissæ et conventui de Romseyhe, salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. cludere munimine disciplinæ, ne serpenti pateat in ipsum introitus, vel alicui seminario corruptelæ, quo sponsi deliciæ ad displicentiam vel minorem complacentiam deducantur. Hoc lilium esse credimus virginalis munditiæ totum cœleste et angelicum ornamentum, quod occasione quorundam in visitatione nostra metropolitana nuper in forma canonica repertorum, volumus in perpetuum concludere, compendioso munimine statutorum. In primis igitur ordinamus, ut abbatissa quæ pro tempore fuerit, honestam sibi eligat comitivam, et mutet socias omni anno, ita quod multis testimoniis suæ honestatis veritas innotescat, et semper memoriter teneat se matrem esse collegii, et non minus teneri omnibus et singulis consolandis, quam sæcularis mater tenetur carnalibus filiabus. Semper igitur sit sollicita sine acceptione personarum omnium in se affectus sinceros attrahere, et sic se communiter salva honestate omnibus exhibere, ut nullo modo notabilis sit de parte. Recogitet insuper sedule se non esse bonorum communium dominam, sed dispensatricis officio tantum fungi. Absit igitur a qualibet abbatissa laute vivere, et tunc præcipue quando conventus inopia prægravatur. Quotiescunque enim conventum contigerit pane vel potu, vel pitancia necessaria indigere, ostendat se abbatissa sicut matrem filiabus veraciter condolere; et omnibus diebus talibus, nisi evidentis forsitan causa morbi, abbatissa comedat in conventu, et mensa cameræ suæ hujusmodi temporibus totaliter sit suspensa. Hospites autem, si qui fuerint, in aula communi diebus hujusmodi recreentur. Nec faciat abbatissa senescallum vel ballivos alios seu interiores obedientiaras sine consilio capituli, vel secundum formam regulæ dominarum in suis casibus seniorum, in omnibus negotiis et agendis juxta regulæ magisterium, non proprio sensu, non impetu, sed prudenti communicato consilio processura. Et quancumque non vacabit abbatissæ completorio interesse, statim dicto completorio in conventu monialis quæ choro præfuit assumptis duabus secum de honestioribus dominabus, annunciet abbatissæ completorium esse dictum et extunc omnis in camera sua cesset potatio et omnes exeant sæculares sive domestici, sive hospites, etiam si religiosi fuerint, et statim dicat completorium abbatissa, ut valeat cum conventu nocturnis vigiliis interesse, dum tamen infirmitate corporis non fuit impedita. Et in camera sua ultra duas ancillas non habeat sæculares. Moniales quotienscunque sanæ fuerint, nusquam comedant nisi in refectorio, vel camera abbatissæ. Inhibemus insuper ne aliquis masculus intret cameras monialium, excepto casu infirmitatis, si contingat aliquam in camera infirmari. Ad quam nulli liceat accedere nisi vel confessori vel medico vel carnaliter propinquo, et hoc cum tali et tam honesta comitiva, de qua nec malum nec mali suspicio valeat exoriri. Omnibus vero aliis et istis etiam in forma alia ipsarum camerarum inhibemus ingressum sub poena excommunicationis majoris, quam ferimus in omnes ex certa scientia hujus nostræ ordinationis voluntarios transgressores. Ad omnium etiam notitiam volumus pervenire, quod nos dudum de consilio suffraganeorum nostrorum excommunicavimus statuto de hoc edito, omnes monialium corruptores, reservata solis dicecesanis locorum talium potestate hujusmodi incestuosos et sacrilegos absolvendi. Ut autem claustrum tranquillitas melius observetur, ordinamus ut semper sint quatuor scrutatrices, quæ tanquam suspectas expellant a claustrum ambitu omnes cujuscunque conditionis existant, volentes ibi moniales curiose respicere, vel cum eisdem garrulas attemptare. Et si quis monitus ab aliqua quatuor prædictarum vel alia quacunque collegii non illico recesserit, ipsum ab ingressu ecclesiæ suspendimus per præsentem. Si quæ vero monialis in claustrum cum quocunque homine silentium fregerit, in primo sequenti prandio præcipimus ut ei pitancia subtrahatur. Nec alicui moniali liceat colloquia cum quocunque homine protelare, nisi vel in locutorio vel in latere ecclesiæ versus claustrum. Et ut omnis suspicio sustollatur imposterum, ordinamus ut quæcunque monialis cum quocunque homine locutura præter casum confessionis, secum habeat duas socias colloquium auditura ut vel ædificentur verbis utilibus si tractentur, vel verba mala impediunt ne corrumpant mala eloquia bonos mores. Si quæ autem monialis videatur frequenter cum aliquo homine colloquia copulare, in quo exempla non refulgeant sanctitatis, tanquam suspecta merito reprimatur, et hujusmodi collocutor confusibiliter a finibus monasterii propellatur. Confessiones etiam audiantur in ecclesia vel ante majus altare, vel in ejusdem latere versus claustrum. Ad hæc nulla monialis exire permittatur nisi cum secura et matura per omnia comitiva, nec aliqua morari alicubi ultra triduum cum sæcularibus hominibus permittatur. Superstitionem vero quæ in Natali Domini et Ascensione Ejusdem fieri consuevit, perpetuo condemnamus, nec aliqua mulier de cetero perhendinare intra septa monasterii sinatur absque dicecesani licentia speciali, illis dumtaxat exceptis quæ intendunt derelicto sæculo Domino perhenniter famulari. Unde nolumus ut ibi remaneat aliqua mulier conjugata. Præterea intelleximus quod tam abbatissa quam ceteræ nonnullæ, cum exeunt spatiatum, redeuntes intrant domos in villa laicorum et etiam clericorum, comedentes et bibentes etiam cum eisdem. Et quia talem cibum vel potum nec necessitas præcipit, cum vestrum monasterium sit in promptu, nec honestas patitur, cum per talia posset via criminibus aperiri, præcipimus vobis ne eundo vel redeundo domum aliquam in villa de Romeseia ingredi præsumatis, nec comedere nec bibere in eisdem. Et quæcunque contrarium fecerit, eam per annum ab ingressu monasterii suspendimus per præsentem. Inhibentes etiam sub poena suspensionis ab ingressu ecclesiæ, quam in hiis scriptis ferimus in contrarium facientes, ne aliquis clericus vel laicus vel mulier quæcunque villæ prædictæ alicui moniali cibum vel potum tribuat extra septa monasterii supradicti. Hæc pauca, dilectæ filiæ, si volueritis pro bono obedientiæ et ob Dei reverentiam conservare, servabunt vobis famam et conscientiam illibatas, quod vobis concedat gratia Salvatoris. Valete. Datum.

DIX.

TO ROB. BURNELL BISHOP OF BATH.

Venerabili in Christo fratri, domino R. Dei gratia Bathoniensi et Wellensi episcopo, frater J[ohannes] etc. De vestra benevolentia, quam circa nos continue experimur, plene confisi, ad vos semper in nostris necessitatibus recurrimus auxilii vestri solatium petitori. Cum itaque, sicut nostis, teneremur nuper domino regi in mille marcis sterlingorum et jam de quingentis marcis sit satisfactum eidem, sicut magister W. de Luda plene novit, quoniam mercatores Lucani pecuniam receperunt, sitque nobis terminus Paschæ proximo venturi ad satisfaciendum de residuis quingentis marcis per dominum regem assignatus, caritatem vestram attentis precibus exoramus quatenus, cum nullo modo sine gravi incommodo nostro et inutili distractione bonorum nostrorum possemus ante festum Omnium Sanctorum proximum de pecunia residua prædicta satisfacere ad plenum, velitis nobis usque festum prædictum Omnium Sanctorum pro solutione hujusmodi inducias procurare. Tunc enim speramus firmiter posse satisfacere, ad quod ante non sufficimus, præcipue si debeamus interim Walliam visitare, quod firmiter opinamur. R. f. 232 b.
A. f. 172 b.

Frater J[ohannes], permissione divina Cantuariensis ecclesiæ minister humilis, totius Angliæ primas, dilectis filiis priori et conventui de Suwyk', salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Nuper ecclesiam vestram jure metropolitanico visitantes, invenimus eam in spiritualibus turbatam et in temporalibus plurimum desolatam, cujus desolationis occasionem non modicam Andream quondam priorem vestrum comperimus præstitisse. Nos igitur, tranquillitati vestræ et saluti suæ providere solliciti cupientes, præsentibus ordinamus ut ipse a camera illa, quam suspectis latibulis circumdedit, perpetuo sit exclusus, et tam ipsam cameram quam aulam sibi conjunctam, priori qui pro tempore fuerit pro camera perhenniter assignamus. Volentes ut idem Andreas de cetero jaceat in dormitorio et comedat in refectorio sicut alius canonicus, speciale diverticulum pro mensa sua nunquam de cetero habiturus; cum quo si juxta quod meruit ageretur, subjiciendus esset rigidiori proculdubio disciplinæ, cujus nobis reservavimus in vestro capitulo potestatem et præsentibus reservamus, si ordinationi nostræ fuerit inobediens in futurum, sicut ipsum prius comperimus extitisse, utpote qui libertatem sibi concessam totam converterat in fomentum sue carnis, diabolo instigante. Ut igitur carnis suae infectio et similia cautius excludatur, ordinamus ut in tribus tantum locis, scilicet refectorio, camera prioris et in infirmitorio, liceat vobis et cuilibet vestrum dum domi estis, cibum sumere corporalem. Et quotiens dictus Andreas alibi comedere praesumpserit, totiens cum suspendimus ab ingressu ecclesiae, donec pro refectioe qualibet hujusmodi diebus totidem jejunaverit in pane et aqua, nulla eidem alicujus inferioris nostri licentia in contrarium valitura. Portam autem suspectam quam idem Andreas fieri dicitur procurasse, quae quidem ducit ab horto conjuncto camerae memoratae ad exteriorem curiam, praecipimus calce et lapidibus obstrui, sicut in capitulo mandavimus et mandamus. Quod si neglectum fuerit hactenus, vobis, prior et supprior, ingressum ecclesiae interdiximus, et esum carniū et piscium omnium donec ipsa porta in praedicta forma fuerit obserrata. Assignationem autem factam dicto Andreae in esculentis et poculentis et pecunia numerata, quam ipse convertit nepharie in abusum, totaliter revocamus. Praecipimus autem eidem Andreae in capitulo existentes, sub poena excommunicationis majoris, quam in ipsum tulimus, si nobis inobediens remaneret, quatenus infra triduum quod ei pro trina monitione assignavimus, omnia restitueret sine fraude priori et conventui, quaecumque habebat in deposito interius vel exterius sub cujuscunque custodia reservata, quam sententiam praesentibus confirmamus. Item, sub eadem poena praecipimus eidem ne occasione accusationis suae factae in capitulo, seu arctationis suae per nos factae, malum aliquod vel gravamen fieri procuraret vel sponte fieri permetteret conventui vel personae ipsius collegii cuicunque: quam sententiam etiam praesentibus confirmamus. Item, praecipimus eidem Andreae sub poena superius annotata, ut omni industria qua poterit, absque fraude nitatur extrahere a manibus

Walteri de Valle literam obligatoriam conventus quam ei seductorie fieri procuravit, de annonæ immoderantia, quam idem Walterus præsens et absens recipit omni die. Et ipsam sententiam præsentibus confirmamus, et eandem extendimus ad omnes suæ fraudis complices in hac parte. Item, sub pœna carceris eidem præcepimus ne exiret a claustris lateribus et interioribus officinis, donec complete computum reddidisset, coram nostris in capitulo assignatis, quod ei præcepimus alias jure dicecesano, Wyntoniensem dicecesem visitantes, quod ipse neglexit penitus sicut inobediens, donec ipsum visitatione metropolitana deprehendimus malignari. Et quia contra ordinationem nostram communitatem conventus certis temporibus sequi contempsit, præcipimus ut quodcumque sine causa legitima et absque prioris licentia speciali, qui eam concedendi non nisi ex causa canonica habeat potestatem, de matutino conventus defuerit, sedeat in refectorio novissimus in ordine et dimidia pitancia sit contentus. A domo autem nunquam exeat sine prioris licentia speciali, sine etiam comitiva honesta et secura, quæ nullo modo credatur sibi favorem noxium præstitura. Et si vel ipse Andreas vel aliquis propter ipsum seditionem aut turbationem suscitaverit in conventu, per episcopum vel officialem ejus ejiciatur de ecclesia indilate, simpliciter vel ad tempus. Et si ipsi in hoc exequendo extiterint negligentes, liceat cuicumque canonico nulla obstante inhibitione contraria, id nobis sine moræ dispendio literis intimare. Et si prædictus Andreas vel tempore præfixo computum non reddiderit, dum tamen nostri præsentibus fuerint assignati, vel si inventus fuerit defraudator, carceri mancipetur in eodem per annum integrum remansurus; reservata nobis nihilominus, ut supra tetigimus, potestate, si nostris jussionibus fuerit inobediens, ipsum arbitrarie pro loco et tempore puniendi. Præterea invenimus vos pæne omnes et singulos multum deficere et excedere in silentii disciplina. In cujus remedium statuimus, ut qui in choro specialiter vel in claustro silentium fregerit notabiliter, proclametur in capitulo et ei pro prima vice in refectioe prima pitancia subtrahatur. In secunda, potus quilibet præter aquam, in tertia simul ambo. Et dicimus fractionem notabilem, quando aliquis contra leges silentii loquitur ad spatium De Profundis vel breviores multiplicat fractiones. Prior autem et superior soli habeant licentiam absolvendi ab omni specie incontinentiæ, si, quod absit, alicui vestrum evenerit aliquid hujusmodi, diabolo instigante; et etiam a proprietatis scelere et conspirationis contra canonicum aliquem vel prælatum. Valet. Datum apud Slyn-done, ii. non. Februarii, anno Domini MCCLXXXIII, ordinationis nostræ sexto. De duobus autem conversis quos deliquisse comperimus, quod in capitulo ordinavimus immobiliter observetur.

Frater J[ohannes], etc., dilecto filio magistro Gilberto, officiali nostro Cantuariensi, salutem, gratiam, et benedictionem. Ex utriusque pagina testamenti, quorum regulæ omnibus aliis sicut sol sideribus præponuntur, patet lucide quod pastores ovium Christi tenentur eis in spiritualibus et temporalibus providere, juxta quod sufficiunt dispensationi eorum creditæ facultates. Greges enim, ut ait Ezechiel, cælestis gloriæ contemplator, a pastoribus debent pasci, et Salvator ipse trinæ passionis misterium Petro in persona ecclesiæ commendavit, et prædicator egregius Doctor gentium thesaurizare debere parentes filiis docuit ex decreto. Nos igitur, ex parte una extremæ necessitatis inopiam in populo contemplantès, nec minorem in pastoribus nominalibus considerantes, in considerationem omnimodam et neglectum damnabilem eorundem, qui vere quæ sua sunt, et non quæ Jesu Christi quærere dinoscuntur, cupientes ut possumus ipsorum negligentiae damnabili stimulos euuangelicos apponere ut tenemur, discretioni vestræ districte injungimus, vos in tremendo judicio coram Christi facie appellantes, si in hac parte negligentes fueritis aut remissi, quatenus omnes rectores et vicarios nostræ jurisdictionis vestris litteris compellatis subditis suis in hujusmodi exitialis¹ famis tempore, juxta suarum sufficientiam facultatum, providere juxta quod tam euuangelicæ quam eis subalternatæ regulæ canonicæ diffiniunt evidenter, cujus vobis cohercionis plenam tenore præsentium concedimus facultatem. Frater J[ohannes], permissione divina Cantuariensis ecclesiæ minister humilis, totius Angliæ primas, venerabili fratri domino R[icardo], Dei gratia episcopo Londoniensi, salutem et sinceram in Domino caritatem. Licet generaliter sit gloria innocentiae Christianæ sicut nulli malum pro malo rependere, sic nec protervienti in talione amaritudinis respondere; vendicat tamen sibi hoc præcellenter proprium professio prælatorum qui ex superhumeralis sibi incumbentibus misteriis, sciunt se subditorum suorum imbecillitates omnium teneri, verbo et exemplo ad æquitatis tramitem pro viribus revocare. Proinde, frater carissime, licet inspecta vestra minaci et præjudiciali pagina noster paulisper stupuerit animus, a gratitudine vestra talia stipendia non expectans, tamen remansit nobis ut credimus ad vos illibata affectio caritatis non obstante quod paulo ante nullis præmissis reverentiæ aut sinceri amoris indiciis, nos fecistis ad tribunal regium evocari. Sane duo per nos vobis fuisse illata gravamina causamini. Primo, quia Henricum de Stokes super pluralitate beneficiorum ad nostrum examen fecimus evocari. Secundo, quia ipsum per decanum de Arcubus citari fecimus, adjunctes quod subditus suffraganei metropolitano non subest, nisi in certis casibus definitis, quasi velitis jura Cantuariensis ecclesiæ, quæ tueri et defensare jurastis, ad simplicis metropolitani limites coarctare. Ad quod licet sine reatu perjurii conari minime valeatis, speramus tamen in Dei adjutorio et sanctorum Cantuariensis ecclesiæ meritis confidentes, quod nunquam ad hoc quocunque molimine pertinetis, quantumcunque stipati illorum auxiliis qui aliquotiens conveniunt adversus Dominum et pauperem Christum Ejus. Demum, frater carissime, sicut fatemini subesse suffraganeorum subditos metropolitani judicio in certis casibus, sic velitis ad memoriam revocare antiquam et approbatam consuetudinem illis casibus non excludi. Placeat ergo vobis ob Dei reverentiam et ecclesiæ matris vestræ prius consuetudines agnoscere, quibus gavisata est Cantuariensis ecclesia usque modo, partim in jure scriptas, partim a doctoribus authenticis notatas, partim pacifice obtentas, provinciæ longo usu, quam in eas injuriæ gladium exeratis. Attendentes sollicitè circa prædictum Henricum ne jus nobis vestra negligentia acquisitum alicqualiter infringatis, nec decani de Arcubus processibus consuetis parere obicem præsumatis. Pro certo scituri quod nos jura nostræ ecclesiæ intendimus contra omne genus hominum, prout poterimus, constanti animo defensare. Et ne ignorantiam consuetudinum nostrarum possitis prætereundere in velamen injuriæ inchoatæ; ecce pro pace vestra, quam sequi et prosequi cupimus puro corde, dicti negotii prosecutionem suspendimus usque ad primam congregationem nostram, ut interim de liberis consuetudinibus ecclesiæ nostræ possitis instrui, si velitis. Ad hæc, frater carissime, attendatis quod cum ecclesia Anglicana de die in diem enormius solito publicis oppressionibus conculcetur, hoc a vobis et nonnullis ceteris suffraganeis nostris consilium et auxilium reportamus, quod dum procedere totis viribus optamus, ad ecclesiam defensandam, vestris injustis, salva reverentia vestra, quæstionibus impedimur; nec hoc est insolitum, a tempore Anselmi Cantuariensis archiepiscopi per Thomam medium usque modo. De quo vos coram majestate Altissimi convenimus nisi ad potiora remedia imposterum laboretis. Valet in Christo et Virgine gloriosa. Datum apud Suthmalling, iiii. id. Feb., anno Domini MCCLXXXIII., ordinationis nostræ vi.

TO CARDINAL HUGH OF EVESHAM.

[1284.] Reverendo in Christo patri ac domino Hugoni, Dei
 23 Feb. gratia titulo S. Laurentii in Lucina presbytero cardinali, frater J[ohannes], etc., salutem, etc. Novit sapientiae vestræ perspicacia et hoc ipsum experientia contestatur, qualiter mentes præsentium illorum, dumtaxat quos amor Christi exagitat, exurunt scandala filiorum. Augentur vero uredinis angustiae in immensum, cum prævalente malitia præcluditur via remedio scandalorum. Sane, reverende pater, immane scandalum quod ex Majoris Malverniae latibulis suos dinoscitur foetores sulphureos per totam Angliam dilatasse, qualiter sit inverecunde obrutum, non extinctum, procurante flebilis memoriae ultimo Westmonasteriensi abbate, quem post contractum transactionis illicitae mors sustulisse dicitur improvisa. Qualiter etiam, recepto uno manerio, tam prædictus abbas quam sui complices monachi demoniaci, excommunicati proculdubio pro injusta et crudelissima incarceratione fratris Wilhelmi de Wykewane, quondam prioris loci ejusdem, et quorundam aliorum pro eo, quod diocesanano loci voluerunt ut consueverant obedire, idem diocesanus omnia justificaverit quæ per ipsum et suos prius extiterant, exigente justitia ut credimus, condemnata, tædet nos mente revolvere, pudet scribere, et manus laboriosas plurimum in alienas flammās mittere formidamus. Captio vero seditiosa prædicti prioris ac sibi adhærentium præcessit adventum nostrum in Wygorniensem diocesem visitandam, in Coventrensi etiam diocesi Salopiæ perpetrata, propter quod ad illius facinoris indaginem non processimus illa vice. Et cum tandem ipsius processus Wygorniensis episcopi contra intrusores per dictum abbatem ac complices suos in prioratum Malvernæ fuisset per nos, maturitate debita, confirmatus, et confirmatio per Cantuariensem provinciam divulgata et anathematis sententia multipliciter aggravata, dictus episcopus de omnibus prædictis composuit et contractus cum excommunicatis hujusmodi fœderavit, nobis spretis et penitus inconsultis. Pro certissimo igitur tenemus electionem apud Westmonasterium celebratam illius electi qui ad curiam proficiscitur confirmandus, ab excommunicatis pluribus processisse, quorum unus Adam nomine, præbens electo ut dicitur ad curiam com meatum, per nos ob alias causas est excommunicationis vinculo innodatus, prout novit dominus J. de Bekynkeham, noster in curia procurator. Utinam autem attendere dignetur sancta Romana ecclesia qualiter in damnationis suæ materiam concessa sibi libertate utinam non in periculum eximentium abutantur. Dicit enim Dionysius ¹ a Paulo, Paulus vero in cœlo tertio,

" Ἡ δὲ τῶν τελομένων ἀπασῶν ὑψηλοτέρα τάξις ἢ τῶν μοναχῶν ἐστὶν ἱερὰ διακόσμησις."

This is explained by Corderius, who, though he wrote in the 17th century, no doubt preserved the traditional interpretation of the Church, as meaning only superiority to catechumens, enèrgumens, public penitents, and laymen, not to deacons, priests, or bishops.

The works attributed to Dionysius were probably composed about the fifth century and teem with anachronisms both in thought, being Neo-Platonic, and in matter, of which this passage is an instance. The real Dionysius was judge at Paul's trial, afterwards bishop of Athens, and died in 95 A.D.

omnem monachum esse non solum episcopo, non solum presbytero, sed etiam diacono supponendum, sed hæc sunt de verbis illis forsitan de quibus non licet homini loqui, pro eo quod aliud cernitur ordinatum. Si quid autem velitis sive de hac materia vel alia quacumque per nos fieri, scribatis nobis vestram cum fiducia voluntatem, qui parati sumus vobis in omnibus tanquam devotus filius obedire. Custodiat Dominus, etc. Scriptum vii. kal. Marcii.

Minas autem de quibus in nostris aliis fecimus literis mentionem, alias non diximus, nisi provocationes et appellationes vestras, quæ nobis minantur per vos lites et jurgia præparari, quod utique, si aliud possit fieri, minime affectamus. De hoc autem quod dicitis vos rogasse magistrum H. Frater J[ohannes], etc., dilecto filio magistro A. de Kylekenni salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Verum quia nescimus quot aliæ mulieres sunt imposterum pro casu hujusmodi pecuniam exacturæ, nec scimus si pecunia residui testamenti quæ nunquam, sicut debuit, ad manus nostras plene pervenit, sufficiat ad satisfaciendum petitioni hujus mulieris et aliarum forsitan in futurum, quidam quoque miles de comitatu Norhampton' exigit de eadem pecunia c. libras, non possumus ad præsens dictæ mulieri de aliqua pecunia satisfacere donec visum fuerit et discussum, quot et quibus, quid et quantum debeat de dicta pecunia erogari, et si sufficere possit quod recipimus ad satisfaciendum omnibus pecuniam exacturis. Nec hoc dicimus quin nos parati simus pro loco et tempore isti mulieri et aliis etiam satisfacere, ut tene-mur, sed ut prospiciatur indemnitati ecclesiæ nostræ. Intelleximus non sine cordis amaritudine vehementi, quod cum nuper quidam clericus de vestra dicecese oriundus, filius quondam Walteri de Hertefeud, ut dicitur, fuisset pro crimine furti captus et apud Geldeford', Wintoniensis dicecesis, diutius in carcere detentus, nullus erat ex parte ecclesiæ qui clericum ipsum ecclesiæ nomine requireret seu peteret eripi a iudicio sæculari, quamquam idem clericus publice et constanter se esse clericum allegaret. Quare nullo instante ad liberationem ipsius, nec clericali privilegio deferente, ultimo tandem mortis supplicio in opprobrium cleri et ecclesiæ Anglicanæ contemptum ac præjudicium extitit condemnatus. TO THE BISHOP OF PRÆNESTE.

[1284.] Reverendo in Christo patri ac domino Jeronimo, 29 March. Dei gratia episcopo Prænestino, frater J[ohannes], etc., Asks him to favour his proctor in the case of Camilla and of the abbot of Faversham. R. f. 66 b. A. f. 14. salutem cum omni reverentia et honore. Sanctitatem vestram et pietatis affectum ad filios veraciter profecisse credimus, cum honore innocentiae illius et specialis affectionis ad modicitatem nostram edocti præsagiis, quas in vobis certitudinaliter didicimus, cum ambo, licet dispariter, militaremus Altissimo in excubiis paupertatis. Unde et gravamina cordis nostri et perplexitates insolubiles vobis dudum scripsissemus cum fiducia alicujus remedii obtinendi, nisi nos rumor quidam, qui nostris ante biennium insonuit auribus, retraxisset, quo videlicet asserebatur pro certo vos esse in legationem Alemannicam destinandum. Verumtamen, quia rumor ille nondum fuit effectui demandatus, paternæ clementiæ parturientis spiritu quod siluimus aperimus. In primis veritate conscientiæ protestantes, quod si præsensissemus amaritudinis aculeos, quos quotidie experimur, nunquam apostolicis jussionibus in hac parte fragilitatis nostræ humeros curvassemus. Quotidie siquidem terebrat cor nostrum passio Sancti Thomæ, cujus causam quotidie cernimus in ecclesiasticis injuriis renovari. Et cum circa nos remedium nesciamus, a sancta Romana ecclesia remedium expectantes, inde magis amaritudinis malleos ex ejusdem ecclesiæ lateribus experimur, dum nullum ad illam planctum possumus mittere secretius, qui non illico auctus mendaciis in suspectis auribus publicandus in Angliam revertatur, ut quasi sit insanabilis plaga ista. Supplicando nihilominus humiliter et instando, semper processimus, et plus defecimus quam profecimus in hunc diem. Sed est præ ceteris plaga dura, quod cum ipsa tanquam mater omnium consueverit omnes filios pietatis et justitiæ uberibus consolari; nobis in ea justitia denegatur, circa factum præcipue Tedisii de Camilla, in cujus favorem tradita est causa nostra contra prædictum Tedisium, Giffredo de Vezano, multum impari tanto negotio, summarie cognoscenda. Demum cum esset ab eo sicut suspecto iudice, propter excessus varios appellatum, summus pontifex causam appellationum nostrarum commisit, iterato summarie pertractandam, et hoc agente domino Benedicto, qui quasi novercali impetu nobis publice se opponit, lædens falsis opprobriis famam nostram, et veris injuriis justitiam nostram causæ, de quo summo pastori conquerimur, lamentantes plus dedecentiam sanctæ Romanæ curiæ, quæ solet omnibus se præbere speculum honestatis, quam nostra incommoda, quæ speramus esse auctore Deo in spiritualia commoda convertenda.

In hiis autem, pater piissime, vestrum consilium, solatium et auxilium imploramus, supplicantes humiliter ut priscæ caritatis indicia nobis dignemini renovare, dominum Johannem procuratorem nostrum in curia existentem admittentes favorabiliter, et ipsum ad Dei honorem¹ misericorditer dirigentes. Causam etiam abbatis de Fevresham, quem solum habemus nobis immediate subjectum, vestræ clementiæ ut possumus commendamus. In quo etiam speciali gravamine atterimur in curia, dum præactus dominus Giffredus nititur eum a nostra jurisdictione et subjectione eripere, ratione cujusdam census annui quo dicit monasterium ipsum Romanæ curiæ obligari, qui quidem abbas cum propter hoc a dicto Giffredo sedem apostolicam appellaverit, quod valde durum est et grave, non invenit qui petitionem suam domino papæ legat. Custodiat Dominus incolumitatem vestram, etc. Scriptum apud Tenham, iiii. kal. Aprilis.

A letter comparing abuses in the church to the seven vials mentioned in the Apocalypse.
R. f. 67.
A. f. 97.

Ad Tusculanum: — Fatiscentes alas in volatum contemplationis interdum erigo, et nunc in hierarchiam supracœlestem, nunc cœlestem juxta sanctorum regulas oculos figo aliquotiens lippientes, et demum in subcœlestis hierarchiæ speciem imbecilles radios inclino. In cujus apice sanctæ Romanæ ecclesiæ celsitudinem admirans cum tristitia ad memoriam, illa iræ Dei tempora revoco, quando juxta apostolum fiet discessio ab eadem. Causas autem illius futuræ seditionis sacra videntur eloquia prænotare. Primo quidem, Ezechielis occurrit oraculum ad pastores Israel sic dicentis: "Cum austeritate imperabatis eis et cum " potentia, et dispersus est grex meus, eo quod non

“ esset pastor.”¹ Imperiorum igitur austeritas forsitan tunc temporis reproborum animos commovebit. Sic Roboam aggravare se velle profitens sui jugum pacifici genitoris, decem tribus perdidit una die. Scio unum hominem qui nunquam didicit legem unam, qui tanti rigoris habet mandata, ut non obstantibus realibus privilegiis, sed cassatis, pro tribus obolis neglectis, possit ad libitum suum archiepiscopos et episcopos excommunicationis sententia innodare; et frequenter emanant talia idiotas extollentia, et statum supra modum vilipendentia prælatorum. Secundo, simile adjicit eidem sententia Salvatoris dicentis: “ Alienum non sequuntur, sed fugiunt ab eo, quia non noverunt vocem alienorum.”² Obsecro, mi domine, qui sunt alieni, nisi qui quærent quæ sua sunt, non quæ Jesu Christi. Eveniet igitur temporibus iræ Dei ut propter beneficiorum et bonorum aliorum exactionem, quæ alienis a Christo in forma præmissa aliquotiens sunt collata, vel tunc forsitan conferentur armatis sublimibus munimentis, ut dicere valeant illud propheticum Samuelis: “ Nunc dabis, alioquin tollam vi.”³ Discedat forsitan multitudo, juxta id quod sequitur Samuelis: “ Ecce dies veniunt et præcidam brachium tuum, etc.”⁴ Et licet hodie, Deo gratias, non multiplicentur hujusmodi alieni, dolendum est tamen si per sedem apostolicam hujusmodi defensentur. Nec enim sufficit idola non erigere, nisi erecta etiam deleantur, cum pii reges effeminatos de terra tulerint et sordes prius erectorum deleverint idolorum. Est enim tertium quod enervat animos prælatorum. Cum enim ad correctiones et reformationes cleri et populi se extendunt, appellationis quærent subterfugium, malignantes a ficto gravamine, impetrantes a sede apostolica ad illos quos suis noverunt esse pastoribus amplius indevotos, qui in revocandis pastorum judiciis gloriantur, et sic pastoralis curæ judex efficitur fur vel lupus. Cernentes igitur pastores pii sic sibi curam auferri e manibus et quasi dimidiari, libenter curæ cederent si liceret. Vera enim mater magis vellet juxta Salomonis judicium prolem suam alterius dari manibus, quam eam cernere in propriis oculis jugulari. Quartum futuræ discessionis præsagium et curæ irreticio pastoralis, quæ est socia præcedentis, est litium intricatio immortalis. Scio procul dubio plura a pluribus descri incorrecta, quin potius infinita, desperatione finis debiti assequendi, ne etiam consumantur circa reprobos bona quæ omnibus non sufficient pauperibus eroganda. Quintum, præparatorium ad prædictum infortunium esse credo, quotidianam coarctationem potentia prælatorum, quia frequenter pro unius delicto pontificis jugum imponitur toti mundo. Obsecro, domine, ad memoriam revocetis quam breve sit Deuteronomium, quam breve sit Evangelium, quantæque sint ambages aliorum jurium, quotque volumina sint doctorum. Certe audeo dicere quod impossibile sit mentem humanam utriusque generis apices habere excellenti sufficientia in sui pectoris potestate. Sextum, præparatorium ad hoc ipsum est legum abjectio vel vilipensio evangelicarum. Cum enim juxta doctrinam sanctorum officium pontificis consistat in doctrina præcipue verbi Dei, unde et ordo pontificum dicitur a sanctis patribus ordo prædicatorum, tamen in electionibus celebrandis vel dignitatibus conferendis nulla fit mentio de officio prædicandi, et dum in hac parte non quæritur quid dicant evangelia, sed potius quid garriat glosa ordinaria, mandata Dei propter traditiones hominum irritantur. Hinc studium sapientiæ per orbem deseritur, et passim curritur ad scientias lucrativas et per immoderantias subversivas, præscribente sententia Salvatoris, quia si sal evanuerit ad nihilum valet ultra, nisi ut mittatur foras et ab hominibus conculcetur. Septimum esse puto translationem sacerdotii a spiritu in carnem, a Melchisedech in Aaron ordine lamentabiliter commutato, quæ aliquando plus erat infesta ecclesiis quando ædificabatur Syon in sanguinibus, quam sit modo, sit Conditor omnium benedictus. Et forsitan temporibus iræ Dei pestis hujusmodi reviviscet, et translato sacerdotio in fæces hujusmodi, si evenerit, quod avertat Altissimus, lex obedientiæ forsitan transferetur. Obsecro, mi domine, velit animo cogitare, an forsitan istæ sint septem phialæ plenæ iracundiæ et plagæ novissimæ de quibus Apocalypsis facit suæ modo caliginis mentionem. Et licet ea quæ divinitus sunt præmissa, procul dubio sunt ventura, minus tamen feriunt jacula, dum per industriam subtrahuntur scandala oculis pusillorum. Licet enim quæ procedunt a sancta Romana ecclesia sint sancta procul dubio et honesta, quippe quæ a Spiritu Christi Domini gubernatur, pro quo impossibile est ipsam errare in jure, ut ore profiteor puro corde, tamen oculi infirmi a lumine pluries vulnerantur, et dum mater incaute parvuli oculos exponit radio laterali, strabo efficitur improvise.

TO THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER.

Frater J[ohannes], etc., episcopo Wyntoniensi, salutem, etc. Intellecto nuper quod quidam clericus, Johannes de Knelle nomine, de Cycestrensi diœcese oriundus, pro crimine furti captus et incarceratus apud Geldeford' vestræ diœcesis, debuerat iudicio laicorum extremo mortis supplicio condemnari, pro eo quod non erat qui ipsum ecclesiæ nomine requireret, quamquam clericus appareret et constanter se esse clericum allegaret; nos super hoc certiorari volentes scripsimus domino episcopo Cycestrensi, ut ipse hujusmodi facti inquirens sollicite veritatem, nobis suis patentibus litteris fideliter intimaret, si prædictus clericus fuisset ab eo seu quocunque alio episcopo ordinatus; et qualiter in opprobrium cleri et contemptum ecclesiæ tam ignominiosæ morti fuit addictus. Qui quidem episcopus nobis per suas literas rescripsit quod dictus Johannes de Knelle extiterit a domino Assavensi episcopo in accolitum ordinatus, quem dum adhuc apud Lewes esset in carcere detentus, requiri fecerat tanquam clericum per decanum suum Lewensem, cui ad hoc, ut dicit, specialiter commiserat vices suas. Sed cum idem clericus, non obstante hujusmodi requisitione, postmodum mitteretur apud Geldeford' carceri mancipandus, et ad ipsum episcopum non pertineret dictum clericum requirere in diœcese aliena, ut tamen ipsum existere clericum omnibus appareret, et nullus se posset ignorantia excusare; testimoniales literas de suis ordinibus concessit et fieri fecit eidem. Verum quidam ecclesiæ inimici in ipsius clerici necem ut dicitur machinantes, diem ad liberationem carceris ejusdem a justiciariis assignatum maliciose prævenientes, eundem Johannem, non obstante quod se clericum esse docebat, cum nullus esset qui ipsum ex

Quia vero tanti præsumptionem facinoris, quod totam Dei ecclesiam scandalizat, non decet nec expedit sub dissimulatione transcurrere, fraternitatem vestram monemus et hortamur in Domino, vobis nihilominus in virtute obedientiæ firmiter injungendo mandantes, quatenus tale remedium circa prædicta studeatis apponere. Sic quos in hac parte reos inveneritis, animadversione condigna plectentes, quod ad Dei laudem cedat et gloriam, honorque personæ vestræ apud Deum et homines exinde merito augeatur, ac aliis subtrahatur in posterum audacia talia perpetrandi. Faciatis autem diligenter inquiri an prædictus Johannes se esse clericum allegaret vel quomodo doceret, an etiam aliquis ipsum ecclesiæ peteret liberari, vel si vestri fuerint in hac parte, sicut dicitur negligentes, et aliis circumstantiis omnibus tangentibus istud factum, quod vestrum decet officium viriliter exequendo, ut cum vobiscum, quod erit in brevi, volente Domino, colloquium habuerimus, possitis nos inde consolabiliter recreare. A. f. 188 A.

Frater J[ohannes], etc., dilectis in Christo filiabus, priorissæ et conventui Sancti Sepulcri Cantuar', salutem, gratiam et benedictionem Referentibus nobis clericis nostris, quos nuper ad vos transmisimus visitandas, quædam inter vos accepimus corrigenda, quæ pro vestræ honestatis observantia concludere volumus compendioso robore statutorum. In primis igitur ordinamus, ut priorissa quæ pro tempore fuerit, sollicita sit et vigil sine acceptione personarum omnium in se filiarum affectus sinceros attrahere, et sic se communiter salva honestate omnibus et singulis exhibere, ut nullo modo notabilis sit de parte, vel magis inveniatur uni quam alteri adhærere. Si quæ vero monialis inter vos rixosa et acerba, suisque sororibus intolerabilis de consuetudine habeatur, præcipimus eam a communione conventus juxta formam regulæ separari, et tamdiu in aliquo loco solitario detineri, ita quod interim nullus vel nulla secum habeat colloquium vel accessum, donec ad humilitatis spiritum reducta, se exhibeat omnibus amabilem et devotam. Cessent igitur apud vos rixæ, jurgia et asperitates verborum, quæ honestatis monasticæ splendorem maculant et deformant. Pro hujusmodi autem contumeliosis ut præmittitur separandis, assignamus domum illam obscuram sub dormitorio, si aliam ad hoc competentioremin minime habeatis, inhibentes sub pœna excommunicationis, quam ferimus in hiis scriptis in omnes ex certa deliberatione contrarium facientes, ne sæcularis quicumque dictam domum obscuram, sive fuerit ibi monialis sive non, de cetero pro quacunque causa audeat introire. Domum etiam novam, in qua tam religiosi quam etiam sæculares solebant pro habendis cum monialibus et aliis mulieribus colloquiis convenire, omnino interdiciamus sub poena suspensionis ab ingressu ecclesiæ, quam incurrere volumus ipso facto contrarium facientes, ne hujusmodi colloquia vel tractatus in dicta domo de cetero teneantur, districtius inhibentes. Vos autem omnes hortamur in Domino servare sollicite silentii disciplinam. Et ut omnis suspicio imposterum sustollatur, ordinamus ut quæcunque monialis cum quocunque homine locutura præter casum confessionis, ad locutorium commune accedat, associatis sibi semper duabus sociis ad minus, quæ colloquium simul audiant ut vel ædificentur verbis utilibus si tractentur, vel impediunt verba mala. Nec colloquia hujusmodi nimis pertrahi aliquatenus permittantur. Ne insuper refectorium vestrum a sæcularibus frequentetur vel claustrum, sub poena suspensionis prædictæ firmiter inhibemus. Nec aliquo casu liceat alicui homini¹ sæculari -vel religioso post solis occasum, nisi evidens vitæ periculum sit in casu, et tunc adhibitis societate loco et tempore opportunis, claustrum vestri ambitum introire vel inibi remanere. Ad hæc, quia vos irreprehensibiles manere volumus re et fama, sub poena suspensionis prædictæ latæ, vobis omnibus et singulis inhibemus ne aliqua vestrum sine secura et honesta comitiva villam intrare præsumat, vel ad quemcunque locum religiosorum vel alium accedere sub colore confitendi, nisi alium quam illum ad quem accedit non habeat confessorem. Nullum quoque potum aut cibum ibidem sumat, moram non protrahat, sed statim expedita causa accessus hujusmodi, quam honestam esse volumus et priorissæ vel ipsius locum tenenti, ante exitum hujusmodi notam fieri et exponi, redeat indilate. Omnem insuper suspectam et inhonestam familiam, mulieres et servientes inutiles, a vestris liminibus præcipimus amoveri, et nullam inposterum mulierem inter vos recipi moraturam, nisi de nostra licentia speciali. Ut autem hæc

Reverendo in Christo patri ac domino Ordonio, Dei gratia episcopo Tusculano, frater J[ohannes], permissione Ejusdem Cantuariensis ecclesiæ minister, etc., salutem, etc. Noverit paternitas vestra quod est quidam benivulus noster in curia qui non cessat de nobis mendacia seminare, asserens sicut accepimus, et affirmans quod nos, tempore vacationis ecclesiæ Wyntoniensis, debebamus vobis quosdam defectus de domino R. Bathoniensi et Wellensi episcopo, tunc in Wyntoniensem episcopum postulato, scripsisse, et præcipue de pluralitate beneficiorum quam habuerat, super qua dispensatione apostolica indigebat. Propter quod non potuit negotium in curia prosperari, immo, sicut dicit, per nos omnino debuit impediri, assumens, ut asserit, auctoritatem et testimonium dicti sui ex literis quas paternitati vestræ super hoc dicimur direxisse. Dicit insuper quod quædam sinistra debebamus similiter de domino rege Angliæ etiam paternitati vestræ eodem tempore nostris literis nunciasse. Et quia talia verba non minus honorem vestrum quam famam nostram deformant, nosque in hac parte simus teste conscientia sine culpa, de quo etiam vestrum testimonium invocamus, reverendam paternitatem vestram devota precum instantia exoramus, quatenus qui nostram in hiis innocentiam cognovistis, delatoris prædicti detractioem improbam dignemini compescere, ut de talibus imposterum obmutescat. Nomen illius vobis dicere novit Johannes de Bekyngham, noster in curia procurator, qui si aliquo modo subterfugiat, noveritis quod magister Henricus de Grandissono talia de nobis dicitur prædicasse. Hanc autem nostram scripturam rogamus velitis destruere mox inspectam, quoniam si perpenderet dictus Henricus nos talia vobis scripsisse, non cessaret ea in nostri præjudicium publicare. Custodiat Dominus incolumitatem vestram ecclesiæ suæ sanctæ per tempora longiora. Scriptum vii. id. Maii.

Quare magistro Poncio procuratori nostro injunximus pro relevanda parochianorum inopia, quos tam temporaliter quam spiritualiter tenemini recreare, ut¹ distribui faceret inter pauperes parochianos de Lymmyng' usque ad centum solidos sterlingorum, et tantundem apud Wrotham similiter faciat assignari, quia tanta hiis diebus fames invaluit quod vix est eorum aliquis qui de proprio habeat unde vivat. Nec, sicut accepimus, toto tempore quo ipsas ecclesias tenuistis, fuit aliquis qui nomine vestro parochianis illis in suis necessitatibus subveniret. Ex quo proculdubio Altissimum offendistis, cui etiam nos displicere credimus, eo quod tanto tempore talia permisimus sub dissimulationis umbra transire. Ad hoc satis novit discretio vestra in quo statu receperimus ædificia maneriorum archiepiscopatus, quæ tempore bonæ memoriæ domini B[onifacii] prædecessoris nostri in parte notabili sunt confusa; ob cujus neglectum ultra duo milia marcarum nos noveritis expendisse. Pro quibus tamen ædificiis reparandis de bonis testamenti dicti domini B[onifacii] nobis de aliquibus vestri gratia subvenistis, quorum juxta promissionem vestram residuum fiducialiter expectamus. Sed quod proponimus volente Domino apud Otteford novam capellam lapideam honestam erigere, quia indecens est quod pro tam solempni aula, quæ ibi existit, non est nisi capella lignea satis vilis, quam certe expeditisset dicto prædecessori nostro suo tempore innovasse, ne videretur plus cogitare de honoranda mensa hominis quam Domini Salvatoris, vos rogamus quatenus de residuo bonorum dicti testamenti, quod ad vestræ dispensationis arbitrium devolutum esse dinoscitur, adhuc velitis nobis pro dicta capella succurrere construenda, per quod animam defuncti procul dubio nostræ recommendationis diligentia credimus relevandam, et vobis coram Deo et hominibus augebitis gloriam et honorem, nosque exinde et pro loco et tempore vobis intendimus sensibiliter ut secundum Deum poterimus esse grati. Præterea sollicitè cogitetis de pecunia testamenti inter pauperes tenentes maneriorum archiepiscopatus distribuenda, quod jam a longo tempore est omissum, non sine magno animæ vestræ periculo ut putamus. Scribimus autem hæc omnia domino Ambianensi ut ad præmissa vos effectualiter excitet adimplenda. Nos autem propter hoc coram nobis convenientes eundem, sub certa pœna mandavimus et injunximus ei, ut prædictam uxorem suam ex tunc secum teneret et maritali affectione tractaret, eidem tanquam uxori suæ fideliter adhærendo, Ad quod etiam se juramento proprio nihilominus obligavit. Verum, cum idem miles postmodum sub maritalis affectionis debito vellet eam ad se recolligere a lege conjugii, et benivole confovere, ipsa ab eo propria se temeritate divertens, prout ipso milite nobis insinuante nuper et etiam fidedignorum testimonio intelleximus, nunc Stafford', nunc apud Penkryz ac aliis locis a vestra jurisdictione exemptis, moram trahit continue, viro suo cohabitare recusans et ecclesiasticam censuram contempnens. Cum igitur dictus miles, sicut pro certo intelleximus, hucusque pro possibilitate sua laboraverit ut uxorem suam ad se reduceret, et adhuc laboret etiam, sicut dicit, nec sit in culpa quare non cohabitavit eidem, fraternitatem vestram hortamur attente, quatenus nullus puniri debeat sine culpa, si ex hac causa solum dictum militem excommunicationis sententia involvistis, nec alias deliquerit, propter quod ipsum oporteat sic ligari, ipsam sententiam revocetis, et eidem absolutionis gratiam impendatis. Excellentissimo principi ac domino Edwardo, Dei gratia regi Angliæ, domino Hiberniæ et duci Aquitanæ, frater J[ohannes], permissione divina Cantuariensis ecclesiæ minister humilis, totius Angliæ primas, salutem illam, quam verum tribuit salutare cum omni reverentia et honore. Quamvis nuper contra Gwalensium indomitam proterviam coegerit publica necessitas innocentiam cordis vestri vexilla erigere et agones victoriosi certaminis attemptare; quia tamen juxta præliantium eventus varios plurima sunt commissa, quæ præter vestri jussiones imperii læsisse videntur in rerum dispendiis et personarum gravaminibus ecclesiasticam plurimum libertatem; vos ad ea quæ Dei sunt paratum gerentes animum, voluistis ut nos, qui in spiritualibus habemus majestati regiæ famulari, provideremus sollicite ne in hac parte quisquam remaneat conscientiæ vestræ scrupulus in futurum ex illis, quæ præter intentionem vestram ut plurimum in prædicti progressu prælii contigerunt. Quia igitur veritatem quærit regia celsitudo, nec decet gradum nostrum vobis palpando suggerere falsitatem, in primis dominationi vestræ scribimus quod in hiis factis quæ contra legem Altissimi perpetrantur, intentio boni, licet reatum attenuet, damnationis tamen periculum non excludit, sicut nec est immunis a scelere,² qui furatur ut eleemosynam largiatur, nec recte incedit qui ad finem intentum callem eligit tortuosum. Secundo adjicimus, quod licet contra vel præter voluntatem vestram expressam et etiam ratihabitionem multæ fuerint injuriæ ecclesiis et ecclesiasticis personis ac innocentibus aliis irrogatæ; non tamen potest se majestas regia excusare in hiis quæ sub dissimulationis vestræ pallio provenerunt. Quoniam, si a principio gwerræ severitatis regiæ terroribus fuissent malefactores hujusmodi pœnalibus judiciis refrænati, non accidissent ex parte maxima ecclesiarum gravamina quæ postea sunt secuta. Obligatur igitur in talibus vestra dominatio ex favore. Favere enim dicitur qui cum possit et cui ex officio incumbit, manifeste imminenti facinori desunt obviare. Tertio, quia per partes Walliæ visitationis freti officio transeuntes, personas ecclesiasticas et monasticas audivimus conquerentes de ecclesiis et sacris ædibus spoliatis et pariter concrematis; laicos etiam de rebus suis ab ecclesiis et cimiteriis, in quibus reconditæ fuerant, sacrilege asportatis; ipsorum querelis cupientes satisfacere, de assensu conquerentium ordinamus, ut de assensu regio personæ eligantur testimonio fidedignæ, quæ per loca omnia Walliæ circueant desolata; et vocatis qui fuerint evocandi, inquirent cum omni diligentia per juratos et fidedignos de hujusmodi malefactis et personis illorum qui talia perpetrarunt. Et si compertum fuerit, quod bona ecclesiasticis officiis deputata, utpote libri, calices, campanæ, vasa quæcunque, vestimenta vel ornamenta quælibet de ecclesiis sublata fuerint; vel alias undecunque ad integram restitutionem eorundem, et ad interesse super injuriis, raptores hujusmodi, si personæ notæ fuerint, et solvendi habeant potestatem per censuram ecclesiasticam; et si illa non sufficiat, per severitatem regiam compellantur. Quod si personarum notitia non valeat indagari, vel notæ non sufficiant satisfacere de prædictis, credimus majestatem regiam pro ratione præ-tacta ad satisfactionem hujusmodi obligari. Ita tamen quod raptores ad solutionem impotentes, sicut excommunicati, gravi pœna canonica procellantur. Clericos vero, qui contra jura regiæ majestatis arma hostiliter detulerunt, vel alios ad hujusmodi injurias excitarunt, cujusquam gradus fuerint aut honoris, cum hoc fuerit in forma canonica declaratum per suos ordinarios compelli præcipimus, ut tam sufficienter satisfaciant regiæ majestati, ne nos ad hoc manus cogamur extendere duriores. Si vero clericis hujusmodi nihil habentibus, nisi de bonis ecclesiasticis, quicquam ablatum fuerit de eisdem, restituendum illud credimus ecclesiæ, non materiali fabricæ sed congregationibus pauperum fidelium, quibus præsent, per superiorum vel bonorum virorum industriam¹ ad hoc specialiter electorum; et restitutionem faciant spoliatores, si sufficiunt et noti fuerunt, et hiis deficientibus per clementiam regiam esse credimus providendum. Ceteris autem personis ecclesiasticis et religiosis, quæ nullatenus ope vel opera, consilio vel favore, majestati et paci regiæ derogarunt, de damnis et interesse fiat satisfactio plenaria in forma superius annotata. Laicarum vero tres fuerunt in hiis partibus differentię personarum. Quædam enim fuerunt, licet pauca, penitus innocentes; et istis debet in forma prædicta fieri plenarie restitutio spoliatis. Aliæ vero fuerunt clam vel palam regiis juribus adversantes; et istis, cum legitime constiterit de eisdem, nullam esse restitutionem credimus faciendam, etiam si bona ipsorum fuerint auctoritate regia in ecclesiis occupata. Quia propter inimicitiarum nephas jus rerum hujusmodi quod habuerant perdiderunt. Pro violentia tamen illata ecclesiæ si quæ fuerit in forma debita satisfiat.²

Fuerunt insuper tertii generis personæ, quæ metu tyrannidis pristinæ honori regio restiterunt, et in istis cum de animi innocentia constiterit, revelandis, regalis se ut putamus misericordia declarabit. In occupatione autem bonorum seu clericalium seu laicalium, triplex circumstantia excusat vel partialiter vel totaliter occupantes, verbi gratia, si manifesta necessitate coacti, manus ad hujusmodi extenderunt, sive in ecclesiis sive extra. In tali enim necessitate omnia creduntur esse principis rem publicam defensantis, dum tamen modum teneat occupando. Item, si propter hoc occupentur bona hujusmodi, ut ipsorum possessoribus invalidis conserventur. Item, si idcirco occupentur ne ad manus hostium casu aliquo deducantur. De incendiis autem ecclesiarum et sacrarum ædium religiosorum vel sæcularium clericorum seu etiam laicorum, idem intelligimus, quod de rebus eorundem superius est notatum; hoc excepto quod ecclesiarum et sacrarum ædium consumptiones et incendia, nullo obstante delicto hominis, sunt restitutione debita plenarie compensanda. Incendiarios autem illos qui ex certa malitia ecclesias incenderunt, vel ausu illicito ædes alias ex quibus accensis ignis consumens hæsit ecclesiis, postquam nominatim per ecclesiam sententia canonis contra personas earum fuerit publicata, dumtaxat absolutione apostolica credimus indigere. Et licet nullum noverimus hujusmodi scelere irretitum, tamen non nocet, si apostolica clementia imploretur, ut si qui sic denunciati occurrerint, possint per locorum ordinarios absolvi ex gratia speciali. Ad absolvendum vero illos qui in casu illicito clericos interfecerunt vel læserunt enormiter, non consuevit apostolica auctoritas alicui absenti concedere potestatem. Et quia illi qui hujusmodi incendia perpetrarunt, ad gremium sanctæ matris ecclesiæ pro absolutionis gratia confugerunt, non decet prælatos ad denunciationem excommunicationis vel alia gravamina procedere contra eos, præsertim quia pietas vestra pro ipsis satisfacere est parata modo superius annotato. Licet autem nulla lex civilis vel canonica vos videatur aliquatenus obligare ad faciendum pro damnis ecclesiis vel ecclesiasticis personis per Lewelinum quondam principem Walliæ irrogatis, quamvis ad dominium vestrum non hereditario sed jure regio pervenerint bona sua; quia tamen Imperatori summo, qui essentialiter est Dominus, omnes suæ serviunt creaturæ, decere credimus majestatem vestram, quæ a summo Rege regni terreni obtinet bajulatum, de bonis ejus vestræ dispensationi creditis honoris sui resarcire injurias per dispensatorem vel verius dissipatorem pristinum perpetratas. Hæc, illustrissime principum, vobis scribimus sine præjudicio sententiæ melioris, sigilli munimine roborata. De loco autem Aberconeweye, seu dedicatione episcopali, seu sepultura Christianorum corporum religioso effectum, et consimilibus juxta canonicas sanctiones idem sentimus quod vobis per prudentes alios est consultum. Valeat et vigeat regia celsitudo ad divini nominis gloriam quam diu cœli sidera rotabuntur.

non assurgit. Sed armis quærens resurgere gens inermis, inde potius dejicitur et subvertitur coram Deo et sæculo universo, unde supra vires suas in magnis nititur ambulare. Viam igitur veræ sibi non vanæ conquirendæ gloriæ paraturi a cleri sanctuario decrevimus inchoandum, ordinantes ut de cetero clerici vestræ diocesis in habitu et ornatu, gestu et affatu, ceteris per orbem clericis se conforment, ut unius cum aliis appareant honestatis. Et ut nec minor sobrietas nec temporis in potando fœda consumptio, nec coma prolixior, nec strictior corona, nec locutionis impetus, nec linguæ literalis inopia, nec radiatæ clamidis aut vestis insolentia, nec capitis aut pedum vel tibiæ nuditas ipsos signaculo vel nota derisibili faciat ab aliis discrepare. Sacerdotes insuper gerant de cetero capas clausas. Et si qui clericorum vel sacerdotum in hiis appareant reprehensibiles in futurum, nisi per decanos vel archidiaconale officium vel officiales modo debito corrigantur, vos eos puniatis graviter et negligentes gravius correctores. Alioquin Judex districtissimus nostræ sollicitudinis laborem et ecclesiæ in hac parte dispendia in tremendo judicio a vobis exiget, ut putamus. Et quia incontinentiæ vitium clerum vestrum ab antiquo maculasse dinoscitur enormiter ultra modum, quod est negligentiæ prælatorum evidens argumentum; vobis in virtute obediendi districtè præcipimus, quatenus statuta canonica ad animum revocantes, quæ vos jurasse novimus servaturos, incontinentes clericos beneficiatos de cetero puniatis secundum statuta sanctissima dominorum Othonis et Ottoboni, sedis apostolicæ legatorum; ut videlicet quicumque ultra mensem tenuisse repertus fuerit concubinam, nisi ex tunc monitus penitus abstineat in futurum, nec habitam nec aliam ulterius recepturus, ipso facto omni ecclesiastico beneficio sit privatus; nihilominus si post monitionem se correxerit, pro præteritis arbitrarie puniendus. Clericos autem nondum beneficium ecclesiasticum assecutos, ab hujusmodi beneficiis repellatis, donec tam probatæ fuerint castitatis, ut pristinæ in eis turpitudinis infamia sit extincta. Et tam hujusmodi clericos quam laicos incontinentiæ vitio laborantes in forma canonica puniatis, non imponentes eis pœnam juxta suæ desideria voluntatis, sed illam potius imponentes, scilicet pecuniariam vel corporalem, quam eos certo experimento perpendere poteritis amplius abhorrere. Horas autem canonicas beneficiati, et missam ordinariam sacerdotes curam animarum habentes, cum cantu et reverentia debita celebrent omni die, quando impedimentum canonicum non obsistit. Et quotiens in hoc extiterint negligentes, vel pœna corporali, vel pœna pecuniaria, si magis eam timeant, puniantur, et pecunia sic collecta per pauperes parochiæ penitus erogetur. Corporis vero Dominici sacramentum cum reverentia debita conservetur, prout statutum est in ultimo concilio de Lameth', et reverenter cum tintinnabulo prævio, et accenso cereo vel candela, ad ægrotos in cuppa vel decenti pyxide in manibus sacerdotalibus solemniter cum omni diligentia deportetur. Præterea cultum Dei et ecclesiastica officia, eruditionem juniorum in grammatica disciplina, informationem laicorum in fide et moribus, ex magna parte in vestra dicecesi credimus defecisse, quia divisa sunt bona ecclesiarum per exiles adeo portiones, ut nec portionarii valeant residere nec habeant vicarii unde possint onera parochialia subportare, nimirum juxta Salvatoris sententiam "omne regnum in seipso divisum desolabitur."¹ Ubicunque igitur ecclesiæ per divisiones hujusmodi debitis obsequiis defraudantur, et cura vel perit vel manifeste læditur animarum; ipsas divisiones tanquam evangelio et juri contrarias, quantumcunque factæ fuerint ab antiquo, ipsis qui hujusmodi sectiones obtinent, cedentibus aut decedentibus decernimus perpetuo abolendas; in eisdem ecclesiis per vestram prudentiam provideri jubentes, ut ubicunque rectores non faciunt continuam residentiam personalem, ecclesiarum vicariis provideatur de idonea portione, qua possint parochialia onera et hospitalitatis gratiam sustinere, et cultum Dei in ecclesiis condigna ministrorum assistentia celebrare. Et quicumque vos maliciose in hac parte præsumserit impedire, formidandæ maledictioni divinæ se noverit subjacere. Decimas autem bonorum dotalium, sicut ab antiquo præstitæ fuerunt, et mortuaria in vestibus et aliis approbamus. Ita tamen quod conjuges ratione conjugii ad alias præstandas de novo decimas non cogantur. Decanos vero rurales vel officiales locales nolumus¹ a rectoribus et vicariis procurari, nisi forte ab eisdem pro necessitate aliqua invitentur. Nec officialem episcopi, ubi eodem anno episcopus fuerit procuratus, vel etiam procurandus, nec officialem archidiaconi, ubi eodem anno archidiaconus fuerit procuratus, vel ordinarie procurandus, nisi forte ex speciali causa a rectore fuerit invitatus. Si quis autem decanus vel officialis metu vel concussione hujusmodi procuracionem extorserit, ab officio sit suspensus donec duplum rectori vel vicario restituerit sic gravato. Et quia Assavensis ecclesia cathedralis est toti diocesi posita in exemplum, sacris canonibus adhærentes statuimus, ut domus decani et canonicorum quamcitus id fieri poterit, prope et circa ecclesiam construantur. Et ut canonici in claustris ambitu et ecclesiæ capas et almucia deferant canonicæ honestatis, juxta quod in ecclesiis aliis cathedralibus per provinciam fieri consuevit. Ipsa etiam ecclesia officietur celebritate condigna, tam in missa quam horis canonicis omni die. Libertatem autem quam in temporibus domini retroacti vestra habere ecclesia consuevit, sicut ex vestro tenemini juramento, supplicando si oportet super hoc humiliter et instanter regiae majestati, et constanter satellitibus eandem libertatem infringentibus in forma canonica resistendo, tutamini toto posse. Et si secus feceritis, non pastoris gloriam sed mercenarii ignominiam in hac parte dicemini promereri. Quia vero Salvator per passionem a discipulis recessurus, eis recommendavit præ ceteris studium unitatis, obsecramus per misericordiam Jesu Christi, ut ad unitatis studium cum dominio et populo Anglicano velitis per vos et alios vestros subditos informare; ne rancore contra eos in cordibus reservato, in se provocent iram Dei, et frustra conentur ad impossibile, ad obtentum scilicet regni Angliæ supervacue aspirantes. Attendentes quod si illustris rex Angliæ cum sua prole, cum omnibus Angliæ magnatibus, quod avertat Altissimus, decessisset, succederent eis hereditario jure reges plurimi majores mundi et magnates per orbem alii, et hiis deficientibus Romana ecclesia, crucis si oporteret exercitu invocato, contra quos vires Walliæ nihil possent. Quiescat igitur de cetero rancor inutilis, et pacis studio pro vita corporis et animæ et successionis suæ perseverantia sint intenti. Sitque in eis cum Anglicis cor unum et anima una, ut nulla inter eos extraneitas nominetur, sed pereat nomen extraneorum per familiare consortium caritatis. Præterea dolentes intelleximus quod populus vester nimis sompniis et fantasticis visionibus est intentus, Bruti sequens vestigia, qui de Trojano opprobrio veniens fugitivus, perpetrato scelere¹ idolatriæ, per Dianæ vel diaboli potius susurrum, recepto consilio sompnando, insulam Britannicam introivit, quæ prius habitata a gente Germanica Albyon dicebatur. De quorum genere Saxones esse creduntur. Ipsum igitur populum vestrum totis viribus doceatis, ut spretis sompniis et auguriis adhæreant evangeliis, et non de Trojanis devictis et fugatis, sed de invicta cruce Domini nostri Jesu Christi de cetero glorientur, qui in suo sanguine omne genus hominum fecit unum. Præterea est et malum aliud ex superbia ducens originem, otium scilicet corporale, quod populum vestrum maculat supra modum, quod quidem est fomentum omnium vitiorum. Quia igitur duplex est vita salvandorum, activa scilicet et contemplativa, quarum neutra est otiosa, omnes utriusque sexus vobis subditos informetis, ut omni die studeant aliquo exercitii genere liciti redimere panem suum. Præsertim quia Dominus Adæ pro tota sua posteritate laborem imposuit post peccatum. Et Paulus etiam dicit, "Si quis non vult operari, non manducet."¹ Vita igitur est latronum et non Christianorum panem comedere otiosum. Vitam igitur otiosam contumaciter agentibus nisi moniti resipiscant, subtrahi præcipimus ecclesiastica sacramenta, et in morte ecclesiasticam sepulturam, nisi signis probabilibus se ostenderint penitentes. Et quia populus vester salutari doctrina indiget supra modum, et sicut populus sic sacerdos, quia tam illiteratos sacerdotes et clericos nusquam meminimus nos vidisse; non sine magno mœrore cordis audivimus quod Fratres Prædicatores et Minores, apud quos pæne solos in hiis partibus doctrina residet veritatis, non recipiuntur nec procurantur a rectoribus et sacerdotibus, cum prædicantes circueunt verbum Dei. Quocirca vobis districte præcipimus quatenus in hac parte, secundum quod cautum est in concilio apud Lamethe ultimo celebrato, cogatis clerum vobis subiectum per censuram ecclesiasticam, si oportet, ipsos recipere verbi Dei gratia venientes. Certum est enim ipsos non esse pastores ovium, sed lupos potius, qui, cum docere populum nesciant, non procurant ipsum populum edoceri per viros sanctos ad hoc per mundum a summo pontifice destinatos. Cum autem iidem fratres circueunt pro elemosina postulanda, qui sine provisione vivere non possunt in hiis partibus ut deceret, illi prius recipiantur cum effectu qui prius veniunt elemosinam petitori, qui tanquam gemelli sponsæ hinc ubi et ubera ad eundem finem lactandos, scilicet ecclesie parvulos, pariter sunt vocati. Hanc igitur informationis nostræ paginam rogamus et obsecramus, vobis nihilominus in virtute obedientiæ firmiter injungentes, ut faciatis annis singulis in synodis publicari, et per archidiaconale officium in decanatibus et nihilominus in parochiis omnibus, et per vos cum hujusmodi parochias visitatis; de quo vestram conscientiam in tremendo judicio oneramus. Et quid inde feceritis nos¹ in proxima congregatione fratrum curetis reddere certiores. Datum Bangor', iiii. kal. Julii, anno Domini MCC. octogesimo quarto, ordinationis nostræ sexto.

Consimilis litera emanavit domino episcopo Bangor' apud Tewyn, sub data v. non. Julii anno eodem.

Memorandum, quod in crastino Purificationis Beatæ Virginis millesimo ducentesimo octogesimo secundo, dominus Johannes Dei gratia Cantuariensis archiepiscopus visitavit dominum episcopum Wygorniensem, et procuratus fuit eodem die tantum sumptibus ipsius Wygorniensis, sed jacuit in prioratu. Die vero Jovis archiepiscopus visitavit monachos, die Veneris visitavit moniales de Wyston.¹ Die autem Sabbati adivit Majorem Malvern' et prædicavit ibidem in capella; qua peracta, cum petierit in forma debita ab eis ad visitationem admitti, surrexerunt magistri R. dictus Barret, et R. de Vasto Prato, procuratores abbatis Westmonasteriensis, allegando asserentes ipsum prioratum Majoris Malverne ita privilegiatum, quod nec dictus archiepiscopus, nec episcopus Wygorniensis jurisdictionem aliquam habere debuerat in eodem, offerentes se paratos congruis loco et tempore hoc docere. Archiepiscopo super hoc deliberante ac consulente, præfixit eis diem ad exhibendum et proponendum privilegia sua, si quæ optinuerint, ubicunque fuerit in diocese Wygorniensi, coram eo videlicet in crastino Sanctarum Perpetuæ et Felicitatis, recepturi ulterius quid dictaverit ordo juris. Die vero Martis sequente proximo stetit idem archiepiscopus cum domino episcopo in mensa apud Hertleburne.

BISHOP OF WORCESTER TO PECKHAM.

1283. Sancto patri et domino reverendo, domino Johanni Dei
 23 March. gratia Cantuariensi archiepiscopo, totius Angliæ primati, Anaccount Godfridus permissione divina minister ecclesiæ Wygorniensis, of the treatment salutem et cum omni inclinatione devota subjectionem, reverentiam et honorem. Mandatum vestrum recepimus in hæc verba:—Frater Johannes permissione divina Cantuariensis ecclesiæ minister humilis, totius Angliæ primas, venerabili in Christo fratri, domino Godfrido Dei gratia Wygornienſi episcopo, salutem et sinceram in Domino caritatem. Nuper in progressu nostræ visitationis in vestra diocese, intelleximus, fama publica referente, quod abbas Westmonasteriensis quendam monachum, vestrum subditum, capi fecit, et diris vinculis alligatum deduci extra jurisdictionem vestram usque Westmonasterium, ubi adhuc eundem contra censuram ecclesiasticam in contemptum ecclesiasticæ libertatis detinet carcerali custodiæ mancipatum. Quod si ita est, non est dubium ipsum abbatem in excommunicationis sententiam incidisse. Et quia tantæ præsumptionem nequitiae sub conniventia pertransire nequimus, fraternitatem vestram in Domino requirimus et hortamur, vobis nihilominus in virtute obedientiæ firmiter injungendo mandantes, quatenus hujus facti plenam et expressam veritatem, quantum inde scire poteritis, nobis quam citius fieri poterit, rescribatis fideliter, per vestras patentes literas harum seriem continentes. Valete semper in Christo et Virgine gloriosa. Datum Cyrencestr', xi. kal. Aprilis, anno Domini millesimo ducentesimo octogesimo secundo, ordinationis nostræ anno quinto.

Huic igitur mandato vestro volentes obsecundare reverenter, ut decet, veritatem quam super facto, de quo facit ipsius mandati vestri series mentionem, quam per clericos et laicos, religiosos et etiam sæculares invenimus, de qua nobis et aliis similiter notorie satis constat, vestræ sanctæ paternitati duximus explanandam. Nobis siquidem in prioratu Majoris Malvern' in crastino Beati Matthei apostoli præterito proximo visitationis officium exercentibus, fratre Willelmo de Ledebury, tunc dictæ domus priore, ex certis justis et legitimis causis in ipso actu visitationis deposito, servato juris ordine undecunque, ac suppriori et aliis de conventu tributa licentia per nos eligendi alium canonice in priorem, supprior ipse ac ceteri de conventu omnes et singuli fratrem Willelmum de Wikewane, tunc priorem de AVECOTE, COVENT' et LICH' diocesis, suum confratrem, omni contradictionis obstaculo cessante, in suum concorditer elegerunt priorem. asserens inter cetera se velle . . . abbatem Westmonasteriensem ex certis causis adire, extunc reversurus celeriter ad nos pro sua confirmatione secundum sanctiones canonicas obtinenda, ipso abbate Westmonasteriensi tunc apud Salopiam existente. Ad quem cum ipse accessisset electus, idem abbas veluti ei vehementer applaudens, eundem electum, Ricardum de Mathine, Ricardum de Burlingham, et Robertum dictum Wyther confratres suos sequentes eum, ibidem retinebat in mensa; familia sua, equis et phaleris interim in quodam loco satis vicino dimissis. Qui quidem abbas res electi predicti, equos et cetera bona ad locum quo ipse abbas moram traxerat, præcepit seu procuravit adduci; qua præsumptione contra prædictum abbatem, ut præmittitur, operante, electus præfatus caute volens recedere, ut graviora pericula evitaret, ab ipso abbate comeatum recepit, et sic vix domum illam egressus, ab ipsius abbatis familiaribus in porta exitus, cujus annulum tenebat in manu, detentus existit, et per violentiam redire coactus: et illico electus ipse cum suis commonachis memoratis custodibus traditus per abbatem prædictum ac alios suos complices, in totius sanctæ religionis contemptum, ac quoad humanitatem quamcunque perniciosum exemplum, et ministrorum Christi scandalum manifestum, nec non ecclesiarum Cantuariensis et Wygorniensis præjudicium non modicum et gravamen, in diversis curribus, tanquam famosi latrones, diris vinculis alligati, veritatis via et semita misericordiæ desertis penitus, ponebantur. Sicque, quod dolentes referimus, inde ad Westmonasterium prædictis curribus quibusdam frandis et dissimulationis velaminibus coopertis, non absque gravi præjudicio libertatis ecclesiasticæ, clam quasi nocturnis temporibus, ducebantur. In quo quidem loco dictus electus, Ricardus de Mathine, et Ricardus de Burlyngham hucusque manserunt, et adhuc remanent seorsum et separatim divisi, ut ipsorum augeantur angores, diræ carcerali custodiæ mancipati, prædicto fratre Roberto Wyther præ nimii doloris angustia jam viam universæ carnis ingresso. Et dictus abbas Westmonasteriensis tam per dominum nostrum regem Angliæ secundum leges communes ipsius regni, quam per nos pro jure nostræ ecclesiæ Wygorniensis, nostræ jurisdictionis etiam ac pietatis intuitu, ad liberationem dictorum electi et fratrum, qui nostri subditi dinoscuntur, faciendam, multotiens in forma juris monitus et inductus, spiritu rebellionis quoad utrumque hominem in eo forsan vigente, prædictos miseros solito severius detinet, et jubet arctius cruciari; præmissaque omnia et singula per totam nostram diocesem necnon per Cantuariensem provinciam pro maxima parte notoria et publica undique reputantur. In cujus rei testimonium vestræ sanctæ paternitati transmittimus, secundum vestri mandati prædicti exigentiam, literas has patentes. Datum apud Widind', x. kal. Aprilis MCCLXXXII.

PECKHAM TO THE BISHOP OF WORCESTER.

Frater Johannes permissione divina Cantuariensis ecclesiae minister humilis, totius Angliae primas, venerabili fratri domino Godfrido Dei gratia Wygorniensis episcopo, salutem et sinceram in Domino caritatem. Licet pacis et concordiae foedera, amputato iurgiorum discidio et litium amfractibus circumscriptis, prompto favore et jugis mentis nostrae studiis prosequi affectemus; tamen ea divinitus abhorremus, quae pro pace hominis transitoria, eam quae ad Deum est, perimunt pacem veram. Sane per ora loquentium immo potius obloquentium fidedignis relatibus divulgato rumore vix credibili, didiscimus admirantes, quod vos jurisdictionem quae vobis in priorem et conventum monasterii Majoris Malvern a jure communi attribuitur exercenda, et ad nos et ad successores nostros Wygorniensis ecclesiae sede vacante dinoscitur pertinere, certis possessionibus temporalium rerum vobis hac occasione concessis, transactionis seu compositionis interveniente remedio penitus remisistis; quod non absque juris injuria, nostraeque Cantuariensis ecclesiae libertatis elusione; ac etiam propriae professionis qua corporali praestito juramento astringi dinoscimini, ecclesiae memoratae contemptu potuistis aliquatenus attemperare. Quocirca fraternitatem vestram puro desiderio requirimus et rogamus, quatenus juxta sibi datam a Deo prudentiam exactissima diligentia vel exacta cogitet et decernat, quid in praemissis liceat secundum aequitatem, quid expediat secundum utilitatem, et tertio, quid deceat secundum canonicam honestatem; ne praefata compo-

CCCLXXI.

TO MAUD LUNGESPEYE.

Friar John, by the permission of God, archbishop of Canterbury, primate of all England, to the lady of great worth, Maud Lungespeye, greeting, and the blessing of Jesus Christ. My lady, your prayer agrees with pity and reason. But know that Llewellyn, who was prince of Wales, cannot be absolved unless he showed signs of repentance at his death to amend and leave his follies. Therefore if this is certain that he was repentant at his death, and ready as far as was in his power to make amends¹ to Holy Church, and this is proved before us, we will do what is right about it, for otherwise, without doing wrong, he cannot be absolved. Therefore we approve that you and his other friends should labour about this, that some of those who were at his death should come in time before us and show the signs aforesaid, for in any other manner we can do nothing.

TO EDWARD I.

To my lord the King. To his very dear lord Edward, by the grace of God king of England, lord of Ireland, duke of Aquitaine, friar John, by the permission of God, archbishop of Canterbury, primate of all England, greeting in great reverence. Sire, know that those who were at the death of Llewellyn found in the most secret part of his body some small things which we have seen. Among the other things there was a treason-able letter disguised by false names. And that you may be warned, we send a copy of the letter to the bishop of Bath, and the letter itself Edmund de Mortemer has, with Llewellyn's privy seal, and these things you may have at your pleasure. And this we send to warn you, and not that any one should be troubled for it. And we pray you that no one may suffer death or mutilation in consequence of our information, and that what we send you may be secret. Besides this, sire, know that lady Maud Lungespeye prayed us by letter to absolve Llewellyn, that he might be buried in consecrated ground, and we sent word to her that we would do nothing if it could not be proved that he showed signs of true repentance before his death. And Edmund de Mortemer said to me that he had heard from his servants who were at the death that he asked for the priest before his death, but without sure certainty we will do nothing. Besides this, sire, know that the very day that he was killed, a white monk sang mass to him, and my lord Roger de Mortemer has the vestments. Besides this, sire, we request you to take pity on clerks, that you will suffer no one to kill them nor do them bodily injury. And know, sire, God protect you from evil, if you do not prevent it to your power, you fall into the sentence, for to suffer what one can prevent is the same as consent. And, therefore, sire, we pray you that it may please you that the clerks who are in Snowdon may go thence and seek¹ better things with their property in France or elsewhere. For because we believe that Snowdon will be yours, if it happen that in conquering or afterwards, harm is done to clerks, God will accuse you of it, and your good renown will be blemished, and we shall be considered a coward. And of these things, sire, if it please you, send us your pleasure, for we will give thereto what counsel we can, either by going thither or by some other way. And know, sire, if you do not fulfil our prayer, you will put us in sadness, which we shall never leave in this mortal life. Sire, God keep you, and all that belongs to you.

APPENDIX I., No. IV.

ELEANOR, QUEEN DOWAGER, TO EDWARD I. .

Eleanor, by the grace of God, queen of England, to our very dear son Edward, by the same grace king of England, greeting and our blessing. We have heard from the archbishop of Canterbury, and also from the bishop of Worcester, who have informed us thereof by their letters, that the abbot of Westminster has taken a monk of Great Malvern, named William de Wykewane, because he was elected to be prior of the same place. He has sent him to London, and placed him there in close prison, both himself and two monks with him, of whom one is dead in prison, as we have heard. And because that this William is nephew of the cardinal, we would willingly help in his deliverance, if we knew how or could. And because we know no other help but you, we pray you, sweet son, to procure his deliverance for the love of us. Do so much in the matter, dear son, that he may know that our prayer has been effectual. We commend you to God. Given at Marlborough the 26th day of February. 1283.

CCCCV.

TO EDWARD I.

To the very noble prince and lord Edward, by the grace of God king of England, lord of Ireland, duke of Aquitaine, friar John, by the permission of God priest of Canterbury, primate of all England, greeting and blessing and good fortune as great and good as we can and know how to pray for. Sire, we pray you that you will inform us of your estate, which God keep and maintain, for we desire to know and hear your good prosperity with all our heart. Besides this, sire, know that we have caused the clergy to be summoned now twice, without the notification that we made to them at Northampton, that they should be before us at London three weeks after Easter. For which thing many of them speak much to our detraction and defame us, and accuse us of troubling them too much to do your pleasure, and that we have cheated them of the fifteenth which they have given, for they acknowledge no allegiance to 1283.

the exactions of the lay court, and notwithstanding this we will omit nothing in doing our duty and our power loyally at the foresaid assembly. And know, sire, that we are not vexed by anything as much as by prohibitions, when they come against the law of the land by false suggestions, in such cases you do not wish them to be observed, for by this are many goods taken away, in consequence of the poverty of those who sue, and the power of their enemies, and all those who do thus are excommunicated ipso facto. For God's sake, sire, and for our Lady and for the love of St. Thomas, cause this wrong to be removed speedily. For we say to you before God that you cannot maintain it without mortal sin, from which God keep you, and amend those who procure it. Besides this, sire, we have heard that he who was constable of the Tower of London, and the others who dragged the fugitives out of St. Paul's church in London and killed them, are in your service in Wales, for which thing we require you to order them to be removed from your service until this misdeed is redressed according to the forms of holy church; for know, sire, that the affair cannot stop here in any way. Sire, the good faith towards God and holy church that you had once in your mouth, be pleased to show in deed in these matters, and you will feel the grace of our Lord. Besides this, sire, for God's sake think that your . . . ¹ the most beautiful of your life before God and before the world. Sire, God keep you long in prosperity to his honour and yours, and to the profit of your soul, and of your kingdom.

TO EDWARD I.

[1283.] To the very high lord Edward, by the grace of God king of [15 April.] England, lord of Ireland, duke of Aquitaine, friar John, by the permission of God priest of Canterbury, primate of all England, greeting and devout prayers. Sire, when we approached Canterbury our people told us strange enough news, that the people of the country by your command had taken goods from our own manors, which thing was never touched or granted at Northampton, and is in prejudice of our franchise. For which thing, sire, we request you that you will command your officers not to trouble us in this manner, especially as we had in our purpose to serve and honour you in another manner, which would be more profitable to you and without prejudice to us. But we acknowledge indeed that we granted that our people should help you, but that we should have your letters patent that it should not turn to our prejudice hereafter. And, sire, what we beg for ourselves, we request for our church, to which we are bound as to ourselves. Therefore, sire, we request you, for God's sake, to order the assessors of the thirtieth and the sheriff of Kent not to trouble us in that manner, and we believe that if you do it, it will be to the honour of God and of you, and you will know this by the result. Sire, God have you in his keeping. This letter was written at Canterbury on Maundy Thursday.

And, sire, what we request you to write to the assessors and the sheriff of Kent, we request you for Sussex, Surrey, and Middlesex in which we have lands. Sire, [we commend you] to God that he may keep you.

CCCCXXIII.

To EDWARD I.

To the very honourable prince and lord Edward, by the grace of God king of England, lord of Ireland, duke of Aquitaine, friar John, by the permission of God, priest of Canterbury, primate of all England, greeting in great reverence. Sire, all reason commands, and holy scripture wills that your requests should be commands to us as far as we can according to God; and we believe that your requests are according to God in every thing, in cases in which you have been shown the truth. But where false suggestions have been made to you, you may be deceived like us. This is the case with the priory of St. Oswald's Gloucester, of which we excommunicated lately the prior and the seniors of the place, because they did not receive us at the visitation, and you prayed us to revoke the sentence. Of which thing, sire, we give you to know that this prior and his canons are the strongest enemies that are in England in all delegated causes, to our, that is your, sire, church of Canterbury. For which thing we do not wish, saving your reverence, to revoke the aforesaid sentence, except by form of law. Nor do we think that you would for a robber(?) confound your principal chamber. Besides this, sire, know that as your chapels are exempt by exemption, granted as they say by reason of your royalty, when they are alienated from your hand and given to others, they return to their first nature of subjection to prelates and lose their exemption. And if your clerks give you to understand anything else they deceive you, God amend them. Besides this, sire, because James de Espaigne is under age, and not legitimate, as is said, and can have no right in holy church, and because a resignation of a church made on condition turns to simony, we pray you, for the honour of God and yourself, that concerning the church of Crundale you will not suffer anything to be done in your name contrary to the laws of holy church, for that you cannot suffer without tarnishing the honour of Christendom and yourself. And these things we tell you in the loyalty which we have sworn to you. Besides this, sire, we make you other requests by our very dear brother, the bishop of Bath, and we pray that you will hear him about them, for the honour of God and yourself, which we desire more than ours, as God knows. Very dear lord, God maintain your life well and long to His honour, to the profit of your soul, and the profit of your realm.

23 May.

To the very high prince and lord Edward, by the grace of God king of England, lord of Ireland, duke of Aquitaine, friar John, by the permission of God priest of Canterbury, primate of all England, greeting in great reverence. Sire, the king Solomon said, that "Mercy and truth preserve the king, and " clemency, that is pity, upholds his throne."¹ For which thing we are grieved and sad when harsh and cruel commandments come from your court. For as long as God maintains your throne we are safe, with the souls which we have in keeping. But we are sorely astonished at the severities which, as we have heard, you have commanded against the bishop of Winchester, which surpass the good deeds of your ancestors, and arise, as they say, from one thing, which touches us, the church of Crundale, which was given according to the franchise of St. Thomas to one of our chaplains. In which church great disorder has been done and great despite to God, against the laws which Jesus Christ delivered to St. Peter by his blessed mouth. For which thing, sire, we supplicate your majesty that for the mercy of God you will suffer that in these things, mercy and truth may preserve the king, and turn your heart; and that you will have pity on our dear brother the bishop of Winchester, and on his bishopric, and on our chaplain the parson of Crundale, according to God and reason. And we cannot believe that the severities aforesaid come from you, from whom we have seen and heard so many goodnesses, so many humilities, so many mercies, which we have preached to all the world. And therefore, sire, we pray you, for God's sake, that you will cause these things to be amended. And if you do not, know certainly that God will be angry, by his customs which he has written and kept since the beginning of the world. Sire, for God's sake, let pity overcome you, keep holy church in the state in which your ancestors have kept it, by amendment, for the love of my lord St. Thomas, to whom we commend your body and soul. Sire, for God's sake, do not suffer to be taken for liars those who have valued so much your good faith and your good will. Sire, God have you in his keeping.

To QUEEN ELEANOR.

To the very high lady Eleanor, by grace of God queen of England, lady of Ireland, duchess of Aquitaine, friar John, by the permission of God priest of Canterbury, primate of all England, greeting in great reverence. Madam, the saints teach us that women are naturally more pitiful and more devout than men, and therefore, says the scripture, "Ubi non

"est mulier ingemiscit egens."¹ And because God has given you greater honour than to others of your lordship, it is right that your pity should surpass the pity of all men and women in your lordship. Wherefore we request you, for God's sake and our Lady's, that you will incline the heart of our lord the king, towards our dear brother, the bishop of Winchester. And know, madam, that the severities which are done to him, the church of Rome will take as done to itself, and that will not be good, as the times go now. Madam, we require you, for God's sake, that you will do so much in this matter, that those who say that you cause the king to use severity, may see and know the contrary. And so we are certain that God will be angry with all those who in this affair do not justify themselves. Madam, for God's sake, let pity overcome you, and our Lord keep you, body and soul, for ever.  17 June.

To the very high prince and lord Edward, by the grace of God king of England, lord of Ireland, and duke of Aquitaine, friar John, by the permission of God priest of Canterbury, primate of all England, greeting in great reverence. Sire, we pray you to remember that we said to you once while speaking before many people, that we would rather die than provoke you much against reason. For which saying we have often been blamed, and we have never repented of it, that we know. And therefore, very dear sire, do not believe that we in any way will do anything to displease your lordship. Of which, sire, we give you to know that falsehoods have been told to you about Master Bonet. For never, by reason of your chapel of Bridgenorth, have we vexed either him or another, nor do we desire to vex by name any man in your service. And concerning this chapel and others, we will defend your franchises according to our power against all persons in good faith, as far as we can know and understand them. But, sire, we caused to be sequestrated the fruits of Aldington church because he (the parson) holds damnably two benefices, the archdeaconry of Limoges and the deanery of Bridgenorth, without dispensation, and with them the church of Aldington, which thing he cannot do nor we suffer it without acting against God and against our salvation; and he has often promised us that he would show us his dispensation, and every time he has deceived us. And then lately by his will and by his assent we appointed him St. Margaret's Day for him to come and show his privilege, and if he shows it to be sufficient, we will allow him to enjoy it in peace, and if he deceives us, we pray you, dear lord, to suffer us to do our office; and concerning that and other things to send us your pleasure, which we are as ready to accomplish as we were when you sent us at your expense and on your horses to pope John. Besides this, sire, we give you to know that in visiting the chapter of Chichester, we heard for certain, from a judge delegate, who desired us to denounce Ralph de Fremingeham as excommunicated, that he is still under the same sentence, for which you formerly removed him from your service. Sire, God have you in His keeping and all whom you love.

CCCCLXXXIV.

TO QUEEN ELEANOR.

To the very high lady Eleanor, by the grace of God queen of England, lady of Ireland, duchess of Aquitaine, friar John, by the permission of God priest of Canterbury, greeting, and the prayers of a sinner. My lady, I thank you much for the consolatory letters which you kindly sent me by Sir Nicholas de Knovile, and for your good venison from the New Forest, and I pray our Lord God to give you great honour in this life and the eternal. Besides this, my lady, I give you to know that, lately passing by our town, near Dover, which is called Westcliffe, I heard by the complaint of the people of the town that they are destroyed and oppressed because more is demanded of them for the farm of the town than it amounts to. For which thing, if pity does not take hold of you, they are at that point that it is better for them to leave lands and tenements, and go to beg their bread. Besides this, for God's sake, my lady, when you receive land or manor acquired by usury of Jews, take heed that usury is a mortal sin to those who take the usury and those who support it, and those who have a share of it, if they do not return it. And therefore I say to you, my very dear lady, before God and before the court of heaven, that you cannot retain things thus acquired, if you do not make amends to those who have lost them, in another way, as much as they are worth more than the principal debt. You must therefore return the things acquired to the Christians who have lost them, saving to yourself as much as the principal debt amounts to, for more the usurer cannot give you. My lady, know that I am telling you the lawful truth, and if any one gives you to understand anything else he is a heretic. I do not believe that you retain in any other manner things thus acquired, but I would wish to know it by your letter, so that I can make it known to those who think otherwise. My lady, God have you in his keeping always.

This letter was written at Tenham, where I have had made a very beautiful chapel to solace you when you pass this way, and truly more for the ease of your body than of mine.

DXXVI.

TO THE EARL OF GLOUCESTER.

9 March. To his very dear friend, greeting and the blessing of God. Sire, know that your bailiffs were before us on Tuesday in the second week of Lent, at Otford, and when we said to them that we wished to treat of our grievances according to the articles which we sent to you last year under our seal, and of your grievances also, they answered us that they had no commandment from you to speak except of your grievances, and we said to them that we had heard that your will was that peace should be made entirely on both sides. Wherefore the articles on both sides were recorded before us, and we saw and heard that the discord between your bailiffs and ours arises from the fact that they do not understand the composition in the same manner, for it is obscure in several points. Therefore, sire, if this affair is to be ended, it is fitting that you and we should meet together, and your council and ours, while we are in Kent or near London, where we shall be found as we think certainly until a month after Easter. Besides this, sire, know that for several points which can be settled without you, we have fixed a day for your bailiff to answer these points, on the fourth day of Easter week, that is Wednesday, at Wingham. But nothing great or notable can be settled without your presence. Wherefore we pray you to send us your wish by the bearer of these letters. Besides, sire, because we fear that you may have lost the articles of our grievances which we sent you last year, we send them to you by the bearer of these letters under our seal. And we request you to think of giving attention thereto, as you wish that your [bailiffs] may be satisfied, for peace is nothing unless it is entire. We believe certainly that your intent is, and your wish that it should be settled permanently. Sire, God have you in his keeping for ever.

This letter was written the ninth day of March at Otteford.

 DLIV.

To EDWARD I.

To the very honourable prince and lord Edward, by the grace of God, etc. Sire, although I am over the bishops of my province in causes and in pleas, notwithstanding, sire, in their office I have no power except in certain cases by their default or by their express wish, as your learned clerks know. And therefore, sire, although I am ready, as far as is in me, to dedicate the place for the Cistercian monks at Meynan, yet I could not do it without full assent of the bishop and of his chapter, and of the parson of the place, who, with plenty of other people, have a very great horror of the approach of the foresaid monks. For though they may be good men, if God please, still they are the hardest neighbours that prelates and parsons could have. For where they plant their foot, they destroy towns, take away tithes, and curtail by their privileges all the power of prelacy. And especially in this case, the clergy of the bishopric of St. Asaph consider themselves aggrieved, because there are four white abbeys there, and if this is planted, there there will be five, and the bishop of Bangor has not one. Wherefore, sire, it appears to me that it would please God more if you placed your abbey somewhere in the bishopric of Bangor, especially because they have in that bishopric, in Anglesey, and elsewhere, the greater part of their property. Besides, sire, know that the bishop of St. Asaph asked advice of his chapter, and the chapter would not agree to this thing in any manner, as he said to us and many others, but would rather appeal against him than this thing take place. And therefore sire, and for other things and reasons, this thing cannot be done until I have spoken to you. And for God's sake, sire, let it not vex you, but rather let pity take hold of you for those who are grieved in many other manners. And know, sire, that I tell you these things without dissimulation and without duplicity. And know that you will do great alms if you change your good purpose for a better. Sire, God have you in his keeping.

14 June.
